PARLIAMENTARY NOTICE

THE FAVERSHAM OYSTER FISHERY ACT, 1930.

In accordance with the provisions of the Faversham Oyster Fishery Act, 1930 (hereinafter in this Notice referred to as "the Act") NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that by the sections of the Act hereinafter mentioned it was (inter alia) provided as follows (that is to say):—

(Note.—By the Act the several words and expressions set out in the left-hand column of the following table were defined to bear the meanings set out opposite thereto respectively in the right-hand column thereof (namely):

Word or expression	Meaning assigned thereto
"The Company"	the Faversham Oyster Fishery Company incorporated by the Act.
"The existing Company"	the Company or Fraternity of Free Fishermen and Dredgermen of the Manor and Hundred of Faversham in the County of Kent.
"The qualifying date"	the end of the eighteenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine.
"The Act of 1840"	the Act passed in the third year of the reign of Queen Victoria intituled "An Act for granting certain powers to the Faversham Oyster Fishery Company."
"The Water Court Orders"	the Orders made by any general annual Court or special general court of the existing Company held in pursuance of the Act of 1840 or by any Court of the Water Courts held previously to the passing of the Act of 1840 and referred to in the Preamble to that Act.
"Freeman"	a person duly admitted to the freedom of the existing Company and enrolled in the list of members of the existing Company in pursuance of the provisions of the Act of 1840.
"Deed of Apprenticeship"	an indenture or deed of apprenticeship duly prepared executed and enrolled in accordance with the Water Court Orders for the time being in force.
"Apprentice"	a person who being the son of a Freeman and unmarried is serving as an apprentice to a Freeman of not less than seven years' standing under a deed of apprenticeship for a period of apprenticeship of not less than seven years.
"Past Apprentice"	a person who has completed his service as an apprentice and has not become a Freeman, married during his apprenticeship and has not become a Freeman.

1. By Section 17 (Allotment of original shares to freemen) of the Act it was provided that there should be allotted to and vested in every person who at the qualifying date was living and a Freeman (or in the case of any such Freeman who shall have died after the qualifying date to and in his legal personal representatives) or to and in his (or their) nominees for that purpose two hundred original shares in the Company, and that such shares should be issued as fully paid up and should be accepted by the persons respectively entitled thereto in substitution for any interest, right, or claim such Freeman or his legal personal representatives as aforesaid might have in to or against the existing Company as such or against any of the Freemen or Members of the existing Company as such or against any of the officers or the jury of that Company.

2. By Section 19 (Further provisions as to persons entitled to allotment) of the Act it was further (inter alia) provided that the directors of the Company should as soon as practicable after the thirty-first day of July 1930 enter in the register of shareholders of the Company the names of all persons whose addresses they might know or be able by reasonable inquiry to ascertain and with respect to whom it should appear to the Directors that they were entitled to the immediate allotment of fully paid original shares in the Company; and further that in the case of every person whose name is not entered in the register of shareholders as made up by the Directors in accordance with the last mentioned provision but with respect to whom it shall be established to the reasonable satisfaction of the Directors within a period of (if he qualifies for allotment by the title of a freeman or past apprentice) two years after the 31st day of July, 1930, that he is entitled to the immediate allotment of fully paid original shares in the Company under the provisions of the Act the name shall be entered by the Directors in the register of shareholders in respect of such shares forthwith upon his title thereto being so established.

AND NOTICE IS HEREBY ALSO GIVEN that all persons claiming to qualify for allotment of fully paid original shares in the Company under the Act by the title of a Freeman or Past Apprentice of the existing Company should give notice in writing of their claims to the undersigned. Any such notice should be given without delay and should be accompanied by full name and address of the claimant, Certificate or other evidence of birth, Indenture of Apprenticeship (in failing this, the full name of the Freeman to whom he was apprenticed) and Certificate of Marriage, if married. In addition to the above, Probate of the Will or Letters of Administration of the Estate of any Freeman or Apprentice who has died since the 18th July, 1929, should be produced.

Dated the 13th day of June 1930.

NOTTINGHAM, JUNE 13

The first day of the first Test Match has left all the honours with the Australians, and with C. V. Grimmett in particular. Rain held up play for a time in the afternoon, but that England at the end of the day had scored only 241 runs for the loss of eight wickets was in the main due to Grimmett's truly wonderful bowling before the luncheon interval, when the conditions were all in favour of the team who had first use of a beautiful pitch. At one moment it seemed likely that the Australian bowlers, who, it must now be admitted, have been under-estimated, would run through England's great batsmen, for both Fairfax and Wall were also bowling in the manner of Test Match bowlers. Hobbs once again, however, played the great man's part, and if ever a captain did deserve the worn-out compliment of "playing a captain's innings," it must be accorded to Chapman.

Bad light after luncheon and a long pause afterwards (while the crowd pondered on the miseries of 1926) were only incidental to a day's cricket in which the glory lay in Grimmett's bowling. He was called upon when only 13 runs had been scored, and from that moment he controlled the game. Hobbs he kept quiet without trying any pranks, and to the others he offered just the ball to which they would play the false stroke. Hobbs batted on as if he were the only good cricketer on the side, and, after Chapman had shown what a left-hander could do, Larwood and Robins put the game in a more favourable state from England's point of view. But it must be admitted that Grimmett, on the day, was the master.

A CAPTAIN'S DUTY

The teams took the shape which was expected, with K. S. Duleepsinhji as England's twelfth man, and Chapman dutifully won the toss, an advantage at any time, but all the more so when his batsmen have won through a day with the smell of rain in the air. The first ball of the first Test Match is always the greatest of all during the season, and it was Wall's honour to bowl it from the City end. Hobbs and Sutcliffe started as they would be expected to do; pushes in front of the wicket and a threat to attempt short runs. Fairfax, from the Pavilion end, once made Sutcliffe play an unmeant stroke through the slips, and Wall at least bowled straight. Woodfull soon changed his bowling, and, with Grimmett on at the Pavilion end and Hornibrook at the other, Hobbs and Sutcliffe were still working away. Sutcliffe, when he had made only 10, was missed at short-slip off Grimmett, but he was then probably feeling the effects of a blow on the fingers that he had received from Wall a few overs before. The first hour's play produced only 41 runs with only two strokes for the crowd to remember, both played by Hobbs, one on the on side and one on the off.

Fairfax at 51 was put on at the City end, having been taken off at the other end remarkably soon, and with the total at 53 he got a wicket which he well deserved when Sutcliffe put a ball into first slip's hands. Hammond played two strokes, each for 4, one forced off his body to the on and one through the covers, before Grimmett produced his great achievement of the morning and, in fact, of the day. He first bowled one through with top spin, which had Hammond out leg-before-wicket, and he then bowled a ball of which anyone might dream—a googly to a left-hander of such perfect length that Woolley had to lean out to it and, quite properly, was stumped. The Australians were then quite naturally chuckling with joy, and Hendren, who was never at his ease, stayed for only a very short duel with Grimmett, who made him run up and down the pitch before he bowled him. The luncheon interval came with the total at 91 for four wickets and with Hobbs the only batsman, so far, who had shown any signs of making runs.

THE CORRECT DEFENCE

Rain and bad light allowed of only a quarter of an hour's play after luncheon, but when they came out again at 3 o'clock Chapman at once showed the intentions of his team. He hit six 4's, five of them past cover-point and one just not quite where he intended, and suddenly the score-board was looking quite different. Both Fairfax and Grimmett bowled well to Hobbs, but the packing of the slips for Chapman's nibble was not successful. When they had taken the score to the respectable amount of 153 Chapman was well caught by Ponsford, who ran from long-off to deep extra-cover with the ball going away from him, and at 20 minutes to four, with Hobbs still playing as if he wondered why any one else had got out, rain drove everyone to shelter.

When they did come out again at a quarter past five Larwood, promoted very high in the batting order, played as if he would stay with Hobbs until the end of the day, but first he went and then the Australians obtained their greatest plum of the day when Hobbs, who had never shown the slightest sign of a poor stroke, was caught in the slips. Robins, in the meantime, had batted as easily as any of his more distinguished confrères, but in the last over of the day Tate played a ball hard on to his wicket and so England were still left struggling.

GLOUCESTERSHIRE WIN

KENT BEATEN AT BRISTOL

Gloucestershire beat Kent at Bristol yesterday by 117 runs, and with an hour and a half to spare. When Gloucestershire continued their second innings they were not afraid to make a victory likely, instead of barely possible, by risking wickets in the pursuit of hastily made runs. As it happened, they added only 54 to their overnight score of 191 for four, but they left Kent the substantial task of making 274 in the remaining 4¾ hours.

By taking eight more wickets for 101 Freeman made his analysis for the match 14 for 198. Even this did not quite sustain his average of approximately 13 runs a Gloucestershire wicket over a long period of years. Dipper's share of the Gloucestershire total was a 66 that took him three and a half hours to make, but his innings was full of excellent strokes once his own anxiety to break a bad sequence of innings and the shaky start of the side had been surmounted. Neale, too, played his best innings of the season in helping Dipper to put on 73 for the fifth wicket. The partnership, moreover, was interrupted by the close of play on Thursday.

The most serious thing that happened to Gloucestershire, however, was not the comparative failure of their last six batsmen, but an injury to Parker, on whom, along with Goddard, nearly everything depended when Kent's time came to play the last innings of the match. Parker, like everyone else, went in to make runs quickly, regardless of risks. Unfortunately, after he had made six, he scooped into his own face a ball from Freeman that he was trying to slog round to leg. A cut over the left eye not only forced him to retire hurt, but kept him out of the field when the Kent innings was begun at a quarter to 1. Parker appeared after the luncheon interval, but not to bowl for a long time. Sinfield went on at the pavilion end, and kept on exploiting his leg theory until nearly half-past 3, when the Kent score had risen to 102, and there remained seven more wickets to fall. Goddard went on, bowling at the other end without much luck, for he just missed the stumps several times, and the failure of Smith to stump Akers-Douglas cost valuable time and energy, apart from a matter of 15 runs.

Ashdown had opened the Kent innings with Hardinge this time, and helped to make 44 before luncheon. Hardinge, who again got his eye in quickly, and hit seven 4's in the course of a very attractive innings of 33, was leg-before-wicket to Sinfield. Ashdown survived for some little time after luncheon, and looked set when he had his wicket thrown down brilliantly by Dacre, one of the best of the Gloucestershire fieldsmen, and generally to be found in the region of cover.

The score rose to 102, Parker replaced Sinfield, and the whole game changed. Parker got Akers-Douglas caught off a mis-hit to cover for a 25 that was promising to become 50 or more. This made the score 115 for four. Goddard, assisted by B. H. Lyon, took Crawford's wicket, and half the Kent side were out for 134. Then, in the next over and at the same total, Ames, who had been hitting fairly hard, but nearly always to a fieldsman, was easily stumped in stepping out to drive a ball from Parker. G. B. Legge scored the next five runs, but also was well beaten by the flight of a ball from Parker, and, in his case, bowled. Wright made a brave effort to knock Parker off his length, but was well caught by Goddard, who ran back to and held a skier at mid-off. That was at 153, and in the five minutes that followed a tea interval the wickets of Freeman and Peach also fell. Parker took five of the last seven Kent wickets for 28 runs.

SUSSEX SAVE THE GAME

STUBBORN BATTING

Thanks to some splendid batting by A. H. H. Gilligan, a patient innings of 60 not out by L. Williams which lasted over three and a half hours, and a hard-hit 41 by H. Parks, Sussex succeeded in drawing their match with Lancashire at Old Trafford, being six runs ahead with three wickets in hand when stumps were pulled up.

The last three Sussex wickets put on 64 runs yesterday morning, and if A. H. H. Gilligan had, as he had every right to do, rated his own powers more highly and run more astutely for the bowling, Sussex might easily have saved the follow on. The light when play was begun was almost worse than it had been on Thursday evening, but the wicket, although an occasional ball was apt to come off at a height no batsman could reasonably have anticipated, behaved well enough on the whole. Hammond played exactly the right innings. He kept a rigorously straight bat, and so did not force Gilligan to try for runs he did not feel he could make. Gilligan continued to bat as he had done on Thursday, and the majority of his runs once more came from strokes that forced the well pitched-up ball on his legs away to square-leg. At 109, however, he lost Hammond, caught at first slip off a ball of Hodgson's that rose abruptly and obliged him to play at it. Only seven runs later Hollingdale, playing a purely defensive stroke at McDonald, got the ball high up on the bat, and was caught close in on the leg side by P. T. Eckersley. Hodgson, an immensely improved bowler who worried the Sussex batsmen right through the innings, should have had Cornford caught at backward-point immediately he came in, but Iddon dropped the ball, and the last wicket stand remained unbroken long enough to make the question of the follow on an open one. Gilligan made his 50 by reaching forward to Hodgson and finding he had scored a boundary at the sight-screen behind him, but there was everything of skill and timing and nothing at all of luck in the three 4's he hit on the on-side. Soon afterwards he ran a most unnecessary single to bring Crawford opposite Hodgson and Hodgson was bowling well enough to make Crawford's survival a matter of extreme uncertainty. As it happened, he played as defensive a stroke as Hollingdale had done and this time Eckersley happened to be at silly mid-off.

Sussex went in again just before 1 o'clock 167 runs behind and in the half hour's play McDonald, bowling as though he meant to win the match, got rid of Bowley, Hodgson at fourth slip holding on to a ball that came very fast off the edge of the bat. The Lancashire fielding was a considerable asset to Sussex after luncheon. Hopwood missed J. Parks off McDonald in the slips when that batsman had made 17, but his slip fielding otherwise earned very high marks, and he redeemed his mistake by holding an equally hard catch with the total at 46. One over later Cook was well caught by Eckersley at mid-off off Hopwood. Williams, without whom Sussex would have lost the match, might have been caught at the wicket when he had made 13, and at cover-point when he was 18, but he survived to help Gilligan in a partnership which put on 41 runs. The wicket was never quite docile, but the batsmen watched the ball carefully and just when they seemed to have made the game safe Gilligan moved across to play Hopwood and with the ball not spinning away as much as he expected was out l.-b.-w.

After tea H. Parks, realizing that, although Sussex could not conceivably win, runs were important, took risks to get them and in his 41 there were seven boundaries. These risks were justified, and when he gave Eckersley his sixth catch of the match, playing a suicidal stroke off McDonald, Sussex were only seven runs behind, with 45 minutes left for play and the invaluable Williams was still there to make a drawn game a certainty.

LAST-WICKET STAND FOR WARWICKSHIRE

Yorkshire beat Warwickshire by eight wickets at Edgbaston yesterday, the home county thus suffering their first defeat of the season.

A magnificent last-wicket partnership between Santall and Sanders, which realized 128 in a hundred minutes' almost saved the match. Sanders joined Santall when 30 were required to save defeat in a single innings, and so well did they bat that Yorkshire needed 99 for victory when Sanders was dismissed. This stand is a Warwickshire record for the last wicket, beating that of 126 by Wyatt and Mayer at the Oval in 1927. It is also the highest against Yorkshire, exceeding the 106 made by Brown and Kennedy at Bournemouth in 1913. Sanders was given his county cap.

Warwickshire, who had lost five wickets for 112 on Thursday, required 104 to make Yorkshire bat a second time, and although Santall defended stubbornly he could find no one to stay with him till he was joined by Sanders. Santall, who had to have a runner, was missed in the slips when he had made eight, but he played brilliant cricket in scoring his first hundred of the season.

ESSEX WIN AT LORD'S

EARLY MIDDLESEX DISASTERS

Essex beat Middlesex at Lord's yesterday by nine wickets, and so scored their first victory in the County Championship this season. Middlesex, strong side though they can be if they can play their best team, have yet to win a county match this year.

Yesterday morning Middlesex, with J. L. Guise already out, were still 102 runs short of the Essex total on the first innings. There was, of course, nothing for them to do but play for a draw, and a drawn match, on that wicket, they should have been able to make it. In the circumstances it was almost criminal that the first two wickets of the day should fall through run-outs. Lee was out very early. H. M. Morris is always the wrong man to whom to attempt a short run, and on this occasion, besides getting to the ball very quickly and gathering it perfectly, he also threw the wicket down. H. J. Enthoven seemed likely to play another characteristic innings, philosophically slow at first and enjoyable to himself and the spectators later on. A misunderstanding over an unnecessary run, coupled with a smart piece of fielding by T. N. Pearce, ended in his being run out, with the score at 92, for 35. After that no sort of risk could be taken, though the making of runs was important as well as the keeping up of wickets; in the end the number of runs Essex were set to get would be as important as the time they were allowed to bat. Both Haig and Hearne, therefore, took such runs as were obviously safe. Haig, however, was rather unlucky at 16 to hit a ball back so straight and so hard at Russell that he had to catch it, if only in self-defence; as a matter of fact Russell has still one of the safest pairs of hands in the country, though he now prefers his catches above the knee.

While Hearne, who was now batting extremely well, and G. C. Newman were together, Middlesex seemed more than likely to save the game, as Newman was apparently seeing the ball just as well as he did on Wednesday. When he had made 17, however, he was beaten and bowled by a very good ball from A. G. Daer which seemed to come almost twice the normal pace off the pitch. Hearne had reached his 50 and hit a brilliant 6 on the leg side just after completing it. H. E. Carris, who has batted well at times at a pinch, stayed in for a while and made nine, but both he and D. Russell were out to Hipkins in the same over, which put Essex in a strong position again. G. E. V. Crutchley might well stay with Hearne, and also make runs, but he is dead out of luck at present, and this time was bowled by a rising ball which hit him on the body and then took the off stump. Hearne got a very fast one from Nichols which kept rather low and knocked his off stump out of the ground, and that practically decided the match. Hearne batted very well indeed after a slightly shaky beginning to Nichols, and the warm weather, if it continues, may restore to him, at any moment, that form which is always invaluable to Middlesex, and which will be more important still if, as is expected, Middlesex are frequently without Hendren for the rest of the season.

Essex had not to hurry to get their runs to win, and, until it was obvious that the runs must be made, and when some irregular bowlers were on, they made no attempt to do so. Haig bowled well at the beginning of their innings, but without any luck.

RACING

THE MANCHESTER CUP

SUCCESS OF MINT MASTER
(FROM OUR RACING CORRESPONDENT)

Sir Victor Sassoon's five-year-old horse Mint Master, ridden by Fox, and trained at Newmarket by C. Waugh, won the Manchester Cup at Manchester yesterday by a head from the well-backed Six Wheeler, with Gentlemen's Relish three lengths away, third. The winner started at 100 to 7, the second at 9 to 2, and the third, who was well backed each way, at 100 to 8. Paul Caret started favourite at 100 to 30. In spite of the fact that he was favourite, he was never very strong in the market on the race.

The conditions for this always important handicap were satisfactory, for the weather was fine and the going, if inclined to be firm, was good. Yet the race was spoiled by the slow pace at which it was run, giving no chance to the horses in the field who were genuine stayers. Coligny II., ridden by Richards, jumped off in front, but was at once pulled back, the rider's orders no doubt being that he should not make the running. After going a furlong Mint Master was in front, and there he actually remained until the race was over. Making the bend into the Straight, Mint Master was followed by Knight of the Grail and Coligny II., with Six Wheeler a long way behind the leaders. Turning into the Straight there was much jostling, and no doubt the chances of several of the runners were ruined there. Half way up the Straight Mint Master was still in front on the rails, with Six Wheeler improving on the outside. For a moment Posterity and Old Orkney promised to take a part in the final stages of the race, but the early speed had not been good enough for them, and each fell back in the final burst. Rather less than two furlongs from the finish Weston brought Six Wheeler with a fine run on the outside, and for a moment it seemed that he would come straight away and win, but he faltered and Mint Master held him. It was obvious now that one or the other would win. Fifty yards from the winning-post Six Wheeler seemed certain to succeed, but Mint Master, admirably ridden by Fox, held on to his slight advantage and won by a head.

I have no doubt myself that the race was always run at a muddling pace, and, for future guidance when considering long-distance races, I shall ignore this event. Six Wheeler runs next in the Royal Hunt Cup, while Posterity is to be started in the race for the Gold Cup at Ascot. He looked remarkably well yesterday, and was the best looking horse in the field. I understand that his stable companion, Old Orkney, will not be started for the Ascot Stakes, which he won last year, but instead will be a runner for the Alexandra Stakes, the longest race run in this country, which was won last year by his old rival, Brown Jack, who seems to me to have a really good chance for the Ascot Stakes next week.

The remainder of yesterday's programme does not call for much comment, although it produced a large attendance of visitors with some good racing. Duffield was always winning the opening race, the Lodge Maiden Plate, and there was no doubt as to the result a long way from the finish. In the end he won by three lengths from This colt has not run since early in the season, when he won a handicap for three-year-olds easily at Newcastle.

2.30.—RED ROSE STAKES (5f.).—Hakem runs and has a fair chance, but the probable winner seems to me to be SCOTFORD, who had no chance at Epsom owing to the draw for places at the start. Hakem, who seems the best of the others, was handicapped last autumn in the Free Handicap at the same weight as Scotford, but in this race has to give her 7lb. Scotford missed a race earlier in the week to run here.

3.0.—CLIFF SELLING PLATE (5f.).—I have only a very lowly opinion of the SWALLOW GELDING, but the opposition to him here is so poor that he may well win. This straight course will surely suit him better than the down-hill course at Epsom, over which he has been beaten twice.

3.30.—SALFORD BOROUGH HANDICAP (6f.).—Rattlin the Reefer, on his York form, must have a good chance. He has since been beaten at Epsom, but that race was spoiled by the quickness from the gate of To You. Porthole may run well, but he comes from a stable out of all form. Kodak is well handicapped. Duchess of Mars is not without a chance on her Lingfield running, but does not seem to me quite so well handicapped as Kodak. In spite of the fact that there will be only a small field here, this is not an easy race on which to make a selection. I think that if RATTLIN THE REEFER reproduces his York form he should win, and accordingly I make him may selection.

3.55.—LYTHAM STAKES (5f.).—Until the fact is disproved on the racecourse I must regard FIESOLE as the best of his age yet seen out, and therefore he must be my selection for this race.

4.30.—WOLVERTON PLATE (1¼m.).—SILVER GILT runs and appears to have a nice winning chance, for the opposition will be weak.

NEWMARKET PROSPECTS
(FROM OUR NEWMARKET CORRESPONDENT)

T. Leader has prepared STROLL for the Prestbury Welter Handicap at Manchester. Her public form is moderate, but she has been doing well in home gallops, and she has her chance here to win.

Pegasus, Olympia, and Dreamy Tremor have been sent to compete in the Red Rose Stakes. The big weight of Pegasus is likely to beat him, and I doubt if Olympia is good enough to win. DREAMY TREMOR has done well lately, and I believe will prove the best from Headquarters.

The Cliff Selling Plate.—GLADLY met with some bad luck in her race at Chester, and I feel confident she is better than that form might suggest. She may win here.

The Salford Borough Handicap.—Pachalik, Rattlin the Reefer, and Nice Prospect may not go to the post. PORTHOLE always runs to form, and I believe his chance has come to win.

For the Lytham Stakes I look to FIESOLE to win.

GATWICK

We shall have a few runners only at Gatwick.

In the Hollybush Selling Plate Cloutsham will run for Hogg, and the Arinaria colt for H. Leader. CLOUTSHAM has trained on and he will require a lot of beating.

The Salfords Three-Year-Old Selling Plate.—Blue Friar, who may be our only representative, I cannot recommend with confidence.

The Crabbet Plate.—AVALON is one of the best two-year-olds trained by C. Waugh, and he will very nearly win.

We shall not be represented in the Emlyn Handicap Plate, and GOLDEN WONDER is the only likely runner from Headquarters for the Champney Plate, a race I believe he is good enough to win.

CHEPSTOW

My selections for Chepstow are:—
APPRENTICES' PLATE.—MAUGRE.
TINTERN ABBEY SELLING PLATE.—JOY TO SEE.
COLEFORD PLATE.—OCEAN WAVE.

RICHMOND ROYAL HORSE SHOW

CHILDREN'S DAY

LARGE ENTRIES OF HACKS AND HUNTERS

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

Yesterday was children's day at the Richmond Royal Horse Show. In recent years there has been an increase in riding among children, and the directors of the show have shown their appreciation of this fact by extending the children's classes. The show ring yesterday, when youthful horsemen and horsewomen cantered round, resembled the Row, and the crowds in the stands and at the ringside indicated their admiration of the scene.

Beautiful weather again favoured the meeting, and there was a large attendance. The Lord Mayor (Sir William Waterlow) and the Lady Mayoress, with the Sheriffs and their ladies, visited the show, and in the afternoon the Lord Mayor presented the City of London Challenge Cup to Miss Jackie Hance, the best child rider in the show.

The Duke of York, who is vice-patron of the show, has intimated his intention to be present to-day.

While a number of new features have been added this year, it is very gratifying to the directors of the show that the increase in the number of entries is mainly due to the continued interest in the classes provided for hacks, hunters, and jumpers. These sections, which may be described as the backbone of the show, have attracted greatly increased entries. When judging was resumed yesterday, the judges had before them a class of 35 hacks of 15 hands and over, and this was followed by an even stronger class of 40 hacks ridden by women side-saddle. The graceful appearance of the horsewomen in their riding habits, was a much admired spectacle, and emphasized the wisdom of the directors' decision last year to reintroduce the side-saddle rule. In both classes the leading awards went to Mr. J. V. Rank's bay gelding, Lord Slane, which also carried off the Challenge Cup presented by Lady Stern for the best ladies' hack, a trophy which this handsome gelding won last year. Lord Slane was a first-prize winner as a novice at Olympia last year. The second prize in each of the two classes went to Major R. M. Stewart Richardson's Battle Royal, which was the leading winner in the novice classes on Thursday.

Although the entries in the Shetland pony section were not numerous, a very attractive display was made, both in the harness and shown-in-hand classes. Mrs. Etta Duffus, who was a successful exhibitor last year, again showed Dibbiltz of Penniwell, the black ten-year-old stallion which has been a leading winner at Richmond on a number of occasions, and he was awarded the first prize in the class for stallions, colts, and geldings shown in hand, and also headed the harness class. Lady Estella Hope's brown stallion, Catnip Coffee, secured the second prize when shown in hand, but was not placed in the harness class. Mrs. Duffus's May Eve of Penniwell, an 11-year-old black pony, was the first-prize winner in the class for mares and fillies shown in hand, and Lady Estella Hope's piebald mare Flammula was placed second.

The class for children's ponies, not exceeding 13.2 hands and ridden by children not over 13 years of age, was an excellent one of 42 entries. The riders, many of them of tender years, appeared quite at home on their mounts and gave a good account of themselves. The leading award went to Miss Peggy Pacey's Mickie, a beautiful grey gelding, which headed the class last year, and also won the first prize in a children's riding class at Olympia. Cadogan Kitty, a handsome bay-brown exhibited by W. J. Smith, Limited, was second, and Miss N. D. Walker's grey gelding, Silver Star, was third. In the class for ponies not exceeding 14.2 hands, ridden by children not over 15 years of age, Miss Jill Hermon Erriman won the first prize with Starlights, a seven-year-old grey gelding; and Mr. Victor Parry's eight-year-old bay mare, Brown Mouse, was placed second. The third-prize winner was Miss Peggy Pacey's seven-year-old chestnut gelding, Flame.

The reintroduced classes of Welsh Mountain ponies made an attractive display. In the class for stallions not exceeding 12 hands, the first prize winner was Faraam Mercury, shown by John Jones and Son. The class for mares and geldings not exceeding 12.2 hands, ridden by children not exceeding 14 years of age, was headed by Mr. S. Gordon Freeman's Wingerworth Propellor, a five-year-old black mare, and Cadogan Omega, shown by W. J. Smith, Limited, was placed second. There was an interesting competition for the City of London Challenge Cup for the best boy or girl rider in the children's classes, and the judge, Major V. D. S. Williams, had a very difficult task in deciding between the merits of Miss Jackie Hance and Master John Cox. Eventually the trophy was awarded to Miss Hance, who thus won it for the second year in succession. The Furnivall's Challenge Cup for children's jumping was won by Mr. Derek Seton's black gelding Nigger.

Double harness horses of any height were headed by Mr. Nigel C. Colman's Silhouette of Nork and Lochardil, a handsome pair of browns which were the first-prize winners in the open class for pairs at the Royal Counties Show last week. In the single harness horses class, Mr. F. W. Buttle's well-known mare Glenavon Debutante was placed first, and Mrs. Edgar Henriques's Fleetwood Nanetto made a good second.

The challenge cup for hacks, presented by Major H. Faudel Phillips, was won by Major R. M. Stewart Richardson with Battle Royal. The reserve was Mr. J. V. Rank's Royal Irish.

LEICESTERSHIRE SHOW

DUKE OF GLOUCESTER'S VISIT

The Duke of Gloucester visited the Leicestershire Agricultural Show at Leicester yesterday. He travelled by air, and his machine passed over the showground on the way to Desford aerodrome. There he was met by Mr. Everard, M.P., president of the Leicestershire Aero Club, and afterwards motored to the showground, where a large crowd gave him an enthusiastic reception. He was met by the Duke of Portland, president of the show, the Lord Mayor of Leicester (Councillor W. E. Hincks) and the Lady Mayoress, the Lord Lieutenant of the county (Sir A. G. Hazlerigg), and the High Sheriff (Mr. F. H. Smith-Carington).

The Prince of Wales was a successful exhibitor in the cattle classes, gaining two firsts and a second. His Shorthorn bulls, Aldie Knight and Lenton Crocus King, were first in their respective classes, and his Shorthorn heifer, Lenton Dorothy, was second in its class. All three came from the Prince's farm at Lenton.

The Duke of Gloucester spent some time at the show and toured the exhibits. He was present at a luncheon at which, for the first time in the history of the show, there were no speeches.

The principal prize-winners were:—

Hunters.—Mr. W. Willey (Market Harborough), Mr. Eaton Kemball (Northampton), Mr. W. Benson (Grantham). Mr. C. J. Phillips (Melton Mowbray). The best hunters brood mare was exhibited by Mr. Benson. The Glenn Manor Challenge Cup for Hunters up to three years was won by Mr. G. M. Gibbs (Market Harborough).

Shire Horse Classes.—Mr. W. J. Cumber (Theale, Berks). Messrs. Farnsworth and Sons (Leicester), Mr. A. Holm (Leicester), Mr. J. O. Nicol (Skeffington, Leicestershire).

Cattle Classes.—Milking Class.—John Evens and Son (Burton). Shorthorn cow.—Miss Sylvia Brocklebank (Oakham). Lieutenant-Colonel Atkins (Hinckley). Shorthorn dairy cow.—Mr. G. P. Golden (Lutterworth). Mr. R. L. Savill (Welford), Lord Crawshaw (Long Whatton). Shorthorn dairy heifer.—Lieutenant-Colonel Atkins (Lincolnshire). Red Shorthorn.—John Evens and Son. Lord Beatty, Colonel John Gretton, M.P., Aberdeen-Angus.—Major Walter Bonn (Rugby), Belvoir Estates. Limited. Champion Jersey cow.—Exhibited by Sir Harold Mackintosh (Knaresborough).

THE THREE COUNTIES SHOW

Prize awards on the second day of the Three Counties Agricultural Show included:—

Champion prize for best hunter, Mr. J. P. Farr, Leighton Court, Ledbury; special for best mare, Mr. T. L. Walker, Broadwas-on-Teme; special for filly, Miss Wellesley, Chard, Somerset; special for mare or gelding, J. P. Farr. In the poultry and rabbit section the Three Counties Challenge Trophy was won by Mr. Nicholas Harris, of Cheltenham; and the Worcestershire County Cup, for a Worcester exhibitor, by Mr. J. E. Rubery, of Alvechurch. In the butter-making competition for pupils under the Herefordshire County Council, prizes went to Miss Florence George, of Harewood, Ross-on-Wye, Miss Molly Morgan, and Miss Daisy Skyrme, of Clehonger, Hereford. Similar prizes to pupils under the Gloucestershire County Council were won by Miss G. Werrett, of Berkeley, Miss Owen, of Gloucester, and Miss M. Davis, of Coleford. Pressed cheese prizes went to Mrs. Langford, of Wellington, Hereford, and Mrs. Abell, of Pencombe. In the recorded dairy section for the best officially recorded cow in milk Mr. George Pitcher, Nunnery Farm, Worcester, was first, Mr. R. G. Berkeley, of Spetchley Park, second, and Mr. T. P. Preece, Leominster, third.

IMPERIAL PRESS DELEGATES IN YORKSHIRE

Delegates to the Imperial Press Conference yesterday visited Yorkshire Main Colliery, near Doncaster, inspecting the surface works, winding engines, power station, and an exhibition of by-products derived from coal.

Canadian delegates asked many questions concerning coal prices, distribution, and sales arrangements in this country. A Canadian editor stated that Canadian buyers complained that although they would prefer British coal they had to buy from the United States, since they could buy direct from the collieries there, whereas in Britain they had to buy through agents.

Each of the visitors was presented with a model safety lamp.

MINERS' RELIEF SOCIETIES

GRANTS TO WIDOWS

THE ALLOCATION OF IDLE SURPLUSES

The annual meeting of the Central Association of Miners' Permanent Relief Societies was held at the Connaught Rooms, Great Queen-street, yesterday. Lord Crawford, the president, was in the chair.

The annual report showed that the number of members in the seven societies comprising the association at the end of 1929 was 285,732, an increase of 12,502. The contributions amounted to £355,449, an increase of £31,118, and the total revenue was £405,559, an increase of £29,270. Accumulated funds amounted to £978,508, a decrease of £32,172. In 1929, the number of non-fatal accidents to members of the societies was 30,412, representing 106.4 per 1,000 members. The number of deaths by accident or from industrial disease was 388, or 1.3 per 1,000 members, and 227 widows and 350 children were brought on the funds. At the end of the year there were 3,751 widows on the funds, a decrease of two, and 2,566 children, a decrease of 49. The societies had 4,271 permanent disabled members (of 26 weeks' duration and over) on the funds last December, a decrease of 89.

The total of the benefits paid during the year was £406,481. From the time they were started until the end of 1929 the societies have paid £12,863,078 in benefits. The Northumberland and Durham Society, formed in 1862, is the oldest of the seven societies, and it has paid no less than £7,924,000 in benefits. Next in the order of payments is the Lancashire and Cheshire Society, which, since 1872, has paid £2,491,781 in benefits; while the Monmouthshire and South Wales Society has paid £1,034,929 since 1881.

The CHAIRMAN, in moving the adoption of the report, said that while the past year had shown an increase in the number of members and in annual revenue, the accumulated funds of the societies as a whole showed a decrease, due to the Northumberland and Durham Society finding that their benefits had exceeded their revenue by a considerable sum. Throughout the year the capital value of trustee securities had been on the low side, and the immediate result was reflected in the depreciation of the capital value of their investments.

Mr. J. DARLINGTON, chairman of the council, seconded the motion. Referring to the proposed raising of the school-leaving age, he said that at present the societies only dealt with children who came on to the funds up to the age of 14. There would now be another year, for which the societies had not yet made any provision.

The motion was agreed to.

SURPLUSES IN THE BANKS

Mr. R. M. FOSTER, general secretary of the North Wales Society, read a paper on "Colliery Explosion Public Relief Funds and their Surpluses." He said that in the seven districts of Great Britain the balance in hand from such funds to the date when the last return was made before the White Paper of 1925 was £408,950, and the number of persons then receiving relief was 1,454. There were also the following amounts on which there were no dependents:—Eastern Division of Scotland (Hartley surplus), £3,038; Western Division, £4,556; South Staffordshire and East Worcestershire, £3,550; Talke Relief Fund, £8,250; and the Malago Fund, in the hands of the association, £265. The total for all the coalfields was thus brought up to £428,609. While a large number of the funds were in active operation, surpluses in some districts were allowed to lie idle in the banks and the object of a generous public in subscribing for the relief of distress was to show some extent nullified.

He was anxious to see these funds utilized. Among suggestions which could be made for that purpose he mentioned the formation of a permanent relief society in a district where there was no such society at present; the making of grants to other districts; and the application of the money to a fund for the provision of superannuation allowances to miners of 65 years of age. Where there were permanent relief societies in existence, they might appeal, in the event of failing to get the capital transferred, for the sanction of the trustees to the income of the funds being allocated to the permanent relief society, as had been done in some cases already. The suggestion that appealed to him as most urgent was the provision of superannuation allowances to miners of 65. Some body should be appointed to see the persons responsible for the inoperative funds, and Mr. Shinwell might be asked to receive a deputation, which should urge him to use his influence in favour of more effective application of the surpluses.

Mr. HUGHES (North Wales), a member of the executive committee of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, said that a resolution on the subject was to be submitted from Lancashire to the annual conference of the federation in August. An effort might be made for the association and the federation to act jointly.

The CHAIRMAN said that in some cases where there were no dependents left, the duty to establish permanent relief funds was an obligation under the trust deed. The best course would be to instruct the executive to approach the Miners' Federation and, if it were thought necessary, the trustees of the funds, in order that the matter might be discussed in a friendly manner with the object of reaching a satisfactory solution.

A resolution in favour of taking the course suggested by the chairman was adopted.

INSTITUTE OF ACTUARIES

EXAMINATION RESULTS

At the annual examinations of the Institute of Actuaries held in the United Kingdom from May 12 to 15, the following candidates qualified:—

Conferences

ASSOCIATION OF HEAD MISTRESSES

ASPECTS OF EDUCATIONAL REORGANIZATION

Over 400 delegates, including oversea members, attended the 56th annual conference of the Association of Head Mistresses, which opened at Croydon High School yesterday. Miss E. ADDISON PHILLIPS presided.

A resolution passed by the conference in 1925, that in the interests of efficiency a secretary is necessary in every secondary school, was reaffirmed.

The annual report referred to the increase in mixed secondary schools, and to a resolution of the executive of the association, passed in February, agreeing with the recommendation of the Hadow Report that wherever possible separate new post-primary schools should be provided for boys and girls respectively. This resolution had been widely distributed among education authorities. The replies, the report stated, indicated that with perhaps one exception those bodies were in favour of the principle advocated by the Hadow Committee.

In a paper on "Parents and the School," Miss D. P. P. HILEY (Newcastle-on-Tyne Central High School) said that parenthood used to be an art. It was in danger of becoming a science, like teaching and eating. The simple, indulgent mother over-fed and over-clothed her child, but the more educated mother "over-psychologized" it. There was less peace and discipline in the home, but more respect for children as children.

Aspects of educational reorganization were dealt with in several papers. Miss M. L. LARDELLI (Brigg High School) said that she foresaw a not distant time when secondary education would be free, and it would be wise to frame policies accordingly.

Miss E. M. MARCHANT (Horsham) described mixed schools, in certain circumstances, as cheap substitutes for the education to which children were entitled. Theoretically, she said, arguments for co-education were attractive, but the underlying assumptions were unsound. It was difficult to teach boys and girls together with justice to both. The only permissible economy should relate to buildings. If the mixed school had come to stay, it should be as unmixed as possible.

The principal resolution before the conference, which was carried unanimously, welcomed new schemes of reorganization. The resolution stated that "while expressing the hope that secondary education in its established form in this country will receive every encouragement towards wider development, and that the interests of existing secondary schools, especially those of the smaller rural schools, will be carefully safeguarded, and while adhering to the view that schools for boys and girls of post-primary age should be separate, the conference sees in the scheme as a whole and the interest it has aroused evidence of a definite forward movement in the educational life of the country."

Miss M. D. BROCK (Mary Datchelor School, Camberwell) moved the resolution. She said that any administrative policy of closing down or starving preparatory departments of secondary schools which had proved their efficiency, and of leaving uninspected the mass of private schools, some of whose products created for the secondary school the most expensive, depressing, and unnecessary problems, would, at the moment, rob reorganization of its chance of full success.

A garden party was given by the Council of the Girls' Public Day-school Trust, Limited, and the Governors of the Croydon High School. The Bishop of Croydon (Archdeacon E. S. Woods) afterwards preached the conference sermon in the Croydon Parish Church.

EDUCATION AND INDUSTRY

THE WORKER'S INTEREST IN HIS WORK

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

LIVERPOOL, JUNE 13

The conference of the Association for Education in Industry and Commerce was continued to-day at Port Sunlight, when Mr. BRIAN HEATHCOTE (Alfred Holt and Co.) dealt with development of character in seafaring apprentices and in business.

DR. C. H. NORTHCOTT (Rowntree and Co.), speaking on the development of character through work and in leisure, said the difference in the attitude to work of the professional man and the worker in industry indicated that there must be something wrong with industry. The professional man had freedom to develop and express himself; his work helped him to become a finer man, and his pleasure in work arose from that fact. In industry generally there was much less freedom of self-expression. They were told of the monotony of the piece rate system and its destruction of originality, but a great deal could be done to increase the piece worker's interest in his job by telling him all about it and emphasizing the importance of his cooperation. Wherever they had an atmosphere of freedom and cooperation, they found a finer community characterized by understanding, good will, and ardour.

In the course of discussion, Mr. D. BRYCE SMYTH (Lever Bros.) criticized the custom of allowing the working boy a small sum as pocket money out of his weekly wage. He thought the boy ought to be given a larger allowance, out of which he must pay for his own clothes and other personal needs. It would give him a better idea of the value of money.

Mr. C. E. BUCK, manager of an Employment Exchange, complained of the lack of a good grounding in English in elementary education.

Representatives of various factory and business concerns gave accounts of the working of day continuation schools in bridging the gap between leaving school and entering employment. It was stated that employees who attended these schools were better morally and physically, quicker and more respectful, and more skilful than other persons.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN THE BOOT TRADE

MOTION FOR INCREASED BENEFIT DEFEATED

An example of the heavy drain on trade union funds caused by unemployment was forthcoming at the concluding session at Bournemouth yesterday of the triennial conference of the National Union of Boot and Shoe Operatives.

A resolution was submitted to reduce from three months to eight weeks the period of employment of a member who has received full unemployment benefit before he is again entitled to benefit. Mr. W. R. TOWNLEY (Northampton), the general president, said the income of the union's trade fund for the past two years was £151,340, and the amount disbursed in unemployment benefit during the same period was £156,096.

"If you start to add to the financial burden of the unemployment benefit," Mr. Townley added, "you will be slowly heading to financial bankruptcy. So far as the union is concerned, we are bound to look at the matter from a practical standpoint, however much we desire to give all the assistance we can."

The resolution was defeated.

BRITISH TRADE WITH SOUTH AMERICA

THE BUENOS AIRES EXHIBITION

The War Office is understood to have given permission for the band of the 2nd Cameron Highlanders to visit Buenos Aires for the six weeks of the British Empire Trade Exhibition, which is to be held there in March and April next year. This, it is stated, will be the first occasion on which a band of a British regiment has visited South America in such happy circumstances. During their stay the band, comprising, with pipers, 45 members, will be housed in the barracks at Buenos Aires.

Some 700 British firms have definitely taken space for exhibiting their goods, and others are considering offers of the additional room that is being provided. In a circular-letter to British firms, the Department of Overseas Trade points out the advantage of the exhibition in restoring British commercial prestige in South America, and urges all who have not already taken up space to do so at once.

The circular states that the industrial sections will include textiles, wearing apparel, footwear, chemicals, beverages, toilet requisites, furniture and sports equipment, building, decorating, and household machinery, electrical equipment, hardware, small tools, light and heavy machinery, agricultural implements, factory equipment, oils, railway and tramway equipment, road-making machinery, motor-cars and cycles, commercial vehicles, aircraft, and motor-boats. The machinery classes will contain laundry and printing machinery, gas appliances, locomotives, and railway coaches built specially to suit Argentine conditions. Period furniture will be another feature.

ECONOMIES IN CIVIL DEPARTMENTS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—You have recently published some interesting letters and leading articles on Mr. Snowden's short-sighted and mischievous Budget and have drawn attention to his plaintive request that someone would show him how national expenditure could be reduced. As no one so far has accepted his challenge in your columns, may I make a few suggestions for consideration and criticism.

I assume that for some time to come the most we can hope for is, partly by economy and partly by a judicious substitution of indirect for direct taxation, to effect an improvement in the financial position of some £60,000,000 or £70,000,000 a year, which would admit of the rate of income-tax being reduced, say, to 3s. 4d., or one-sixth of a pound. Taking economy first:—Our politicians never cease urging business men to rationalize their industries; do they ever think of rationalizing the Government, both local and Imperial; does it ever occur to them to cut out the deadwood, to amalgamate Departments, and reduce redundant staff? No doubt the Army and Navy have been cut down to the bone. But there remain the Civil Supply Services, the cost of which has actually risen this year by no less than £40,000,000. Some of this increase, in connexion with the derating scheme, was, no doubt, inevitable. But, taking the present estimates, if rationalization were urged on local authorities as an imperative public duty and they were "encouraged" by a 10 per cent. reduction in the "grant services," we should save £13,000,000. According to Sir Ernest Benn, an instruction to retrench would not be unwelcome to our local authorities. A similar reduction in "other services" would give at least £2,000,000 more.

Then, as to safeguarding, our imports of manufactured goods amount to about £320,000,000 a year. If by an average duty of 20 per cent. these imports were reduced by half, the remainder coming in as before and paying the duty—a not unreasonable assumption supported by recent experience—we should gain £32,000,000 in revenue. The resulting prosperity in the home trade might certainly be expected to reduce the cost of unemployment to at least the figure of last year—namely, £11,000,000—and as Mr. Snowden has increased the Estimate this year to £25,000,000 there would obviously be a saving under this head of £14,000,000. If to all these gains and savings we add the saving of £12,000,000 in the cost of the floating debt which, Mr. Snowden thinks, may follow the reduction of the Bank rate, we arrive at a total of £73,000,000, a sum amply sufficient to justify a reduction in the rate of income-tax to the figure suggested. Finally, as Mr. James F. Hope points out, there is the hope of the conversion of the debt to a lower rate of interest. If this also could be effected, then with the resilience of the revenue following greater prosperity we might look forward ultimately to the rate of income-tax being reduced to 2s. 6d. In such an event imagine the sigh of relief which would go up from every industry in the country.

No doubt some of the reductions suggested will be declared to be impossible. That is the invariable answer to any measure of the kind proposed. But I agree with Sir Ernest Benn and Sir Frank Swettenham that where there is a will there is a way. Very similar action has been taken in other countries, notably in Italy and in India, with no diminution of efficiency.

If it is objected that the sacrifices entailed on public bodies and public officials will be great, it should not be forgotten that even greater sacrifices have been courageously and silently faced by officers of the Army and Navy, and also by innumerable shareholders and employees of our basic industries, many of which, owing to high taxation and foreign dumping, have paid no dividends for years, and have been compelled ruthlessly to cut down charges and reduce their capital.

Very little public sympathy has been shown with the privation existing in the North of England owing to these causes. In the Navy the reduction of a single battleship means, Lord Jellicoe tells us, that no fewer than 56 officers become redundant, and have to retire on small pensions. Surely it is time our overgrown Civil Services should share in the burden and the sacrifice, and the only way to ensure this is to cut a percentage off the Estimates, leaving each Department to carry out the reduction in the manner most convenient in each case.

Yours truly,
H. S. BARNES.

PROFESSOR HARNACK

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—I think that many of your readers will be glad to know that Harnack, after writing "Luke the Physician" in 1906, and "The Acts of the Apostles" in 1909, on the usual assumption of a late date for these writings, was forced by the evidence to change his opinion. He therefore wrote "The Date of the Acts" in 1911, and there says (p. 93):—"I have now come to believe that there is a high probability of an early date for the Lukan writings," i.e., before the fall of Jerusalem. He adds: "I am not fond of correcting myself, but magis amica veritas."

ENGLISH ART AT KENSINGTON

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—Those of your readers who have failed to visit the Exhibition of English Medieval Art at the Victoria and Albert Museum should thank Mr. C. F. Annesley Voysey for reminding them of their omission. In his letter, published in The Times of June 10, Mr. Voysey drew attention to the poor response to this magnificent display as compared with that accorded to the Exhibition of Italian Art at Burlington House.

None of us wishes to depreciate the extraordinary importance of the Italian Exhibition, but the fact remains that to Britons our native genius is, or should be, at least of equal moment. In this country we have a remarkable array of achievement in the fine and applied arts and an artistic tradition which need not bow to those of other nations. That this is no idle boast can be proved by anyone who will take the trouble to make a pilgrimage to the North Court at South Kensington, which is easy of access and where admission is free. Yet, of the thousands who flocked to the Italian masterpieces at Burlington House, but a paltry fraction has bothered to inspect its own ancestral treasures at the Victoria and Albert Museum.

What is the reason? I am tempted to seek it in the fact that no attempt has been made to boost the monetary value of the exhibits. Given a carefully prepared publicity scheme which talks in terms of millions of pounds sterling, and there is no need to fear lack of enthusiasm. It is the failure, less of the public than of that section of it which calls itself "cultured," to discriminate between aesthetic merit, monetary value, and historical importance which lies at the root of the matter. Had the South Kensington authorities been rash enough to announce that their exhibition was worth a king's ransom (citing the exact figure), the North Court would now be packed to suffocation, instead of being the very place for a quiet nap. Napoleon was not so wrong after all when he called us "a nation of shopkeepers."

MEDICAL PATENTS

RESEARCH WORKERS' MOTIVES

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—Dr. Frederick A. Mason's letter calls for a statement of the medical attitude towards the patenting of remedies for disease.

It is an immemorial and honourable tradition that any discovery or invention concerning medicine should be freely and at once placed at the service of those engaged in healing the sick, and the observance of this tradition, rather than the possession of a legal qualification, distinguishes the physician from the quack. Lister gave the results of his work to the world at large, and the discoverers of the spirochete and the trypanosome—upon whose work depended the efforts of chemists to find remedies like salvarsan and the tryparsamide that Mr. Mason tells us saved the lives of 83 Congo natives—did not commercialize their findings. At least six workers (medical and non-medical) have lost their lives in seeking the causes of yellow fever and typhus, though no monetary prize was before them; but Mr. Mason draws a harrowing picture of the starvation that awaits the research chemist who cannot patent his remedies.

There has, however, been one case in which, to borrow his words, a research worker has submitted "to be forthwith deprived of his existing legal rights . . . as though he were an outlaw." The discovery of insulin made it necessary that the public should be protected from inferior products. It was patented, the patent was put under the control of the Medical Research Council, and any reputable firm of chemists is given every facility for manufacturing the remedy, which is then marketed in a reliable form and free from royalty. Such an action on the part of a research worker may be unintelligible when judged by commercial principles, but is easily understood by what Mr. Mason delicately calls "a vociferous, unenlightened, and obscurantist portion of the medical profession." Perhaps that portion finds something distasteful in the flood of fulsome advertisements of new products, soon to be forgotten, that makes a waste-paper basket the first necessity of the day's work.

Medical research has hitherto never needed the stimulus of financial gain; it is poorly paid, even when successful, but Simon once found that a certain gift could not be purchased by money. It is fortunate for humanity that the principles advocated by Mr. Mason have always been opposed by medical ethics in this country.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,
M.D. (LONDON).

THE DISPUTE IN MALTA

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—In his reply to the interview given by Sir Augustus Bartolo, Sir Ugo Mifsud, Leader of the Opposition in the late Maltese Parliament, emphasizes that there is no such thing as an anti-British element in Malta. This may be accepted as perfectly true, if exception is made of Dr. Mizzi, who with Sir Ugo is co-leader of the so-called Nationalist Party, and a handful of his followers who believe that union with Italy would best serve the development of Maltese national characteristics.

The Maltese Labour Party has always held that the statement of the political issue in Malta as being between pro-British and pro-Italian elements is both inaccurate and misleading. The Maltese issue is primarily purely domestic and concerns the continued political supremacy of the clergy and the legal profession as organized bodies. It just happens, however, that one of the principal factors of this supremacy is the use of the Italian language in administrative acts and proceedings, including those of government and justice. Considering that Italian is understood by not more than 5 per cent. of the Maltese population, the attachment of the clerical and legal communities to "Italian culture" will be readily understood by all students of political history, without accusing the Maltese "Nationalists" of being anti-British, or even pro-Italian.

A semblance of plausibility for the statement that there are pro-Italians in Malta is given by the Fascist Press. The Italians persist in interpreting the attachment of the Maltese "Nationalists" to the Italian language as a phenomenon of racial affinity, whereas it is nothing more than an expedient which the clerical and legal bodies have found effective in maintaining their political domination in the island. Had English failed to penetrate the Maltese masses, as Italian has failed, it is quite conceivable that the ruling class of tradition would now be using the English language as the instrument of its political ascendancy. But the Italians do not know this fact, or rather they choose to ignore it. When they give support in their Press to the Maltese "Nationalists," they profess to do so in the name of the preservation of Italian culture in Malta. From the Maltese standpoint their support is an interference in a purely domestic political issue.

However, so long as such support does not go beyond mere words in the Italian Press, the Maltese can afford to ignore it. But when it is sanctioned officially, when words are translated into action and when pressure is brought on the Vatican to set in motion the machinery of its spiritual authority in Malta in aid of the upholders of "Italian culture," then the interference becomes intolerable.

It is against this kind of interference that the Maltese seek the protection of the Imperial Government and English opinion. So long as it is allowed to go on the Maltese Constitution cannot function normally, so that Sir Ugo Mifsud's contention that the suspension of the elections in Malta is unconstitutional is altogether beside the point. The Constitution ceased to function the moment the Vatican sanctioned spiritual penalties against the free exercise of the franchise in Malta.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
VINCENT BUGEJA, Honorary President of the Maltese Labour Party.

LIBERALISM IN OPPOSITION

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—I have read Professor Muir's letter, but am still unsatisfied regarding the Liberal record in Opposition. The party might have raised the question of State care for the unemployed by voting against the money to increase unemployment allowances on the grounds that this would be better used for placing the administration of public assistance on a national basis. Also as regards reducing the number of workless, it seems high time that the Orange Book proposals were brought forward in the form of a Bill.

If these schemes would reduce the present figures to nearer normal, it must be the fault of the Government that declines them that this total stands so high. Such a position ought to make for an unsparing attack on the Labour Ministry, which has allowed matters to become worse than they were under Conservatism. Yet instead of that we hear the plaintive speech of Mr. Lloyd George after the truce is supposed to have ended and the assurance of Mr. Ernest Brown that the present state of matters is due to world causes. When the Conservatives appeared to fail to grapple with important problems we denounced them loudly. There is no reason why Labour should receive a more gentle handling in view of the manner in which it treats other parties.

Yours faithfully,
PATRICK M. MOIR.

AMERICAN CONFIDENCE AT GAMES

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—Many reasons have been given from time to time as suggested explanations of the supremacy of American over British players at polo, golf, lawn tennis, and in fact most ball games where important deciding matches are played in front of crowds of spectators. I think after spending some years in America I can give you the basic reason.

American children are never suppressed. As soon as they can walk and talk children in America are encouraged to speak before being spoken to and generally to behave with assurance in front of grown-up people. I have frequently seen as many as six or eight people stop an interesting discussion to listen to some child who has come on the scene and wants something. American children generally seem to be wanting something, if it is only to be noticed. This method of treating children is not our idea, and perhaps does not improve their manners, but it seems to imbue them with a feeling of being at least as good as anybody else present. The result is an adult full of self-confidence in front of any crowd, however imposing.

Yours, &c.,
K. A. PLIMPTON.

THE BUILDING INDUSTRY

OBSOLETE REGULATIONS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—With reference to the letter under the heading "Building Regulations" appearing in the columns of The Times to-day, the conditions with regard to the existing out-of-date building regulations have long been recognized by those vitally interested in the building industry.

Your correspondent and general readers may be interested to know that it was in recognition of this position and its particular reflection on the important matters of building costs and unemployment among the operatives of the industry that about 18 months ago, as the result of discussion between Lord Amulree, K.C. (then Sir William Mackenzie, K.C.), Mr. Alfred C. Bossom, F.R.I.B.A., Sir J. Walker Smith, M.Inst.C.E., F.S.I., and Mr. B. S. Townroe, M.A., Hon. A.R.I.B.A., the Building Industry Council of Review was formed. This council is composed not only of nominated representatives of the professional bodies associated with the building industry—namely, the Royal Institute of British Architects and the Surveyors' Institution—but also nominated representatives of the National Federation of Building Trades Employers, the National Federation of Building Trades Operatives, the British Steelwork Association, as well as representative building owners, building material manufacturers, and economists.

The executive committee of the council, composed of Mr. Alfred C. Bossom (chairman), Mr. Sydney Tatchell, and Mr. Howard Robertson, nominated by the Royal Institute of British Architects; Mr. A. G. Cross, nominated by the Surveyors' Institution; Mr. T. Barron; Mr. R. Coppock, ominated by the National Federation of Building Trades Operatives; Mr. George M. Burt; Sir J. Walker Smith, nominated by the National Federation of Building Trades Employers; Mr. J. D. Stitt, nominated by the British Steelwork Association; Mr. H. J. C. Johnston, representative building material manufacturer, and Mr. Walter Meakin, has, inter alia, investigated in considerable detail the effect on the industry and the potential building requirements of the country of the existing building regulations and their method of administration. The interim report of the executive committee, in which this important matter is touched upon and certain recommendations made, will be issued by the council in the near future, from which it is hoped that constructive results in various directions will arise.

It is thought to be of possible further interest to add that, important as the subject of the present type of building regulations is, and out of date as such regulations undoubtedly are, they are but a contributory cause, among others of equal importance, of the hampered conditions under which building enterprise in this country now functions. The building industry itself in its wider sense is almost, as an industrial unit, unorganized. Its object must be so to organize itself that it can speak and demand the necessary reforms with a completely authoritative voice. The council also hopes to touch upon this important aspect in its interim report.

Yours faithfully,
H. B. BRYANT, Secretary.
The Building Industry Council of Review, 5, Duke-street, Adelphi, W.C.2, June 13.

THE CORN DUTY OF 1902

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—In view of Sir Vivian Henderson's reference in The Times of June 12 to the shilling import duty on corn, which was introduced by Sir Michael Hicks Beach in 1902 and was repealed by Mr. Ritchie, his successor at the Exchequer, in 1903, perhaps you will allow me to recall what was said about that duty by those who had most to do with it.

Sir Michael Hicks Beach, speaking in Manchester on November 5, 1903, said:—

I thought that my duty last year on corn was so small that it would not increase the price of bread. I made a mistake. I found that in not a few cases it had the effect of giving an excuse to the bakers to raise the price of bread, and therefore I must confess that I believe that doubling that duty, and also adding new duties upon meat and dairy produce, must increase the cost of the food of the working classes.

Mr. Ritchie, replying to Mr. Chaplin in the House of Commons on April 23, 1903, said:—

My right honourable friend says that it (the duty) has not increased the price of bread, but that is an impossible thing to say. . . . Undoubtedly the price of flour has increased to the amount of the tax and a good deal more.

Mr. A. J. Balfour also, who was Prime Minister throughout that Parliament, in replying, on May 15, 1903, to a deputation introduced by Mr. Chaplin of opponents of the repeal, pointed out, incidentally, that:—

The tax has operated as a great burden on the raw material used by farmers. . . . The exact figure is that the tax on feeding stuffs paid under this duty, which the farmers, or some of them, desire so earnestly to retain, amounted last year to no less than £582,000. That the duty fell on home purchasers and not on the oversea sellers was recognized in a practical way by the fact that, after the duty had been repealed:—

Duty was repaid to those persons who, on June 30, 1903, had in their stock or possession grain or other articles liable to the corn duty on which it was proved that duty had been paid. The total amount of duty repaid was £362,389 1s. 8d. (11 H.C. Debates, 1554.)

This short-lived corn duty of 1902 may well be regarded, in the words of Junius, "not as a pattern to imitate, but as an example to deter."

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,
JAMES DUNDAS WHITE.

CHRISTIANITY WITHOUT CREEDS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—I think that Mr. Leonard, in his letter published in your issue of June 11, pushes my parallel between the grammar of a language and the Creeds of the Church too far. Whatever changes in grammar may have been necessitated by the growth of a language, the facts which that language seeks to express remain the same. The words of the Creed have also changed from time to time, but they always express the same facts, which cannot change. Thus the simple Baptismal formula: "In the Name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost," stating the truth of the nature of God delivered to the Church once for all by our Lord, has been expanded into the Apostles' Creed, the Nicene and the Athanasian Creeds as the need of fuller definition arose to meet the questionings of different epochs. But all these forms of Creed were only intended to define more clearly the original fundamental revelation of God by His Incarnate Son, and were not meant to set forth any fresh tenets of later times, nor the passing opinions of any given age. All their statements are implicit in the "Name" of God revealed in the Baptismal formula. If a form of words could be drawn up to-day, and universally accepted, which expressed the same truths, it would only follow the precedent of the growth of Creeds in the past.

The form of a Creed—or "symbol"—is only important in so far as it expresses faithfully the Creed, that is the belief, held from the first by the Church. In the absence of the possibility of finding any fresh formula which can fully describe "the Faith once for all delivered to the saints," we must hold fast and value those which have come down to us. Of course, these will not satisfy to-day, any more than they did when first drawn up, those who do not hold this faith. But the Christian religion, even if it still continued to exist, would be but a very vague and nebulous thing without them.

I am, Sir, yours truly,
F. E. FREESE.

Points from Letters

THE WAGE OF CAPITAL

Mr. Alexander's phrase, "the system by which the wage of capital might be unlimited, while the wage of labour was always limited," is indeed extraordinary. For, of course, the fact is that whichever partner in industry bears the risk takes also the unlimited profit or loss, while the other partner is guaranteed a fixed remuneration, whether the enterprise is a success or a failure. No doubt it is usually capital which takes the risk, but not necessarily nor always. Labour in some cases hires capital at a fixed rate, and then itself reaps unlimited profit or loss.—The Rev. G. H. Tremenheere, St. Edwards House, West Malvern.

EXPENDITURE ON ROADS

I see that the Prime Minister is to preside next Tuesday over the conference with the local authorities "to discuss the possibility of an immediate expansion of relief schemes by cooperation" between the Government and the municipalities. If road improvements are to be included in the discussion, a period of trade depression is not the time to effect them. In cases like the Bath-road in Wiltshire, the waste of money is apparent, for the present road could carry nearly double the traffic which it now attracts. A further objection is that roadmaking takes away skilled labour from the farms, thus dislocating what is still the most important industry in the country.—Mr. A. P. Crouch, Bradford-on-Avon, Wilts.

PORTRAITS OF MR. GLADSTONE

There is in the Lady Lever collection a portrait in oils of "Gladstone reading the Lessons in Hawarden Church," by Stanley Prior Hall, the Graphic artist who had two Gladstone portraits in the Royal Academy in 1896 and 1899, and whose Graphic sketches were recently added to the National Portrait Gallery. This portrait was painted in 1892. In this collection there are also a marble bust (life size), executed in 1882, and a bronze statuette (full length), executed in 1882, both by E. Onslow Ford, R.A.—Mr. Sydney L. Davison, Curator, the Lady Lever Art Gallery, Port Sunlight.

A PUTNEY PARISH HALL

St. Margaret's Parish Hall, Putney, is to be opened on Monday by the Lord Bishop of Southwark. In order that the hall may be opened free from debt, the sum of £800 is still required. We have found ourselves unable to raise this on account of what has already been done. During the past 12 years the parishioners and their friends have had to endow the living, buy a vicarage house, enlarge and furnish their church (which was originally a Nonconformist chapel) at a cost of nearly £12,000, and now find £4,000 for the erection of a parish hall—and all this on account of an increase in population from about 1,200 to 12,000. The people have responded nobly to the many calls made upon them, and I make this appeal in the hope that some of your readers may kindly help us over this "last lap."—The Rev. Percy G. Wallis, St. Margaret's Vicarage, Luttrell-avenue, Putney.

THE FIRST POSTCARDS

Your correspondent, Mr. Longden, is quite right about the date he gives for the issue of the first postcards, namely, October 1, 1870. The date is ineffacebly impressed on my memory, for I had just left school, and, during a short interval before going into business, was on a visit at my grandfather's house at Blackheath. In spite of his advanced age—he was then in his 89th year—he was, as he told me, keenly interested in everything which indicated progress, and eager to obtain a packet of the new cards, which were then a great novelty. Directly October 1, 1870, arrived he wrote one to his son, Mr. (afterwards Sir) John Simon, then Medical Officer to the Privy Council, and sent me out to post it.—Mr. H. J. Chaldecott, 2, Willow-mansions, N.W.6.

LUGGAGE IN ITALY

I travel each year a good deal by rail to and in Italy and have often remarked upon the tendency of travellers to take in the compartment an inordinately large amount of hand baggage. In Italy on one occasion the whole of the rack space over two vacant seats was taken up by the baggage of other occupants of the compartment, in addition to that over the two places they occupied; when the two vacant seats were taken by others, the hand baggage of the new-comers had to remain in the corridor. The conductor of the train, observing that all the occupants of the compartment were foreigners, raised no objection. Had they been Italians I think it likely that he would have spoken, but special latitude is generally allowed towards foreign visitors. After all, it is in the interests of the travelling public in general that the railway compartments shall not be encumbered with an excessive amount of baggage. In other countries also there is a limit to the amount of hand baggage allowed. In the printed matter on travel to and in Italy distributed by this office, advice is given on this question of hand baggage.—Major W. Stormont, Manager, Italian Travel Bureau, 16, Waterloo-place, S.W.1.

WEEDS

The author of the delightful article on Weeds in The Times of June 10 will, I fear, find no more satisfactory definition of the word's meaning than that which is given in the Pocket Oxford Dictionary—"wild herb springing where it is not wanted." Certainly no sharp distinction can be drawn between weeds and wild flowers, for what may be a weed in one locality may be cultivated elsewhere. Both "cockle" ("noisome weeds" in the margin) and "tares" are mentioned in the Bible, and although botanists are not agreed as to the specific plants which are indicated, it is clear from the context that they represent botanical species which are either of no use or actually injurious to cultivated crops. The "weeds" alluded to in Jonah appear to be seaweeds, but even some of these are edible, and in other ways of use to man.—The Rev. Walter Crick, Eastbourne.

INTEREST ON FRENCH LOANS

Mr. F. R. Bellamy objects to the suggestion that to subscribe to a French loan issued in England could be termed a gamble. I had no very special knowledge, but to those living in France throughout the War it must have appeared a risky thing to do, taking the loan as an ordinary gilt-edged investment. Almost as soon as the War began it must have been generally believed, if not admitted, that it would be a lengthy and also a costly undertaking. On September 6, 1914, if the German Army had entered Paris, disaster would have been at the doors of France, and throughout the War the financial condition of the Allies was critical. The franc soon began to give the proof. Now that is finished: stabilization saved the country, which is now in a very sound condition, with plenty of work for those who are capable and will do it. True, the aged and retired suffer and must suffer severely, and so must all who find that the franc has only the purchasing value of 2d. To suggest that there should be a differential arrangement for foreigners because they were subscribers outside France is, I think, hardly possible to consider for a moment.—Mr. Arthur S. Browne, 33, Boulevard Gambetta, Nice.

AN ENTERPRISING CUCKOO

Mr. Alger Petts may be glad to know that the North Bucks neighbourhood also possesses at least one "enterprising cuckoo." Last week I heard a cuckoo in the vicinity of Dadford, some four miles from Buckingham, which repeatedly uttered a three-note call, the accent falling on the first and third syllables. There was at least one other cuckoo in the locality at the same time, but I am convinced that I did not mistake feathered part-singing for a triple call.—Mr. L. B. Hewitt, Buckingham.

THE BATTLE OF MAIDA

In regard to the statement that English cavalry was not present at the Battle of Maida (July 4, 1806), Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Bunbury states in "A Narrative of Military Transactions in the Mediterranean, 1805-1810":—"At that time [July, 1806] I acted not only as Quartermaster-General, but had the temporary superintendence of the Adjutant-General's department during the absence of Brigadier James Campbell. We had not the means of transporting [from Sicily] many horses. . . . He [the French Commander] had 300 cavalry, we had none. . . . I believe he had in the action about 6,300, including nearly 300 cavalry, an arm in which we were entirely deficient." These extracts may, I think, be accepted as "best" evidence. —Lieutenant-Colonel J. H. Leslie, late, Editor of the Journal of the Society for Army Historical Research, Gunnersholme, S, Palmerston-road, Sheffield.

UGLY GASOMETERS

With regard to your leading article on the colour of letter-boxes, there is one very urgent reform wanted in this connexion, and that is in the colour of those enormous gasometers. Why are these hideous blemishes on the countryside painted red? I know a pretty valley which is quite spoiled by a huge red gasometer; if dark green, or, better still, a form of really good camouflage were used they ought to be made almost invisible. Let this point be brought before the gas companies without any delay. There is no reason at all for the present what you term "militant and crude" colour used except custom and lack of initiative on the part of the companies. —A. C. S. Jackson, Hillfarrance, Hofbrook-lane, Chislehurst, Kent.

THE BATH ROAD IN WILTSHIRE

THE OPPOSITION TO WIDENING

THREATENED BEAUTY

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

MARLBOROUGH, JUNE 13

The Wiltshire County Council proposes to widen the Bath road from one side of the county to the other, and the correspondence columns of The Times have borne witness to the widespread unpopularity of the plan. An inspection of the greater part of this 30 miles of road to-day has suggested that the opposition is based on reasonable grounds.

The road from London to Bath is scheduled as a trunk road throughout its length, and it is the Ministry of Transport's ambition to enlarge it to a uniform width everywhere, except for stretches in the vicinity of large towns which are to be made still wider. Tempted by the Ministry's offer to provide from 75 to 80 per cent. of the cost if the work is begun immediately, and fearing, perhaps, that a refusal of this unusually generous grant (which is offered with the object of easing unemployment) might entail the acceptance of much more stringent terms in the future, the county council has agreed to widen the road within the county boundary to a uniform 30ft. Beside it there is to run an equally uniform 30 miles of footpath, 5ft. wide. The plans of the County Surveyor, Mr. H. S. Ganderton, have been approved in general outline by the Ministry, the details will be submitted for approval shortly, and the County Surveyor hopes that the work may begin within the next two months. The first section of the road to be attacked will be the eastern end, between Froxfield and Marlborough. The whole programme is designed to occupy about five years, and the estimated cost is £360,311.

AN UNNECESSARY SCHEME

The root objection directed against the scheme is that it is totally unnecessary. The road now varies in width from 19ft. to 23ft. or 24ft., and this, it is contended, is enough. A mass of testimony has been adduced to support the statement that there is never any overcrowding worth mentioning on the road. To the evidence already furnished in letters to The Times may be added more to the same effect. A doctor who uses the road daily told me that the busiest day he had ever known between Froxfield and the western end of Savernake Forest was last Saturday. On that occasion he counted only 48 cars and 13 motor-cycles on this six miles of highway. Another witness, a county councillor, described the proposed 5ft. footpath as particularly extravagant, and instanced the recent day on which he passed one tramp and one non-professional walker in the eight miles between Marlborough and Froxfield. The driver of a motor-omnibus which plies daily over this part of the road had no fault to find with it. It was busiest at week-ends and holidays, he said, but even then there was no appreciable congestion. At midday I counted between Froxfield and Marlborough 29 cars and other four-wheeled vehicles, two motor-cycles, and seven push-cycles. Between Marlborough and Cherhill, about 10 miles to the west, the count in the afternoon was even smaller—17 vehicles in all. There was certainly nothing to suggest that the Bath Road stood in any need of widening between the eastern border of the county and Calne, a distance of 20 miles. Here and there—at Silbury Hill, for example, and at an awkward corner near Overton—a bend might be made easier with advantage, and the narrow footpath bordering portions of the road might well be made continuous; but the necessity for a footpath 5ft. wide was not anywhere apparent.

SAVERNAKE FOREST

The Bath Road is at its most beautiful between Hungerford and Calne, and it happens that the choicest stretch of all—which runs through Savernake Forest—is to be widened first. The fear that the beauty of the forest may be impaired is understandable. At this season it is wonderfully picturesque, with its masses of hawthorn standing out white against the rich green of the oaks and beeches. One emerges westward from the forest to come quite suddenly upon a spreading landscape, with downlands in the distance and the red roofs of Marlborough below. In Marlborough and the neighbourhood the feeling seems to be virtually unanimous that the widening of the road can do nothing to improve this perfect countryside, and may even go some distance towards spoiling it; and since the project is held to be unnecessary, extravagant, and even dangerous, if it encourages traffic to travel faster through Marlborough, both town and college have combined in opposing it. They sent a joint deputation to the Ministry of Transport some time ago, and, although the Ministry quoted statistics of increasing traffic—figures which the critics do not accept as conclusive evidence of what will happen in the future—it is still hoped that the extensive scheme may at least be modified before it is begun. A petition to the same effect, signed by ratepayers and users of the road, has been laid before the County Council. The petitioners express themselves as quite in favour of any local widening or diversion at dangerous points, but not of any general widening of the road.

The County Surveyor at Trowbridge, to whom I spoke on the telephone, said that for the most part the widening would be carried out within the existing hedge limits, though here and there it would be necessary to go beyond. The 5ft. footpath had been planned in accordance with the views of the Ministry of Transport, which intended to set such paths alongside all trunk roads in the country, so that the pedestrian should everywhere have his definite place and refuge from passing vehicles. Mr. Ganderton said also that the scheme had been drawn up with an especial eye to the preservation of an unspoiled countryside. In the first section which was to be widened, between Froxfield and Marlborough, only 20 trees would have to be cut down. The road through Savernake Forest, now 21ft. wide, would have 4ft. or 5ft. added to it on each side, and this could be done without encroaching on the fringes of the woods.

ASCOT TRAFFIC PLANS

ROAD BEACONS AND DIRECTIONAL SIGNS

New arrangements for the regulation of traffic at the Ascot Race Meeting were announced by Scotland Yard last night in the following official statement:—

A number of portable flashing signals will this year be placed in the various highways for the guidance of traffic. Drivers must pass on the near side of these temporary beacons, which will be so sited as to give the greatest possible road space for traffic proceeding to the races. The situation of the signals will be changed as necessary for the return journey. Directional signs will be specially exhibited, and breakdown equipment posted at convenient places. The police have instructions in cases of emergency to arrange for the removal of disabled cars. The public is warned to abstain from the dangerous habit of throwing money to children. Visitors to the Royal Enclosure arriving and departing by rail will find access much safer and far more convenient if they use the subway instead of endeavouring to cross the roadway through the heavy volume of traffic in High-street, Ascot.

FATHER AND SON'S SPECTACLES

HENRY FORD, of Pope-road, Bromley Common, Kent, was summoned by the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children at Bromley yesterday for neglecting to provide optical treatment for his 12-year-old son when ordered to do so by the school medical authority. Mr. F. A. Hopkinson, prosecuting, said that the school medical officer ordered spectacles for the boy in January, but the father said he would not have outsiders interfering and declined to get spectacles, although the society at that stage was prepared to pay for them if necessary. After defying the society for four months the father obtained spectacles, but the society decided to prosecute because permanent injury might have resulted owing to the delay. Ford was fined 40s. and ordered to pay £5 5s. costs.

DAZZLE FROM MOTOR HEADLAMPS

ROYAL AUTOMOBILE CLUB MEMORANDUM

At the request of the Ministry of Transport, the Royal Automobile Club has prepared a memorandum on the question of dazzle from the lamps of motor-vehicles, setting out the club's views as to the best methods of prevention. In view of the great importance of this matter and the possibility of regulations dealing with it, the club has obtained the permission of the Ministry of Transport to publish the memorandum, which includes the following:—

As the Minister of Transport is aware, the Royal Automobile Club has for many years past been interested actively in the possibilities of combating automobile lamps' dazzle. The results of the trials carried out by the club go to show that the compromise between the provision of a proper driving light and the elimination of dazzle has still to be found. It seems, therefore, that a proper driving light must necessarily cause dazzle, at any rate so far as development has proceeded at present. If this be accepted, the only alternative remaining is the method of removing temporarily from the oncoming driver's eyes the offending beam which at other times it is necessary to have for safe driving. This temporary removal can be effected either by cutting off the rays above a certain height or by "dipping" the lamp, or its reflector, so that the axis of the main beam is depressed below the level of, or turned away from, the eyes of the oncoming driver.

In the first report of the Royal Commission on Transport it is recommended that the dipping of headlamps is "the best method of meeting the difficulty." The Technical Committee of the club agrees that the dipping or side-swinging of headlights is the best legislative proposal which can be made at the moment. Being "dazzled" is a specific condition. It is equivalent to being blinded, and there is little or no degree of blindness. Gradual depression or swinging of the beam does not lead to a corresponding gradual cessation of the blinding effect of dazzle. A point is reached where the blinding effect quickly and definitely ceases. As the nature of a driving light demands a main beam, it follows that the compulsory movement of this beam to a predetermined point is a legislative possibility.

Although results in the past have been disappointing, experience in similar branches of research goes to show that it is not safe to abandon hope of new developments. Provision should be made for inventions and improvements, and this should be kept in the forefront of the Minister's considerations when regulations are being drafted. The club does not consider that "the exact nature of the device" should be the subject of regulation. If this were done, the effect would be the opposite of providing for development. The regulations should deal with the effect to be achieved—namely, the alteration of direction of the main beam—and not with the nature of the device used for the purpose, and they should make provision (with safeguards against frivolous claims) for invention and improvement.

"NAVIGATION" LAMPS

It is clear that any regulations will have to define, either specifically or by implication, the nature of a headlight. The question of dazzle cannot be divorced from side or "navigation" lamps and "spot" lights. There has been a growing tendency in recent years for navigation lamps fitted to certain types of cars to become more and more brilliant. One of the offenders in this direction is the large car with sidelights at a high level and of unnecessarily large size. The club suggests therefore that any regulations should avoid the use of the word "headlight." It is suggested that the dazzle regulations should be made applicable to all lamps using a bulb exceeding a maximum limit of candle power, or taking a maximum number of watts. The power of the bulbs used in all lamps which are not capable of being "dipped" should not exceed that of the British Automobile Standard bulbs Nos. 9 and 10, taking approximately 6 watts.

The committee further thinks that the limitation of candle power could usefully be carried further, and that the use of any bulb having a power greater than that of bulb No. 4 B.A.S. should be prohibited in any automobile light. The club is also of opinion that in many cases headlights swivelling with the steering are of decided advantage, and, provided that a maximum limit is placed upon the angle of displacement of beam, there are no drawbacks or dangers.

RESIGNATION OF SCHOOL MANAGERS

COMPLAINTS OF INTERFERENCE

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

CHERTSEY, JUNE 13

The school managers of the six elementary schools in the Walton-on-Thames district have unanimously decided to resign. The managers include the vicar of Hersham and the vicar of Oatlands, and the Rev. R. Dow, Congregational minister at Hersham and chairman of the managers.

Mr. Dow has forwarded a resolution, which was unanimously passed at a special meeting of the managers, to the clerk to the Surrey County Council, the secretary of the Surrey Education Committee, and the Walton-on-Thames Urban District Council. The resolution states:—"The managers, having carefully reviewed the whole of the circumstances with regard to the reported irregularities at the Central School, Walton-on-Thames, feel that they have no other alternative but to tender their resignations forthwith, for the following reasons:—(1) The undue interference of representatives of the National Union of Teachers, by which the investigations of the managers have been frustrated.; (2) the procedure of the inquiry held by the Surrey Education Committee was not calculated to bring the full facts before the Committee; and (3) they cannot continue in a position which might be misconstrued by the public."

In a statement to the Press, Mr. Dow said that he believed the National Union of Teachers had instructed two members of the staff concerned not to answer any question which might be put by the managers. As a result of the teachers' refusal to answer what the managers considered to be legitimate questions, they were suspended by the managers. This forced the Surrey Education Committee to hold an inquiry. The two teachers were represented by solicitors and counsel, while the managers were told that they were only present so that they might know what was going on. The managers could only submit questions through the chairman, and their witnesses were left without legal protection.

After the inquiry, Mr. Dow stated, he received a letter from the Surrey Education Committee announcing their decision to reinstate the two members of the staff who had been suspended. A special meeting of the managers was thereupon convened, and they all decided to resign.

MR. J. T. BROWNLIE ON HIS RETIREMENT

MESSAGE TO ENGINEERS' UNION

Mr. J. T. Brownlie, who has been president of the Amalgamated Engineering Union for 17 years, will relinquish office at the end of this month. His retirement is brought about by the age rule of the union. It has been decided that he shall be one of the union's Parliamentary candidates at the next election.

In a farewell message in the union's Monthly Journal, Mr. Brownlie says:—"To say that my leaving office, which I have filled for more than a fourth of my actual life, without a twinge of regret, would not only be untrue, but you would not believe me. However, I hope to be able to render further service to the union in other spheres of activity. During the 17 years which I have occupied the responsible position of chairman of the Executive Council, I have given of my best, and no man can give more. Whether my best has always been advantageous and beneficial to the organization it is not for me to say, my endeavours in this respect will be judged at the bar of history, whose judgment is irrevocable.

"To my immediate colleagues I tender my sincere thanks for the assistance they have given to me during the period I have presided over their deliberation, and to the membership generally my grateful and deep appreciation for the sustained confidence reposed in me throughout the 17 years which I have occupied high office, by their votes. . . . In taking leave of you, fellow members, I look forward with unbounded confidence to our organization carrying on the great traditions of our honourable forbears, who laid the foundations of engineering trade unionism, and likewise urge upon you to have confidence in the efficacy of our union, believing it to be the most efficacious in promoting and safeguarding the interests of the operative engineer; therefore, raise your eyes to the hills, and press forward!"

UNIVERSITY NEWS

DEGREES AT CAMBRIDGE

ARCHAEOLOGICAL TRIPOS LIST

CAMBRIDGE, JUNE 13

At a Congregation held this afternoon, the VICE-CHANCELLOR (Mr. A. B. Ramsay, Master of Magdalene) presiding, the Regent House approved of the recommendations contained in the report of the Council of the Senate to the effect that there be established in the University for three years a temporary Professorship of Colloidal Physics, which in the first instance is to be held by Mr. E. K. Rideal, M.A., of Trinity Hall. The professorship is to be primarily assigned to the Faculty of Physics and Chemistry.

Approval was also given to the recommendations of the Council on the establishment of a Professorship of Modern History (additional to the Regius Professorship of Modern History), this chair to be held in the first instance by Dr. H. W. V. Temperley, the present Reader in Modern History, with a stipend of £1,200 a year, the professorship being primarily assigned to the Faculty of History.

Sir G. G. Scott, Mr. A. F. Scholfield, of King's (Librarian), Mr. C. F. Cooper, of Trinity Hall, Mr. A. T. Bartholomew, of Peterhouse, Mr. H. C. Stanford, of St. John's, and Mr. H. C. Marshall, of Trinity, were appointed members of the Commission to visit libraries in Europe and the United States and Canada, in accordance with the offer of the Rockefeller Foundation to pay the expenses.

On the nomination of the Faculty Board of Biology A, Mr. A. J. Gray, of King's, was appointed the representative of the University on the Council of the Marine Biological Association for 12 months.

Subsequently, at a Congregation of the Senate, the following Degrees were conferred:—

M.A.—In person (Grace 19 of June 13, 1930).—PIERO SRAFFA (King's) (University Lecturer in the Faculty of Economics and Politics).

Ph.D.—In person.—F. L. ARNOT and H. M. CAVE, Trin.; P. S. HUDSON, Trin. H.; G. C. MCVITTIE, C. P. SNOW, and G. N. TUCKER, Christ's; C. A. LEA and G. WALKER, Emm.

M.A.—By proxy.—F. H. Hooper, Cls.; A. C. Blunt and E. V. Tomlinson, Pemb.; C. E. Simmons, Queens'; L. T. Brown and H. J. Coates, Christ's; J. S. B. Lloyd, Magd.; C. E. Key, Selw.

In person.—J. R. Coogan and W. J. Taylor, Trin.; G. H. Herridge, R. E. M. Jackson, and K. H. Saunders, Joh.; R. C. Simcoe, Pemb.; H. F. Griffiths, G. E. Pollard, and O. W. H. Roberts, Gonv. and Cai.; R. A. Harman, Trin. H.; W. H. J. Hooton, J. Torbarina, and S. W. Yeomans, Queens'; G. Bicknell, P. A. N. Elliston, and J. S. Redmayne, Cath.; D. W. Clarke, Christ's; P. D. Bennett and L. C. Hickin, Magd.; R. G. Connell, G. W. Furlonge, R. H. Garvey, H. S. Gibson, E. G. Hammond, and J. W. J. Thackwell, Emm.

M.S.—By proxy.—R. R. T. Young, Jes.

B.A.—In person.—R. S. Ball and M. H. R. Synge, King's.

The following Tripos List is published:—

ARCHAEOLOGICAL AND ANTHROPOLOGICAL TRIPOS

SECTION A.

CLASS I.—Clark, J. G. D., Pet.; Fosbrooke, H. A., Joh.; Noone, H. D., Corp. Chr.

CLASS II.—DIVISION I.—Rice, A. K., and Walton, A. St. G., Cai. DIVISION II.—Barton, G. T., Selw.; Collings, H. D., Joh.; Osborne, F. S., and Windley, E. H., Cath.

CLASS III.—Carbonell, J. R., Cath.; Low, H. P., Christ's; Shope, C. H. B. S., Queens'; Tupper, M. E., Emm.

WOMEN

CLASS I.—Hunter, M. M., Girt.

SECTION B.

CLASS I.—Da Palmer, J. L., Emm.

The schools of those placed in the First Class were as follows:—Clark (Marlborough College), Fosbrooke (Pocklington School), Noone (Aldenham School), Hunter (Collegiate School, Port Elizabeth), Palmer (Jarrow-on-Tyne Secondary School).

LONDON, JUNE 13

The following awards of Entrance Scholarships and Exhibitions have been made on the results of the Inter-Collegiate Scholarships Board's examinations:—

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE.—Andrews Sch. in Classics (£40 a year for three years), M. CLAVERT (Thornton Grammar School, Bradford); Andrews Sch. in Arts (£40 a year for three years), MARGARET HALL (County High School, Wellingborough); Andrews Sch. in Science (£40 a year for three years), P. J. HUTCHINGS (Westminster City School); Goldsmid Sch. in Science (£40 a year for three years), H. J. DRINKALL (Wyggeston Boys' School, Leicester); Goldsmid Sch. in Engineering (£50 a year for three years), P. E. L. FELLOWS (Ampleforth College, York); Rose Morison Sch. (£40 a year for three years), F. P. NIGHTINGALE (Cardinal Vaughan School); West Sch. in English and English History (£30 for one year), G. E. PALMER (Huntingdon Grammar School); Scholarship Laws (£30 a year for three years), V. F. M. J. O. STRANDERS (Henry Thornton School).

KING'S COLLEGE.—Sambrooke Sch. in Arts (£40 a year for three years), E. MURRAY (Latymer Upper School, Hammersmith); Sambrooke Sch. in Engineering (£50 a year for three years), H. LEADERMAN (Raine's Foundation School); Sambrooke Sch. in Natural Science (£40 a year for three years), R. H. ABBOTT (County School, Weston-super-Mare); Founders' Company's Sch. in Engineering (£40 a year for three years), B. G. CANNY (St. Paul's School, West Kensington); Henry Neville Gladstone Sch. (£40 a year for three years), E. F. CANDLIN (Varndean School for Boys, Brighton); Merchant Taylors' Sch. (£40 a year for two years), ETHEL E. WILDGOOSE (County Secondary School, Sydenham).

EAST LONDON COLLEGE (awards subject to approval of Court of Assistants of the Drapers' Company):—Drapers' Company's Science Sch. (£80 per annum for three years), J. BENDER (Central Foundation School, E.C.2). Drapers' Company's Science Sch. (£80 per annum for three years).—E. TOMS (Brentwood Grammar School). Drapers' Company's Science Sch. (£80 per annum for three years).—HETTY CAWTHORNE (the Secondary School, Morley, Yorks). Drapers' Company's Arts Sch. (£80 per annum for three years).—D. ROMYANECK (Raine's Foundation School). Drapers' Company's Arts Sch. (£80 per annum for three years).—NORAH FARRAR (King's Norton Secondary School for Girls). Drapers' Company's Arts Exhibition (£30 per annum for three years).—P. A. DAPE (Cardinal Vaughan School). Drapers' Company's Arts Exhibition (£30 per annum for three years).—EDITH N. FRANCIS (James Allen's Girls' School).

BEDFORD COLLEGE.—Reid Scholarship (£40 per annum for three years).—DOROTHY E. VALLINS (Walthamstow Hall, Sevenoaks). Reid Scholarship (£40 per annum for three years).—DORA TODD (City of London Girls' School). Deccan Sch. (£50 per annum for three years).—ELSIE M. CANNON (Varndean School for Girls, Brighton). Reid Trustees' Sch. (£60 per annum for three years).—MARGARET E. MCCARRAHER (Hitchin Girls' Grammar School). Pfeiffer Sch. (£50 per annum for three years).—BETTY NEAVES (High School for Girls, Tottenham). Pfeiffer Sch. (£50 per annum for three years).—EVELYN S. ELLIOTT (the Ladies' College, Tottenham). Arnott Sch. (£40 per annum for three years).—ELIZABETH B. SUDBURY (County School for Girls, Rexhill-on-Sea). Henry Tate Sch. (£50 per annum for three years).—MARY BROWN (St. Saviour's and St. Olave's Grammar School for Girls).

LONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS.—Scholarships (£40 per annum for three years).—In Economics.—MARGARET C. BOTTOMLEY (Putney High School). F. F. COLEMAN (City School for Boys, Harrow), and A. EMANUEL (Henry Thornton School, Clapham Common). Whittuck Sch. (£40 per annum for three years).—J. C. HALES (the Central Tutorial College). Bursaries.—JOAN C. WILLIS (Camden School for Girls, N.W.5), LUCY J. GROUT (City School for Girls, Dartford), H. A. IVES (Woolwich County School), GEORGIANA B. BIRD (Girls' College, Malvern), and GRACE A. EVANS (City of London College).

MEDICAL SCHOLARSHIPS

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE.—Medical Sch. (£30 per annum for three years).—H. A. CATLEY (Alleyn's School, Dulwich).

KING'S COLLEGE.—Warneford Scholarships (£30 per annum for four years).—C. W. DIXON (St. Olave's Grammar School) and H. J. STAMMERS (Ipswich School). Sambrooke Sch. (£30 per annum for three years).—J. V. DACIE (King's College School).

SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIPS

The following school scholarship awards are announced:—

ETON COLLEGE

Recommended for election to foundation scholarships.—S. LUSHINGTON (Copthorne School), A. MAYOR (Scaitcliffe, Englefield Green), H. A. HEPBURN SCOTT (Aysgarth School, Newton-le-Willows), H. L. JENKYNS (Copthorne School), G. J. CUMING (Highfield School, Liphook), D. P. SIMPSON (Highfield School, Liphook), H. ASTELL BURT (Home Tuition), E. C. HOBLER (Stone House, Broadstairs), M. BUCKNALL (St. Peter's Court, Broadstairs), D. H. MACINDOE (Scaitcliffe, Englefield Green), J. E. MORCOM (King's Mead, Seaford), M. J. C. MARKS (Private Tuition), J. A. C. SHAW (Sunningdale School), A. L. M. CARY (Dragon School, Oxford), C. C. D. SMYTH (Stoke House, Seaford), J. D. RITCHIE (Mill Mead School, Shrewsbury), D. M. M. HENDERSON (Earleywood School, Ascot), J. M. FLINT (Eton College), G. T. HEATH (Holmbury St. Mary, Dorking), and N. C. BARDGE (The Wick, Hove).

ARDINGLY COLLEGE

Ardingly College (Sussex) to-day celebrates its diamond jubilee. In the Fellows' Garden in the afternoon Sir Philip Ben Greet and his company will present As You Like It. Afterwards there will be swimming sports, and a thanksgiving service is to be held in the chapel, at which the sermon will be preached by the Provost, the Bishop of Southwell. There will be no cricket match, but the school shooting eight will be engaged at Bisley against Eton College. A large gathering of Old Ardinians and parents is expected.

PROPERTY OWNERS AND SLUM CLEARANCE

Members of the Property Owners' Protection Association, Limited, discussed yesterday matters arising out of the new London quinquennial valuation at a meeting at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon-street, E.C. Mr. HAROLD GRIFFIN, chairman, said, with regard to the Housing Bill now before Parliament, that they had got an admission from the Government that there were certain hardships on property owners in connexion with slum clearances, and a promise had been given to do something to meet these hard cases. With regard to Schedule A tax in the Finance Bill, it was hoped to get something done to amend the scale of allowances for empty houses and repairs.

A private Bill, on behalf of the association, is to be introduced into Parliament in the autumn seeking to place on the Metropolitan Water Board the cost of repairs for water pipes damaged under roadways through heavy motor traffic.

LONDON MAGISTRATE RETIRING

Mr. J. Sharpe, one of the magistrates at the Thames Police Court, will retire in July. He was formerly magistrate at West Ham.

NEW FREEMEN OF INVERNESS

THE PRIME MINISTER HONOURED

MR. BALDWIN ON THE HIGHLANDS

Many members of the Clan Donald were in Inverness yesterday when the Freedom of the burgh was conferred on Mr. MacDonald, the Prime Minister, on Mr. Stanley Baldwin, whose mother was a Macdonald, and on Sir Murdoch Macdonald, M.P. for Inverness-shire. At the ceremony in the Playhouse, Cameron Highlanders in full-dress uniform acted as stewards, and scarlet-coated halberdiers bearing Lochaber axes guarded the procession. Among those present were Mackintosh of Mackintosh, the Duke of Sutherland, and Sir Alexander Macdonald of the Isles. The Prime Minister was accompanied by Miss Ishbel MacDonald and Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, M.P. The three new burgesses duly took the oath of loyalty to the burgh and signed the burgess roll. Then each was wedded to the town, heavy gold wedding rings being slipped on their fingers by Provost Macewen.

The PROVOST, in welcoming them, said that out of 10 Prime Ministers in the last 50 years, the ratio had been 6½ Scots to 2½ English and one Welsh. The chief export of the Highlands was brains, but there was a danger that the nursery of the country would be depleted and that in future the Highlands would be more famous for their beauty than for the men they produced.

ROMANCE OF INVERNESS

The PRIME MINISTER, responding, said Inverness was not only a name graven deeply in the story of their nation. It was much more. To the Highlander it was a city of inspiration and contained those strangely magical influences that not only won for it honour but the tenderest cords of affection. Its story had its biotches as well as its points of light, and fairy magic transmuted the dross of the real into the gleaming chivalry of romance.

"We must guard the Highlands," he continued. "They are not the place of wealth. They never have been, and I hope never will be, the place of softening, material comfort. They are the place of inspiration and have been chosen by the fingers that fashioned creation to be the embodiment of the chastest and most inspiring beauty the eye of man can light upon in these islands."

MR. BALDWIN'S SPEECH

Mr. BALDWIN said:—To-day I find myself one of the Children of the Dispersion. My mother's people have been out with the '45 and driven from their homes by the British Government. If there be one characteristic of the Children of the Dispersion stronger than another, it is that, of those who went away, hardly any have appeared in the ranks of the great financiers, but wherever there has been hard work to be done in exploration, in opening up new country in Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, and India, there have been the Highlanders in the forefront.

What of the future? How are you going to keep people on their native soil? The newer civilization always tends to drive out the old. It is hard to see how those virtues which we associate with the soil in the Highlands and in my England, can remain, under the terrific pressure of the industrial system of Great Britain, under that pull of the town—the crowds, the football matches, the movies, and all that paraphernalia which for want of a better word we call "civilization." But whether they are able to remain or be dispersed, they will always take with them the genius of their race.

Whatever the faults of the Celts, and I know them as I know those of the English—and very useful I have found it—we are here to look at their virtues. Surely we bring from the Highlands a love of beauty, of Nature, of the poetry of life, of education and learning, and what the Saxon lacks more than anything, we bring a loyalty to the past, not always the historic past, but one which grows and lives in the very essence of our being. It helps us in our work in the present. It saves us from the greatest peril of our age, the peril of materialism, and you cannot graft materialism on to a Celt. If you do you make a very terrible compound. The struggle against materialism is one of the greatest of our age, and in that struggle we have no doubt on which side we take our stand.

AN ENGINEERING REMINISCENCE

SIR MURDOCH MACDONALD mentioned that it was from a little Highland burn that he first got the experience which stood him in such good stead in his engineering work in Egypt. He had since taken the name of "Burn" for his telegraphic address.

The new burgesses were afterwards entertained at luncheon at the Town Hall, and later the Prime Minister unveiled a tablet at the new infirmary. The streets of the town were decorated with flags and boughs of Scotch fir, and crowds waited for over three hours to catch a glimpse of their new freemen.

Sir Alexander Grant, of Relugas House, Morayshire, who was present at the Northern Infirmary, Inverness, when the Prime Minister visited the institution, has announced that he will contribute £3,000 a year for seven years to the infirmary reconstruction fund. The Prime Minister had appealed in his speech for some generous benefactor to contribute £1,000 to bring the fund up to £100,000.

MORE SUB-SURFACE TUBE STATIONS

UNDERGROUND PLANS

The Underground Railways are planning to do away with many of the old above-ground stations and to substitute sub-surface stations like the new Piccadilly-circus Station. An Underground Railways official said last night that the extensions from Finsbury Park to Cockfosters, near Barnet, and from Hammersmith to Northfield would mean much heavier traffic on those lines and consequent reconstruction of the stations, and the opportunity was being taken of building sub-surface stations in the Central London and West End districts, which were really necessary today on account of the heavy street traffic. With sub-surface stations, having many entrances, there would be no need to cross busy streets to catch a train.

Leicester-square Station, on which work would probably begin in six weeks' time [as announced in The Times on May 29], would be the first to be converted into a sub-surface station. Dover-street, Hyde Park Corner, Knightsbridge, and other stations on the Piccadilly line would follow. The Piccadilly Station cost about £500,000 to reconstruct; Leicester-square would cost about £400,000. There would probably be four subway entrances—on each corner of the cross-roads—and three escalators, one reversible. The old above ground station would disappear, and below the booking hall arrangements would be similar to those at Piccadilly-circus, with an arcade and show cases.

At Hyde Park-corner the same would be done, with entrances to the station from the park and from the pavement on the St. George's Hospital side. The entrances to the new Dover-street Station would include one near the Ritz Hotel on the Green Park side.

The official added that something like 50,000,000 people a year used the subways and station at Piccadilly-circus, where the improvements had had the effect of challenging Charing Cross as London's busiest centre. When reconstruction was carried out the traffic did increase. Escalators added greatly to a station's popularity, as also, of course, did its general appearance. The complete scheme would cost approximately £13,000,000 and this sum would provide for the extension of the tube from Finsbury Park to Cockfosters and from Hammersmith to Northfields, together with the enlarging of outlying stations and the conversion of the Central and West End stations into sub-surface stations. The extensions alone would cost about £8,000,000.

THE 3RD GRENADIER GUARDS

The 3rd Battalion, Grenadier Guards, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel A. F. A. N. Thorne, yesterday changed their quarters from the Tower of London to Wellington Barracks. They exercised their ancient privilege of marching through the City with bayonets fixed, colours flying, and band playing. As they passed the Mansion House they saluted the Lord Mayor, who, with the Sheriffs, was on the balcony.

THREE MEN KILLED AT A FARM

FUMES IN A SILO

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

RUGBY, JUNE 13

Fumes in a silo caused the death this morning of Mr. W. T. Crofts, a well-known farmer of Stretton-under-Fosse, Rugby, and two of his workmen—George Jackson, a married man with a family, and Ernest Brain, single, who lived with his widowed mother.

During the past few days a silo tower on the farm, in which dry food for cattle was being made, was filled with freshly cut hay, and this morning Jackson entered for the purpose of stamping down the grass. Soon afterwards Brain also entered, and immediately afterwards a farm worker named Smith heard shouts and a noise of kicking. He went to investigate, and seeing the men overcome with fumes at once sought Mr. Crofts. Mr. Crofts, on arrival, mounted the ladder and told Smith to fetch a rope, but by the time he had returned with this Mr. Crofts was also overcome by the fumes. Help was at hand, however, and Leonard Conopo, a shepherd, assisted by Mr. F. B. Crofts, son of the farmer, succeeded in attaching a rope to the bodies, and by this means they were lowered to the ground. All three were dead. It is believed that the fumes were caused by the discharge of gases from the newly mown hay.

Mr. Crofts, who was married, was well known among agriculturists in Warwickshire and Leicestershire.

THE PAISLEY CINEMA DISASTER

INSPECTOR'S CRITICISM OF THE MANAGEMENT

The report of Major T. H. Crozier, Chief Inspector of Explosives, on the circumstances attending the loss of life at the Glen Cinema, Paisley, on December 31, 1929, was published yesterday by the Stationery Office (price 6d.). He thinks that the circumstances directly leading to the disaster may be tabulated as follows:—(a) The position of the rewinding-room, (b) the blocking of the exits, (c) the lack of attendants, and (d) overcrowding.

Major Crozier states that he has placed the position of the rewinding-room first in his list because it was on account of this position that the smoke from the burning film penetrated into the auditorium and caused the panic which led to the disaster. The great loss of life, however, was due to the fact that the collapsible gate outside the rear exit was closed, and on this there was little more to be said. There are, however, he adds, several criticisms to be made upon the exit system of this hall.

While it is impossible to say that attendants in proper numbers would have been able to prevent the panic altogether, it is fair to argue, the report states, that the rush of children might have been controlled to some extent, and, once partially stopped, might have been prevented from developing into the mad rush which occurred. The children might have been quietened, especially as the source of the smoke had been removed and it would gradually lessen. There appears to be no doubt that the ground floor of the hall was allowed to become overcrowded and that children were standing in the gangways between the seats.

Several points, the Inspector states, came to his notice which pointed to laxity on the part of the management. "By Regulation 5," the report continues, "smoking is prohibited in the enclosure and in the rewinding room, and notices stating that smoking is prohibited are to be posted in these rooms. Such notices in good bold type were correctly posted. I cannot say that persons did smoke in either of these places, but I can say that in the enclosure the ends of cigarettes, of recent origin, and several spent matches were found on the floor, while in the rewinding room there was an empty cigarette carton and an empty match box, and on the top wooden shelf the unmistakable mark of a burning cigarette."

LONDON MASTER PRINTERS ASSOCIATION

At the meeting of the Council of the London Master Printers Association on Thursday, Mr. A. Bonner, F.S.A. (Bonner and Co.), was elected president of the association for the ensuing year; Mr. Guy Harrison, F.R.A.S., F.R.G.S. (Harrison and Sons), and Mr. J. Crowlesmith (Hazell, Watson and Viney) were elected vice-presidents; and the Treasurer, Mr. E. C. Austen-Leigh (Spottiswoode, Ballantyne and Co.) was re-elected.

THE SALE ROOM

FAMILY PORTRAITS

Family portraits by British artists, the property of Sir Hastings H. D'Oyly, of The Knoll, Walmer; portraits, the property of Mr. G. Bowler Gipps; drawings by T. Rowlandson, and pictures from other sources brought a total of £5,496 at Christie's yesterday.

A collection of caricatures, illustrations, and sketches, in a folio volume, by Thomas Rowlandson and H. Bunbury, sold for 631 guineas (Parsons). Among the pictures were:—Tiepolo, a set of four, "Christ Blessing the Children," "The Descent from the Cross," "The Procession to Calvary," and "The Massacre of the Innocents," which brought 421 guineas (Peyton); J. T. Seton, a portrait of Diana Rochfort, wife of Sir John Hadley D'Oyly, and children, 76in. by 59in., 200 guineas (R. W. Partridge); Joos Cleve, "The Virgin Nursing the Sleeping Saviour," on panel, 15½in. by 12in.—170 guineas (the Rev. M. O'Connor); and P. Monamy, Men-o'-war and boats, 24in. by 37½in.—155 guineas (Gray).

GLASS, COINS, AND SILVER

English and Irish glass and old furniture from various sources fetched £1,587 at Sotheby's yesterday. A mahogany folding table, 31in. wide, sold for £78 (A. J. Lewis), and a Sheraton mahogany small cabinet, 82in. by 37in.—£68 (A. J. Cohen). In another room the second day's sale of coins and medals realized £1,533. A $50 Californian "Target," 1851, Augustus Humbert, 887 and 50 stamped in on obverse, and 50 stamped in centre of reverse, sold for £98; a Panama Pacific Exhibition, San Francisco, $50, octagonal, 1915, head of Athena—£66; Pius IX. medal by Nic. Cerbara—£55 (all three bought by Messrs. Baldwin); and a Grecian George, 100-drachmae, by Barre, 1876—£57 10s. (Spink).

Among the silver and jewels at Hurcomb's, Piccadilly, yesterday, four antique trencher salts, 10½oz., sold at 142s. 6d. per oz.—£76 11s. 10d. (Freeman); and a three-stone diamond ring realized £118 (Leighton).

LADY WILTON'S JEWELS

Messrs. Christie have fixed one of the most important jewel sales of the season for June 24. One section will consist of the jewelry of the late Brenda Lady Wilton, one of the chief items being a ring with a large oblong emerald in platinum hoop with diamond shoulders, and another is a brilliant pavé band bracelet. Jewelry, the property of the late Mrs. H. M. Allport, of Partridge Green, will include a necklace of 101 graduated pearls with sapphire and cluster snap, from the Red Cross sale. One of the other important lots is a brilliant tiara, the property of Mrs. Oscar Hood, of Buckhill House, Calne, who inherited it from her grandmother, Emily Lady Lansdowne. Important articles from other sources include pearl necklaces, a ruby and brilliant suite, brilliant brooches, &c.

PRINCESS MARY

VISIT TO CHELTENHAM LADIES' COLLEGE

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

CHELTENHAM, JUNE 13

Princess Mary, Countess of Harewood, visited Cheltenham Ladies' College to-day. Though the visit was of a private nature to enable the Princess to see the normal life and working of the College, the town accorded her a civic welcome, and flags and bunting were displayed along the route from the railway station to the College.

The Princess, who travelled from Paddington by train, was received at the station by the Mayor, Alderman C. H. Margrett, on behalf of the town, and by Lord Apsley and Colonel Tarrant, for the College. The Princess accepted a bouquet from the Mayoress, and the members of the governing body of the College were presented to her.

At the College the Princess was received by the Principal, Miss B. M. Sparks, who, after the presentation of Lady Ampthill, the Bishop of Gloucester, and others, read an address of welcome. "The Royal Princesses of England," the address said, "have at all times cherished learning, and by voluntary and personal labour have opened the way to even greater achievements."

Having been presented with a bouquet of orchids by the Senior Prefect, Miss Pamela

IF YOU HAVE TO GET A PERMIT

By CALLISTHENES

One of the great disadvantages of the spread of government is that it increases the number of things for which you have to get a permit.

What a trouble it is to get a permit for anything! How the committees and officials and referees and councils multiply difficulties possible and impossible, dangers real and fantastic, injuries real and imaginary! Whether it be a new building or a new road, a new railway or a new theatre, progress is everywhere slowed up in proportion to the number of committees which have to give permits for one thing or another.

A major example of this calamity is, of course, the Channel Tunnel. All that was wanted was a permit to build it. The enterprise, the design, the money were there—but the Government held the veto. For generations there has been the parade of official objections, and the Tunnel is not yet built.

We sometimes wonder what would have happened if we had had to get a Government permit to open this House of Business. What a vast array of objections a committee would have raised! They would solemnly have pointed out the number of stores in existence. They would conscientiously have quoted the opinion of leading traders that the "present facilities are adequate"; that the existing stores and shops gave a service second to none in the world, that there were serious risks of the large amount of capital necessary for such a project being lost and a considerable number of workers thrown into unemployment. And so on.

All this would have sounded very wise and very prudent. But it would have been nonsense all the same. Events have proved it. This Business has helped every other well-managed similar business in London because it has turned the public's attention more toward the pleasure of shopping.

No project ever came before any committee but some member said, "Present facilities are adequate." That is the committee way of saying, "Let well alone," or "What was good enough for our fathers is good enough for us." No large capital expenditure was ever proposed but some one on a committee said it would be lost or unremunerative.

The breath of life in any nation is enterprise. It is enterprise that gives it growth and power and prosperity. Every new permit made necessary, every new committee given the power of veto, is a weight hung upon enterprise. Many of these shackles and manacles upon the men who want to do things may be necessary. We live in a crowd and must be careful not to tread on the rights of others. But some of them are superfluous.

No nation at any time can afford to discourage the industrial enterprise of its citizens—and certainly not in these times, when the world is in low spirits industrially and men who can look ahead and act with courage are more valuable than ever before.

A TOPI ANTELOPE FROM UGANDA

BIRTHS AT THE ZOO

Sir William Gowers, Governor of Uganda, has presented to the Zoo an example of the Topi antelope, a species not represented in the Gardens since 1836. It is a large, heavily built animal, closely allied to the hartebeestes and blesbok and with the same rather long and ugly face. The horns are stout and conical. The coloration is reddish brown, of the tint familiar in domestic cattle, with a large patch of black on the face, each shoulder, and hip. The species inhabits tropical Africa from Senegambia to the frontier of Sudan-Abyssinia and southwards through Uganda and Kenya. There are a number of local races, and the popular names "Korrigum" and "Tiang" have been applied to several of these.

Captain Pitman, game warden of Uganda, who has just come home on leave, has brought with him and presented to the society a pair of adult Potto lemurs. These are heavily built, shorttailed creatures with rather short, thick fur of a grey-brown tint. They are almost entirely nocturnal, and live on a mixed diet. They take all kinds of insects and grubs, lizards, young birds, eggs, and fruit.

There are rather more than usual young animals at the Zoo just now. The Barbary sheep, Caucasian wild goats, and Grecian ibex on the Mappin Terraces have all many kids, whose agility is pleasant to watch. Now that the Gardens are open on Thursday evenings the sight is specially attractive, as all these animals are more active in the early part of the evening. The pair of yak in the cattle sheds have produced another calf, and two kids have been born to the black buck in quarantine in the sanatorium. The colony of prairie marmots in the enclosure at the flower garden is increasing in numbers, and at least two recently born young have been seen, but as the animals live in burrows they have made themselves a census cannot be taken.

A pig-tailed monkey has been born in the Monkey House, and seems to be thriving, and in the Small Mammal House there are a newborn flying opossum and two more bush babies.

ENGLISH CHURCH ART

The Bishop of London will perform the opening ceremony next Monday of the Festival of English Church Art, to be held at the Caxton Hall from June 16 to July 2. The object of the festival is to give a demonstration of the work of living artists, and, in addition to the exhibition at the hall, contemporary music will be rendered at the daily services to be held at Christ Church, Victoria-street. There will be conferences on modern art and architecture, and "The Application of the Arts to Anglican Worship" will form the subject of daily lectures at the Caxton Hall. On June 17 Miss Lilian Baylis, Miss Elsa Fogerty, and Miss Eva Moore will debate on "The Stage and the Parish Church," and the following week the Bishop of Woolwich, the Rev. Chancellor Ponsonby, and Dr. S. H. Nicholson will speak on "Music and the Parish Church." Religious dramas and concerts will be given each evening, and will include a performance by the Rudolph Dolmetsch Trio. The festival will conclude with a service of praise and thanksgiving at Westminster Abbey on July 2.

Entertainments

AN ENGLISH OPERA

PUBLICATION AND PERFORMANCE

When a new opera is produced abroad either the score is on sale beforehand, or, as in the cases of Boito's Nerone at Milan and Strauss's Die Aegyptische Helene at Dresden, when it is intended to manipulate publicity with special care, copies are issued to critics on condition that their pens remain sheathed till the chosen day arrives. In England composers, theatre managers, and publishers have not developed this corporate technique, because the second party in the triumvirate hardly exists. The composer rash enough to write an opera must still look about for some party of amateurs enthusiastic enough to produce it. If he is lucky publication may follow some time.

This is more or less what has happened with Vaughan Williams's four-act opera, Sir John in Love. Not that the composer had to importune amateur societies to perform his work. Had that been the case probably we should not even now have heard of its existence, for Dr. Vaughan Williams would be the last man to undertake such a task in his own behalf. Fortunately, Sir Hugh Allen, in command of the Opera Study Fund with which Sir Ernest Palmer has endowed the Royal College of Music, was able to give it something better than an amateur production, and again a month or so ago to secure its repetition as a feature of the Oxford Festival. Now there comes from the Oxford University Press a well-engraved score with a German translation made by Anton Mayer added to the English text. Thus a great English opera creeps into existence. The next step would be for a German theatre to give it a competent professional performance. We dare suggest that if Cologne contemplates a third Easter Festival in 1931 as an attraction to English visitors, Sir John in Love would be the very thing with which to attract them. This year Sir Thomas Beecham was invited to conduct Die Meistersinger in Cologne. It would be a bolder but a still more interesting venture to carry over Dr. Malcolm Sargent and Mr. Jack Gordon as conductor and producer of Sir John in Love.

A foreign production would need the guidance of artists versed in English ways and habits of thought. For when we speak of Sir John in Love as an English opera we do not merely mean that its composer can show a British birth certificate. It is English through and through in style. That is why it has so little chance of appealing to the cosmopolitan taste of the London opera-going public. The folksong, the folkdance, the Elizabethan lyric, the madrigal, the catch and the Psalm tune, are the bases of this style. Vaughan Williams is perhaps the only composer who has found ways of adding harmonies to the virgin soil of English modal melody without giving the feeling of having brought it under cultivation. He is quite certainly the only living one who writes tunes of that kind without letting one know whether he is composing or quoting. One doubts whether he always knows himself. When he recognizes a quotation he generally puts a footnote in the score that others may do so too, but not always. And the hearer who does not know these things or who does not want to think about them may enjoy himself right through the bustling course of this very active opera, in which capital tunes jostle one another like the puns and the quips of Shakespeare's lines.

The more one studies the details of the score the more one realizes how every musical phrase springs out of some hint given by Shakespeare, even though the shape of the play has been pulled about—some would say irreverently mangled—in order to get from The Merry Wives of Windsor what the composer wants to picture of Sir John in Love. In reading and playing through the score, too, after hearing the opera performed, one has the assurance that its rather wry-looking passages, the apparent misfits in harmony and modulation, do, in fact, justify themselves as means to a consistently pursued end.

Not only the musical form but the stage action, too, is rooted in traditions which, being peculiarly English, have practically no precedent on the operatic stage. The conventionally trained chorus and ballet who should try to interpret the gambols in Windsor Forest in the light of the Verdi and Nicolai traditions would be very much at a loss. A subtle instance of the influence of the English folkdance occurs in Ford's search through the house for the hidden Falstaff. The men and women of the house follow Ford in single file. "Whenever he comes to a likely place he steps back to examine it. The others conform, so that gradually a sort of dance evolves," and this dance exactly goes to the music, "the steps back on the long accented notes of the tune." The device can be either absurd or purposeful. Folkdancers will easily make sense of it.

There is one stage direction which the generally faithful German translator has had to paraphrase a little. That is where Falstaff having secured his assignation is set down to indite a love song, one of the interpolations into the Shakespearian text:—

Like all amateur composers he has the best literary traditions coupled with the worst style in music. He sings as he writes in exaggerated "Singer's English" ("thaat" for "that," "blees" for "bliss," "raw-hawses" for "roses").

So let it not be thought that only the pure records of the Folksong Journal are tributary to the broad stream of Vaughan Williams's inspiration. Even the late and unlamented ballad concerts take a place in its humours, and if the ballad concerts are dead, the "Singer's English" that they bred still flourishes, and will flourish until we have an operatic institution capable of stamping it out. Apart from such a moment of caricature as this, the declamation of the vocal parts in Sir John in Love is fascinating because of its naturalness. It is here that his predecessors among English composers, more especially Purcell and Parry, have taught the composer something. We may wish for a foreign performance of Sir John in Love as the best hope for its immediate future, but just as Bach and Wagner must be heard in their own tongue for a full appreciation of their musical sensitiveness to language, so must this work come home eventually to be known for a masterpiece.

MISS DE VILLAMIL'S RECITAL

Miss Violet de Villamil's voice is of unusual quality, and it appeared in the course of her recital at Wigmore Hall on Wednesday night that she is in some danger of abusing its exceptional character. The tone is full and "creamy" even in extreme high notes, which are very beautiful. The voice, however, is really a light one—it would take the top line of a madrigal admirably—and to demand of it the tension required by Helena's aria from Strauss's Die Aegyptische Helena (the first note of that work, by the way, to be heard in England) was to put a strain on it, that became apparent when she followed it with Brahms's "Die Mainacht," where the control was unsteady and the intonation doubtful. Another matter that requires attention is the moulding of the vocal line by a more acute sense of rhythm.

COVENT GARDEN OPERA

"LA TRAVIATA"

Violetta	Rosa Ponselle
Giorgio Germont	Giovanni Inghilleri
Alfredo	Beniamino Gigli
Flora Bervoix	Tamara Beltacchi
Annina	Gladys Palmer
Il Barone Duphol	Aristide Baracchi
Dottore Grenville	Dennis Noble
Gastone	Luigi Cilla
Marchese d'Obigny	Michele Sampieri

Conductor—Vincenzo Bellezza

Verdi's operatic version of La Dame aux Camélias suffers from one serious disadvantage. Its first act is so brilliant that all the rest is apt by comparison to seem a little dull. The brilliance may be only the glitter of paste. But old paste has its beauty and its value, and when it is worn with the grace of Mme. Ponselle, it is indistinguishable from the real thing.

Last night Mme. Ponselle managed by the beauty of her singing to make us forget the anticlimax of the later acts, and it was, indeed, in her quiet confidences to Germont père and in her utterance, half-stifled by grief, after Alfredo's unmannerly outburst in the third act, that her art was heard at its finest. Her singing of "Ah! fors è lui" was not quite in the grand manner, and its rhythm was spoilt at the beginning by a slight hesitation between the phrases, which was due, perhaps, to nervousness. But the coloratura passages were splendidly sung, not as a mere exhibition of vocal gymnastics, but as music full of meaning. So it was, too, with all the minor vocal figurations throughout Violetta's part, which are usually treated as conventional ornaments. Mme. Ponselle showed them to be the true musical expression of tears or laughter.

The tenor's is an unsympathetic role, and Signor Gigli's acting was not of a kind to overcome that difficulty. His singing, too, lacked the flexibility of phrasing and the subtlety in gradation of tone which this music requires. He sang either loud, or soft (when his tone was pleasant); but he did not bridge the gap. Signor Inghilleri gave real dignity to the oft-derided part of the father, and sang with a fine appreciation of Verdi's style. The minor parts were all competently filled. The orchestral playing did not do justice to Verdi's scoring, which is far more sensitive than appeared at last night's performance, and in this seemingly simple kind of music a lack of polish shows up more clearly than in the elaborate scores of later Italian operas.

CAMBRIDGE MUSICAL FESTIVAL

SETTINGS OF MILTON'S ODES

(FROM OUR MUSIC CRITIC)

CAMBRIDGE, JUNE 13

The Musical Festival at Cambridge reached its natural climax in the May Week Concert of the University Musical Society given in the Guildhall to-night under Dr. Rootham's direction. That Society has been the chief instrument for the advance of musical taste in Cambridge for something like 50 years, that is, ever since the time when C. V. Stanford took it in hand and made it one of the most enterprising choral and orchestral societies in the country.

Its programme to-night was, like the Pageant which has been the most original feature of the Festival, in some sort a review of Cambridge musical activities, and a recollection of those composers who have played leading parts in its activities. A symphony by Dr. Boyce began the concert. Parry's setting of Milton's "Ode at a Solemn Musick" ended it. Boyce took his degree at Cambridge; Milton was one of her greatest sons; and Parry was early adopted by her. But the best reason for the choice was that the symphony is a piece of genuine and unaffected music, while the Ode, both poem and music, is an imperishable monument of English art. In the middle of the programme a song from Stanford's opera The Veiled Prophet, sung with conviction by Mr. Steuart Wilson, was a reminder of how many beautiful things lie hidden in scores which are more or less forgotten. Other numbers in the programme were one of Vaughan Williams's early Norfolk Rhapsodies for orchestra, and George Butterworth's delicate Idyll, "The Banks of Green Willow."

But the chief event of this concert was the first performance of yet another musical treatment of Milton, the "Ode on the Morning of Christ's Nativity" set for three solo voices, chorus, semi-chorus, and orchestra by Dr. Cyril Rootham. The poem has attracted composers before, but this, so far as we remember, is the first attempt to set the whole and to weld it into a definite musical form. The opening stanzas are set as a recitative for tenor voice—Mr. Steuart Wilson; then hymn is treated in a form of variation upon a traditional melody which is used to give continuity to the design while leaving the voices and instruments free to illustrate the words in a multiplicity of ways, rhythmic and harmonic. It is a work of considerable power in which the poem is thoughtfully treated, and the combination of soprano and baritone voices—Miss Suddaby and Mr. Roy Henderson—with choir and orchestra produced many beautiful moments.

At the end we were left wondering whether the melody itself gives a sufficiently strong principle of continuity to justify the variations, and also whether in some cases the variations by their ingenuity do not rather obscure the ideas the poem is meant to express. It is undoubtedly, however, an important contribution to the long series of English choral works, and one which ought to be included in the programme of one or other of the bigger festivals and become known to a wider public. The performance was excellent and the choir and orchestra, together with the boys of Dr. Rootham's College Choir, who sang the refrain for semi-chorus which punctuates the course of the Ode, all showed that they worked hard to give the Ode the fine performance which it deserved.

From The Times of 1830

TUESDAY, JUNE 15, 1830. Price 7d.

I may perhaps be allowed to inquire through your medium what can be the meaning or origin of the singular custom now prevailing upon the stage of pronouncing the letter o like a. The word forfeit becomes farfeit; to-morrow is metamorphosed into to-marrow; and hence results a sad mouthing effect, quite destructive of that purity of intonation which has hitherto rendered the stage the standard of good pronunciation.—From a Letter to the Editor.

* * *

The Duke de Charolois, a prince of the blood, meeting the Duke of Brisac at the house of a lady to whom they were both attached, and stung by jealousy, forgot himself so far as to say rudely, "Go out, Brisac." "Your ancestors, Monseigneur,' replied the French chevalier, "would have said, Come out." The same striking originality attended the minutim of Brisac's private life. He never would permit his valet to shave him, and when he took the razor in his hand at the toilette, he was often heard to repeat the following soliloquy:—"Timoléon de Cossé, God has made thee a gentleman, and the King has made thee a duke. It is nevertheless right and fit that thou shouldst have something to do, therefore thou shalt shave thyself."

SALE OF THE DUCHESS THEATRE

The Duchess Theatre in Catherine-street was sold privately yesterday by Messrs. Hillier, Parker, May and Rowden, of Maddox-street, W. The sale, it is understood, will in no way affect the play now running at the theatre—The Plough and the Stars, in which the Irish Players are appearing. The Duchess Theatre was opened last November, under the management of Mr. J. de Leon, with Mr. Hubert Griffith's War play Tunnel Trench. This was withdrawn after a very short run, and since then there have been several other productions in rapid succession.

PERSIAN ART

AN EXHIBITION AT THE ROYAL ACADEMY

Good progress has been made with the arrangements for the International Exhibition of Persian Art to be held at the Royal Academy through the months of January and February next, the first public intimation of which was made in a letter from Sir William Llewellyn, President of the Royal Academy, to The Times on March 26 last.

The exhibition is under the patronage of the Shah, who has authorized the sending thereto of objects selected not only from the Imperial Collection and Imperial Library, but also from the famous shrine of Imam Riza at Meshed and the shrines of Ardabil and Kum. The Persian Minister in London is the honorary president and Lord Lamington honorary vice-president. Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Arnold Wilson is chairman of the committee and Major A. A. Longden is the secretary. Concurrently with the exhibition will be held the Second International Congress on Persian Art, which will be attended by many of the leading Oriental scholars of Europe, the United States, Asia, and Egypt.

The exhibition will be of a scope and character never before attempted. The history of Persian Art from prehistoric to present times will be covered by characteristic examples of the finest quality, gathered from public and private collections not only in Persia but in Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Poland, Spain, Egypt, the United States, and other countries. Many objects discovered by recent expeditions, some of entirely new types, will be shown for the first time.

The exhibition will include architectural models, in colour, of several famous monuments, and casts of some of the great relief sculptures of the Achaemenian and Sasanian periods; more than 1,500 drawings, miniatures, and illuminations; approximately 300 examples of gold, silver, and bronze work; more than 1,000 brocades and velvets dating from the fifth to the eighteenth century; 1,000 or more examples of painted and enamelled pottery; more than 100 carpets, including 20 of the finest-known silver, gold, and silk carpets, generally called Polonaise, and numerous specimens of the beautiful Persian medieval glass, book covers, and arms and armour. The selections are being made by a staff of specialists. The executive committee includes, among other high authorities, Mr. Laurence Binyon, Brigadier-General Sir Percy Sykes, Mr. George Eumorfopoulos, Sir Reginald Blomfield, Sir Denison Ross, and Sir Cecil Harcourt-Smith.

CONTINUITY OF DESIGN

The continuity of Persian designs and the use of the same pattern in various materials will form an interesting exhibit. Persian skill in modifying a pattern in accordance with the material is one of the primary sources of Persian excellence in art, and comparative examples showing this phase have never before been assembled.

A group of exhibits will be assembled to show the relation of Persian art to derivative arts in other countries. Certain types of Chinese porcelain, Mughal miniatures, textiles, and carpets, Mesopotamian faience, Coptic textiles, and Byzantine ceramics, will be arranged in conjunction with their Persian prototypes. Exhibits from several famous modern painters will demonstrate Persian influence on contemporary painting. On the other hand, the contributions of other countries to the arts of Persia will be shown by detailed comparative exhibits.

In addition to the usual period maps, maps are being prepared showing the influences focusing on Persia and the lines on which Persian influences, in turn, expanded throughout the civilized world. Historical tables and charts are also being prepared. A supplementary part of the exhibition will consist of photographs, some in colour, including many architectural and archaeological subjects. Photographs and books will be on sale. Lectures by eminent specialists will be given during the exhibition.

A design of the committee is to show the character and evolution of the most vital forms of Near Eastern art. The exhibition will demonstrate that the culture of Europe from Hellenic times to the present has been continuously enriched and renewed from Persian sources, and that many phases of our arts are Near Eastern in origin. The precious treasures of Persian art existing in various countries are so scattered, even in the public collections, that they offer a just and comprehensive picture of Persian art only to the thoroughly prepared expert. New connexions and unsuspected values will be revealed to the expert when a complete range of typical examples is properly assembled.

The exhibition will be of great value to designers and students, and the intention of the committee is to offer prizes for the best designs based on examples in the exhibition.

POLO PONIES

AWARDS AT HURLINGHAM SHOW

The annual Hurlingham Show of Polo Ponies, held yesterday in the club's grounds, was a good one, the quality of the exhibits being high, particularly in the heavy-weight class. As usual, however, there was a disappointing entry in the polo-bred class. The judges were Major A. L. Tate, Mr. L. L. Lacey, Mr. J. H. Ashton, and Major E. G. Atkinson.

The awards were:—

Best Stud of Three Ponies, shown ready for play (four entries).—Cup, Mr. S. Sanford's Fairy Story, Judy, and Jupiter.

PRINCE CAROL'S RETURN

EFFECT ON THE NATION

(FROM OUR BALKANS CORRESPONDENT)

BUCHAREST

The coup d'Etat by which Prince Carol has come to the throne of Rumania has been one of the most smoothly-run affairs of the sort ever recorded in history.

It is hardly possible to believe that a week ago it was unsuspected except by a handful of persons. The country has accepted his sudden descent on Bucharest and approved his proclamation as King as if they were the most natural things in the world, and beyond demonstrating its satisfaction in unmistakable fashion has not allowed itself to be in any way disturbed. The manifesto by which the Executive Committee of the Liberal Party condemned last Sunday's vote of the National Assembly as unconstitutional is recognized to have no practical significance and to be the act of a group of die-hard politicians which the rank and file of the party is already beginning to disavow.

There is already a strong tendency among the people of Bucharest, other than Liberals, to resent the application of the expression coup d'Etat to an act which was so promptly sanctioned by the nation as a whole. However, King Carol did rather more than anticipate the wishes of his people. If he had not been assured of the complete support of the Army, and had not taken steps immediately on arrival to obtain effective control over the capital, affairs might have developed somewhat differently.

His arrival in Bucharest was arranged with the connivance of a small group of Army officers in key positions. The chief of them was Colonel Precup, who was one of the members of the Court-martial which acquitted M. Manoilescu three years ago when he was accused of carrying on a treasonable correspondence with Prince Carol. M. Manoilescu himself acted as the go-between for Carol and the conspirators. Few, if any, of the politicians were warned of it more than 12 hours before. Most of them, however ardently they desired Carol to be King, had been working to secure his return to Rumania by legal means as a member of the Council of Regency, in place of either Prince Nicholas or M. Saratseanu. His sudden arrival took some of them aback. Already during the previous weeks the question whether the Government should invite him to return had begun to deepen the rift between the Transylvanian and the Tsaranist groups in the Cabinet. M. Mihalake and the Tsaranists were all for having him back. M. Maniu, supported by most of the Transylvanians, was for temporizing. M. Madgearu was definitely unfavourable.

OBSTACLES OVERCOME

When the Cabinet met to consider the situation at 8.30 on the morning after Prince Carol's arrival the two groups were again in opposition, the Tsaranists demanding that he should be proclaimed King at once, the others standing for his election to the Regency. M. Maniu pointed out that they had sworn an oath of allegiance to the Council of Regency, and could not easily overlook the fact. Professor Iorga, the eminent historian-politician, who had been the Prince's tutor, was consulted and was of the opinion that the Prince could not be proclaimed King since his son was King already.

The discussion went on all day. What eventually turned the scale was the realization that the whole of the capital was clamouring for Prince Carol to be made King, and that if the Government did not promptly comply it would be faced with the prospect of a military dictatorship. The moral obstacles were overcome with some ingenuity. The Maniu Cabinet handed in its resignation; another was promptly formed under M. Mironescu to take its place, and as soon as M. Mironescu had reported to the Council of Regency the Council itself passed out of existence by the resignation of the Patriarch and M. Saratseanu. The way was thus cleared for the proclamation of a King.

Before the event it was difficult for a disinterested observer to decide whether the coming of Prince Carol, which was ardently desired by so many Rumanians, would be a good thing for the country or not. The main argument in favour of it was that Prince Carol, either as Regent or King, would invest the Crown with an independent, personal influence on the government of the country which it was not likely to have under the existing system. Carol was represented as a man who was thoroughly fit in most respects to become King, and whose exclusion from the succession was due less to his own imprudences than to the intrigues against him of the leading clique in the Liberal Party, who wished their control of affairs in Rumania to remain unchallenged for at least another generation. Against this was to be set the indisputable evidence of his instability of character. The Council of Regency was admittedly a poor thing. Would the Prince be an improvement?

NEW LIBERAL LEADER

That question will be answered before very long; but in the meantime there are some aspects of the situation created by his arrival which could hardly have been foreseen, and which make it fairly certain that, quite apart from the results of his reign, his coming will have been a blessing for Rumania. It has united the people as they have not been united since the peace, so that King Carol has now an opportunity of forming a really strong and representative Government to cope with the present economic difficulties. This Government will probably not be formed at once, but there is reasonable hope that it may be formed by the autumn.

Another result of Prince Carol's arrival which could not have been expected is the effect that it has produced on the Liberal Party. The Liberals are a party with a great tradition of service to the country, and they still comprise some of its most able and experienced men; but under the leadership of M. Vintila Bratianu it was impossible for them to do it anything but harm. M. Vintila Bratianu has a conception of Rumania and a set of economic theories which have been tested and found wanting. Everybody has learned the lesson except himself, but the prestige attached in the party to the name of Bratianu is so great that his followers have been positively unable even to dream of revolt until now. So month after month he has led them on into the wilderness.

Now at last a member of his family, M. George Bratianu, his own nephew, and only son of the Prime Minister who brought Rumania through the Great War, has broken away from the party to throw in his lot with King Carol. This has given a lead which many will follow. M. George Bratianu is a comparatively young man without much political experience. He has yet to prove himself as a leader, but he is the son of his father. The importance of his action is that it has opened a back-door out of which all those members of the party who have progressive ideas can escape from the petrifying influence of his uncle Vintila.

THE MALTESE DISPUTE

NATIONALIST APPEAL TO GOVERNOR

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

MALTA, JUNE 13

Mgr. Gonzi, Bishop of Gozo, has protested to the Governor of Malta against the publication in the Government Gazette of the defence made by Lord Strickland, Head of the Ministry, of his position in the dispute with the Vatican. Mgr. Gonzi says that Lord Strickland's defence contains a series of misstatements and malicious insinuations against the Church and the clergy in general, and against "my venerable predecessor and myself in particular." "It is highly regrettable in the present critical circumstances," he adds, "that the publication was allowed by your Excellency, who . . . . is in duty bound to protect the official religion."

The Nationalist Party has sent to the Governor a memorandum deploring the lack of any sign that the ordinance suspending the elections will be repealed. They deny the existence of any abnormal situation justifying the ordinance, and say that the situation created by it is a danger to the ties between the Maltese people and Great Britain.

Referring to rumours that the Constitution is to be withdrawn, they say that they do not share such apprehension, for such an eventuality would imply the destruction of those principles which in 1921 produced a happy change in what threatened to be fateful relations between Malta and Great Britain. They urge the Governor to realize that only persons interested in creating an abnormal state of affairs can persist in misrepresenting the facts by artificially staging them.

The Privy Council held a long meeting this afternoon.

ANTI-COMMUNIST FEELING IN FINLAND

DEMAND FOR SUPPRESSION OF "RED" NEWSPAPERS

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

HELSINGFORS, JUNE 13

On account of the unsettled political situation, the projected visit to Stockholm on June 16 of a large number of members of the Diet has been cancelled, as the Diet may be summoned soon.

Reports indicate that anti-Communists are taking measures to stop the publication of Communist newspapers in other towns besides Wasa. This morning representatives of various organizations, including the Veteran Soldiers' Society, called on the Governor of the Province of Nyland [Uudenmaan], General Jalander, urging the necessity for the immediate suppression of the six Communist newspapers published in Helsingfors, as a natural consequence of the Government's order suppressing the Wasa newspaper in view of the political unrest prevailing. The deputation pointed out that the authorities are unable by themselves to stop the seditious activities of Communists, which have now become intolerable.

The Governor, in his reply, stated that the law did not authorize him to suppress newspapers, but he promised to inform the Cabinet of the deputation's demands. The strength of anti-Communist feeling may be gathered from the fact that 14 factories at Tammerfors have publicly declared that they will refuse to employ Communists.

INTERNATIONAL AIR CONGRESS

MEMORIAL TO COUNT DE LA VAULX

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

PARIS, JUNE 13

At the closing session of its congress this afternoon the International Aeronautical Federation decided, as an act of homage to the memory of the late Count de la Vaulx, not to elect a new president until next November. The present committee will therefore remain in office under the presidency of M. Luiz Ferry, the senior vice-president.

The federation accepted the proposal of the Brazilian airman Senhor Santos Dumont that a gold medal bearing the name of Count de la Vaulx should be awarded annually to the most meritorious pilot of a commercial air line. The cost of the medal will be defrayed by voluntary subscriptions of the countries belonging to the federation. It was also decided to erect a memorial to Count de la Vaulx on the spot near Jersey City, U.S.A., where he met his death in a flying accident.

THUNDERSTORM DAMAGE IN PARIS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

PARIS, JUNE 13

Severe storms, accompanied by thunder and lightning, broke out over northern France, including Paris, late last night, and much damage was caused, particularly in the Pontoise region, at Lilas, and in the suburbs of the capital.

Most of the damage was caused by the heavy downfall of rain, but fires were caused at several places by lightning. The church of Saint-George in the Rue Simon-Bolivar here was struck and set on fire, but the outbreak was quickly extinguished. A house at Lilas was burnt down after being set alight by a lightning flash. In the suburb of Saint-Denis the gutters became choked with the rush of water, which flooded the basements of the houses. After working all night the firemen managed to clear the streets. Similar inundations occurred in various provincial towns.

SHORTER HOURS IN INDIAN JUTE MILLS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

CALCUTTA, JUNE 13

The Jute Mills Association has agreed to return to the 54-hour week, with one full week's stoppage between July and December next. The decision, reached after long negotiation, is due to the necessity for bringing Indian mills into the association and winning over those mills which favoured even a shorter week.

It is now admitted that the 60-hour week, entered upon 12 months ago, which led to strikes, was a great mistake, as it resulted in breaking the market and in heavy losses to mill-owners.

U.S. MINISTER TO SOUTH AFRICA

WASHINGTON, June 13. — President Hoover has appointed Mr. Ralph J. Totten, of Nashville, Tennessee, as first occupant of the newly created post of Minister to the Union of South Africa.

Mr. Totten, who is 52, entered the Consular service in 1908. In 1922 he was appointed Consul-General at Barcelona. Since 1925 he has been employed in the foreign service division of the State Department.—Reuter.

HOURS OF WORK IN MINES

GENEVA DISCUSSIONS

(FROM OUR LEAGUE CORRESPONDENT)

GENEVA, JUNE 13

At the International Labour Conference to-day the committee on hours of work of salaried employees decided in favour of a convention on this question by 59 votes to 42. The British Government, it will be remembered, has already stated through Miss Margaret Bondfield that it is not yet in a position to give an opinion on the question.

On the question of hours of work in coalmines there have been two long debates. This morning the chairman of the committee, Herr Braun (German Government), replied to the reservations of the employers' group as repeated yesterday by Mr. Lee (British employers).

Herr Braun pointed out that although the question of hours of work in coalmines was originally raised as a European one, the convention would remain open to ratification by any State member, even though a provision might be included by which the convention might only come into force on the ratification of certain specific States.

Mr. Shinwell (British Secretary of Mines) discussed the arguments put forward yesterday by the employers' and workers' groups, and pointed out that while it was impossible to expect to eliminate all forms of competition a convention on hours would eliminate at least one important form. The present position led to strife in the industry and irregularity in supply. The removal of these disadvantages must more than compensate for any increase in costs due to shorter hours, especially as there was room for improvement in organization and technique. In view of the present position it was important to reach an agreement as speedily as possible.

Herr Sitzler (German Government) stated that his Government considered a convention on hours of work absolutely necessary, but this afternoon M. Szyolowski, representative of Polish employers, held that there was not at present much difference in hours of work in Europe. A general shortening of hours by raising costs would lead, in his opinion, to unemployment not only among coalminers, but also in the iron and steel trades. M. Szyolowski declared himself against a draft convention on hours of work in coalmines. M. Stnczyk (Polish workers), however, stated that in Poland increased production had occurred with the reduction of workers, so that shorter hours were easily possible without an increase in costs.

Herr Jungst (German employers) insisted that the time was not ripe to raise costs of such a primary raw material as coal. The obligations of Germany under the Young Plan constituted a special circumstance which prevented uniformity, and Germany did not want to assume any international undertaking which would render it more difficult for her to meet her obligations under the Young Plan. Herr Streintz (Austrian Government) maintained that the real remedy for the coal crisis was to be found in international commercial agreements, the regulation of hours of working being only a means tending to help that object.

The decision to create a convention on "forced labour" (by which is meant "all work or service exacted from any person by the menace of any penalty for its non-performance, and for which the said person does not offer himself voluntarily") was taken at the International Labour Conference last June. To-day the committee dealing with this subject examined critically the earlier articles of the draft convention.

INDIAN CHRISTIANS AND CHURCH UNION

REPLY TO CRITICISM

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

MADRAS, JUNE 13

The manifesto on South Indian Church Union, signed by 171 representative Indian Christians and published in The Times of June 4, has provoked much discussion here. The description of the manifesto by the veteran missionary, Mr. Macfarlane, of the London Missionary Society, as "a product of Western and even ultra-Western hands," has brought numerous protests from the signatories, one of whom, Dr. A. J. Appaswamy, English editor of the Christian Literature Society, describes what actually happened.

A missionary friend who is keenly interested in the present scheme (he says) wrote to two Indian Christian friends to the effect that the people of the West were beginning to ask how far Indians wanted the scheme to go through, and saying that it might be worth while for a manifesto to be prepared. About seven or eight of us, all Indian Christians, sat down together and prepared a manifesto. This was circulated and signatures were obtained. We knew our judgment would not be authoritative or final, but we felt that a statement prepared and signed by Indians would show that there is a body of Indian Christians eager for the South Indian scheme.

The manifesto, with its 171 names, is certainly a very good indication of the attitude that many of the leading representative Indian Christians adopt towards the scheme. The signatories include many distinguished laymen and clergymen representing various churches in India, and there are many more names which could be added. I would ask those who wonder what Indians are thinking about the scheme to study this manifesto.

Dr. Appaswamy explains the omission of the names of those known to be favourable to the scheme as due to the fact that some people were, inadvertently, not approached, and others failed to reply before the time thought desirable for the issue of the manifesto with the names obtained.

SYRIAN CONSTITUTION

A NATIONALIST PROTEST

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

HAIFA, JUNE 13

Reports from Damascus state that on Wednesday a meeting of Nationalist leaders was called to protest against, first, efforts to prevent the Constituent Assembly from fulfilling its mission; secondly, the division of the country by the High Commissioner's action in promulgating different Constitutions; thirdly, the reservation embodied in Article 116 of the new Constitution which nullifies the principle of national independence; fourthly, the ignoring of the national will by preventing the election of persons enjoying the confidence of the people and the maintaining of the present provisional Government, which is a burden on the country; fifthly, the exile of some of the country's best sons; sixthly, the prevention of public meetings and the violation of the sacred principle of domicile.

A collision is reported to have occurred between Government forces and the crowd around a Nationalist leader's house, where the meeting was to have been held. The Nationalist leaders finally met at another house at a later hour.

The above protest has been communicated to the High Commissioner.

BOMB EXPLOSIONS AT NISH

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

BELGRADE, JUNE 13

A bomb exploded last night in the waiting-room at Nish railway station. One passenger was killed and four soldiers and a girl were injured. Another bomb exploded later about 1,000 yards from the station on the railway line, as a train from Sofia was passing. It slightly damaged the engine, but the train did not stop, and there were no casualties. A third bomb was found near this place. A fourth exploded this morning at 3.15 on the outskirts of Nish, without doing any damage.

One person speaking Bulgarian and having no identity certificate has been arrested. An inquiry is being conducted by a police inspector sent from Belgrade. The Yugoslav authorities suspect that the outrages are of Macedonian origin.

FOREIGN RIGHTS IN CHINA

DR. WANG'S REQUEST TO GREAT BRITAIN

The Foreign Office has issued the text of correspondence exchanged between Dr. Wang, of the Waichiaopu (Chinese Foreign Office), and Sir Miles Lampson, the British Minister in China, on the subject of extraterritoriality in China.

In the course of his letter, dated Nanking, September 6, 1929, Dr. Wang writes:—

The friendly relations between China and Great Britain are based on something deeper than the mere identity of material interests. The British conception of government has exercised ever since the two countries were brought into contact great influence upon China's political development, while the sense of justice and love of liberty, characteristic of the British people, have always aroused the admiration of the people of China. The Chinese Government is therefore particularly happy to note that his Britannic Majesty's Government have given their sympathetic consideration to the desire of China expressed in my last Note and declared their willingness to examine, in collaboration with the Chinese Government, the whole problem of extraterritorial jurisdiction.

It has been noticed that in your Note under acknowledgment considerable discussion is devoted to the historical background of the extraterritorial system as viewed by your Government. It is a matter at once for regret and consolation to the Chinese Government that especial mention has been made of the fact that during the early stages of China's relations with foreign Powers the traders of the West, "by a species of amorphous and unregulated extraterritoriality," gradually took upon themselves the responsibility of managing their own affairs. That such a state of things should have been allowed to exist is surely a matter for regret. On the other hand, we derive some satisfaction from the thought that, well aware of the circumstances in which British subjects obtained their special position in China, your Government must now fully realize the wisdom and necessity of a proper readjustment of the relationship between the two countries. We cherish the conviction that, faced with the realities of the present, your Government will remould the status of their subjects in China with the same courage and for the same expediency as they moulded it when faced with the realities of the past.

Extraterritoriality is only one of the things that took root, as your Excellency has put it, deep down in the past. No country is more anxious than China herself to do away with all those peculiar and antiquated systems, including the treaty port system, which, instead of serving any useful purposes, only tend to hamper the development of the material interests of Chinese and foreigners alike. The Chinese Government is as willing to accord to all foreigners the same rights as are usually enjoyed by foreign nationals in any other country, as it is desirous of making them accept the same duties and obligations as are usually accepted by foreign nationals in any other country. And the paramount duty of the foreigner in any country, in the opinion of the Chinese Government, is to respect and obey its laws, and to submit to the jurisdiction of its tribunals.

It must be emphasized that extraterritorial privileges, while apparently beneficial to foreigners in China in giving them the impression of security and safety, have really had the most injurious effect on their relations with the Chinese by producing in the latter the feeling of humiliation and the sense of resentment which have always caused mutual suspicion and the consequent loss of mutual confidence, thus undermining the very foundations of friendly relations and not infrequently giving rise to complications and conflicts. Such conflicts and complications could be easily avoided were there none of those special privileges.

PRIVATE RIGHTS

In the event, however, of British subjects relinquishing their extraterritorial privileges, they may rest assured that they will enjoy the same confidence of the Chinese people, and hence the same material benefit, as the nationals of non-extraterritorial Powers. Moreover, the Chinese Government will continue to exercise, in accordance with the well-established principles of international law, due diligence in preventing any possible violations of the private rights of British subjects, and perform its duty in the fullest possible measure in all matters relating to the redress of wrongs.

Furthermore, it may be worth while to recall the circumstances in which the British Government renounced its rights under the Capitulations with Turkey. The Chinese judicial system, it will be admitted, does not suffer the least in comparison with that of Turkey at the time of the abolition of the Capitulations. And yet the British Government, realizing that the Turkish people with legitimate aspirations and under the guidance of a new and strong Government could accomplish great things in a short space of time, had the wisdom and foresight to relinquish its special privileges, similar to those enjoyed hitherto by its nationals in China, and has had the satisfaction to find that the life and property of British subjects in Turkey have subsequently received full and adequate protection. The British Government, which did full justice to the Turkish people in the matter of jurisdiction without any apprehensions and with satisfactory results, will no doubt solve the problem of extraterritoriality in China in the same friendly and sympathetic spirit.

It is the hope of the Chinese Government that whatever misgivings and apprehensions the British Government may have in considering the subject under discussion will now be dispelled, and that, in the further examination of this subject, it will be actuated by much weightier considerations—namely, the enhancement of friendship between the Chinese and the British peoples, and hence the promotion of the material interests of both. It is with this last object in view that the Chinese Government now requests the British Government to enter into immediate discussions with the authorized representative of the Chinese Government for making the necessary arrangements whereby extraterritoriality in China will be abolished to the mutual satisfaction of both Governments.

SIR M. LAMPSON'S REPLY

Sir Miles Lampson's reply, dated Peking, November 1, was as follows:—

Sir,—I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your further Note of September 6 on the subject of extraterritoriality, and I am now instructed to communicate to your Excellency in reply the views of his Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, to the following effect:—

In the concluding paragraph of your Note under reply the Chinese Government express their desire that his Majesty's Government may enter into discussions with them for the purpose of making the necessary arrangements whereby extraterritoriality in China may be abolished, to the mutual satisfaction of both Governments. In my Note of August 10 his Majesty's Government expressed their willingness to examine in collaboration with the Chinese Government the whole problem of extraterritorial jurisdiction with a view to ascertaining what modifications in the present system may be practicable. There would, therefore, appear to be a large measure of common ground between the two Governments in their mutual desire to enter into a discussion of the problem.

It will be difficult, however, to make any progress towards the achievement of practical results until the Chinese Government, as suggested in my Note of August 10, have put forward concrete proposals to serve as a basis of negotiations. His Majesty's Government have not yet received any indication of the nature of the arrangements which the Chinese Government consider should be made as intimated in the last paragraph of your Note. The views of the Chinese Government on the subject are, however, a matter of vital concern to the Powers who are to take part in the proposed negotiations. Arrangements to be made will need most careful elaboration, and it is on the measure of success with which this task is accomplished that must depend the nature and extent of the changes that can be made, to the satisfaction of both Governments, in the present system of extraterritoriality.

His Majesty's Government, in reiterating their willingness to proceed to a joint examination of the problem, have thought it proper to put forward these considerations, not out of any desire to frustrate the wishes of the Chinese Government, but because if the proposed negotiations are to pursue a fruitful course and lead to satisfactory results without undue delay it seems clearly desirable that the proposals which will form their subject should first be submitted to careful preliminary study.

SOVIET AND GERMANY

INDIVIDUAL COMPLAINTS SETTLED

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

BERLIN, JUNE 13

The communiqué on the recent Soviet-German political discussions, foreshadowed with some hesitation yesterday with the announcement that the Conciliation Commission is to meet in Moscow on Monday to examine the economic questions in dispute, is issued this evening. It hardly seems likely to dispel the misgivings which German public opinion has expressed with regard to Communist propaganda.

The first part of the communiqué repeats much of yesterday's semi-official information. It announces, however, that some of the individual complaints raised have been settled satisfactorily in the course of diplomatic conversations, and that the rest are being referred to the Conciliation Commission provided for in the Protocol of 1929. As it was given to be understood yesterday that only the economic questions were being referred to the commission, it would appear that all the political questions are regarded as settled. The communiqué goes on to explain how they have been settled.

In the consideration of the individual questions mentioned, it says, the two Governments are equally inspired by the desire to overcome the difficulties which have arisen in the interpretation of the Treaty of Rapallo and the other agreements existing between them, and thereby to continue the policy which they have pursued for many years on the basis of these agreements. In frank discussion they have again come to the conclusion that the fundamental difference between the two political extremes need not be an obstacle to the further beneficial development of their friendly relations.

In this connexion both Governments proceed from the assumption that no attempt is to be made actively to influence the internal affairs of the other country. Upon this basis both Governments are determined to foster mutual relations and to approach the tasks which may present themselves in the future, be they tasks touching upon the immediate relationship between the two countries, or tasks touching upon the other interests. They are convinced that in this way they will serve both the interests of their countries and the assurance of world peace.

FORBIDDEN UNIFORMS IN GERMANY

DEFIANT FASCISTS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

BERLIN, JUNE 13

The Minister of the Interior of Baden has joined the movement of State authorities against the semi-military uniforms of the Fascist "shock detachments" of the National Socialist Party. In view of numerous clashes in Baden between uniformed National Socialists and persons holding other political opinions, he has forbidden the uniform of the National Socialist (Fascist) Party and its organizations to be worn in public. For the time being, the decree adds, there is no reason for taking similar steps against other organizations apart from the existing proscription of the Communist Red Fighting Front, which is still in force in all States.

The Berlin police are acting energetically in the execution of the prohibition of uniforms decreed by Dr. Waentig, the Prussian Minister of the Interior. Last night, in the Blücherstrasse, a gang of National Socialists held a demonstration against the decree. The police seized a banner and arrested the bearer and several other demonstrators. The rest followed to the police station and continued the demonstration outside, singing provocative songs and cheering their leader, Herr Hitler. As they would not disperse the police arrested 50 more demonstrators and conveyed them to the police headquarters in motor-lorries.

At Schweidnitz, in Silesia, where an appeal is being heard in the case against 13 National Socialists for breaking up a Socialist gathering, the local police, after their experiences on Monday and Tuesday, obtained reinforcements in view of the Prussian prohibition. Nevertheless, many National Socialists arrived in uniform. Though it was agreed that they should keep off the streets as much as possible, there were several clashes, and two National Socialists were arrested.

Herr Hitler, the National Socialist leader, gave evidence. On his appearance in Court all his followers rose and greeted him with the Fascist salute. The presiding Judge requested that that ceremonial be dispensed with, but it was repeated on Herr Hitler's departure. The Judge pointed out that it had been established that several witnesses for the defence had lied to the police in the preliminary investigation, and he asked Herr Hitler how that accorded with the love of truth he was always preaching. Herr Hitler replied that it was just human instinct to lie to the police to protect oneself against them.

As in the first trial, Herr Hitler had adequate opportunity of using the witness stand as a political platform and explaining the aims of his party. He announced, with emphasis, that after the Bavarian prohibition of the wearing of National Socialist uniform he had given orders that the brown shirt was to be worn more than ever, as that was not a uniform.

THE UNREST IN FRENCH INDO-CHINA

COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

PARIS, JUNE 13

The debate on the disorders in French Indo-China was continued in the Chamber to-day.

M. Piétri, Minister of Colonies, said there had been two serious disorders, an armed revolt at Tongking and civil disturbances in Indo-China. The non-violent movement was as dangerous as the other, since it made the whole population subject to propaganda directed by Communists. M. Piétri described the punitive action which had been taken, and said that severity was necessary and legal, but no repression would be implacable and pardons would be granted where possible. There had always been sporadic unrest in Tongking; the new features in this case were Nationalism and Communism. Annamite opposition, formerly grouped round the mandarins, had split and formed a ring which declared war on French Imperialism, worked for alliance with the Soviet Government, and practised industrial "infiltration." The party inflicted death on those that left it or revealed its secrets. The headquarters of the movement were at Canton. Bolshevism was the enemy; it would be fought in every possible way and the secret societies would be broken up.

The debate was adjourned until next Friday.

FRENCH RESERVISTS AT SISSONNE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

PARIS, JUNE 13

The Parisian newspaper which gave an exclusive account yesterday of a "mutiny" among some reservists at Sissonne camp, near Lille, last week, announces to-day that the men did not gather and hoot their officers and N.C.O.s at mess, as was stated yesterday; nor did the men repeat the offence in the middle of the night, nor were some prevented from parading the next morning by others. A corporal and a private soldier were arrested, not for refusing to go on parade but for being too drunk to do so.

MAHARAJAH OF BIKANER

It is officially announced that the Maharajah of Bikaner will be the leader of the Indian delegation at the Assembly of the League of Nations in the autumn. His Highness will also be a member of the Indian delegation at the Imperial Conference to be held in London. A further announcement regarding the personnel of both delegations will be made later.

AUSTRALIAN RESERVE BANK BILL

MR. THEODORE AND INFLATION

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

CANBERRA, JUNE 13

The Central Reserve Bank Bill passed through the Committee stage in the House of Representatives to-day, and was given its third reading.

In the discussion in Committee Mr. Yates (Labour) strongly criticized the Bill. The Government, he said, could free credit by expanding the note issue without harming the Commonwealth or danger of insolvency. Such a step would benefit the unemployed. Mr. Bruce [the late Prime Minister] financed wheat and wool in that way in 1921.

Mr. Theodore, Federal Treasurer, replying, said that Mr. Yates's argument that a note issue used previously for public works could be used again was fallacious. When the Commonwealth first took over the note issue the difference between the gold reserve and the nominal value of notes printed was, in fact, a loan to the Commonwealth without interest. That loan had been expended, and the only way to increase that loan was by increasing the aggregate face value of the note issue. Over-inflation could have the most evil consequences: properly controlled, however, it could be used to advantage.

"I think," Mr. Theodore said, "that the banks could go farther than they have done, but the Government does not control them. The Central Reserve Bank, without undue political influence, will tend to make credit more easily controlled and more susceptible to the needs of commerce." Depreciation of the currency invariably followed inflation of the note issue. That was the experience when, during the War, the Government deliberately inflated the note issue as the easiest means of raising money. The result had been increased prices, hardships, and injustices.

Mr. West (Labour).—And millionaires.

Mr. Theodore.—That is another evil.

Because the world had inflated price levels, Mr. Theodore continued, the manufacturers of Australia were experiencing hardships common to all primary-producing countries.

Dr. Page, the late Federal Treasurer, said he feared inflation as he would any pestilence.

GREATER SYDNEY

NOMINATIONS FOR THE NEW COUNCIL ELECTIONS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

SYDNEY, JUNE 13

Nominations closed to-day for the election next Wednesday of the reconstituted Municipal Council in Sydney, after the city has been governed by a Commission for nearly three years. Forty-two candidates have been nominated for 15 seats—15 Labour, 15 Civic Reform, 3 Communists, and 9 Independent.

Six seats seem safe for Labour and six for the Civic Reform Party. The battle for three seats in a doubtful ward will determine whether Labour or the Civic Reform Party will take control of the City.

 The Commission was appointed under an Act passed in the State Parliament in November, 1927, to govern the City pending the establishment of a Greater Sydney Council.

BORDEAUX AND THE BLACK PRINCE

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

BORDEAUX, JUNE 13

A memorial service celebrating the sixth centenary of the birth of the Black Prince has been held here. Many members of the British colony attended. The Prince lived at Bordeaux for several years as Sovereign Prince of Aquitaine. His son, Richard of Bordeaux (afterwards Richard II.), was born at Lormont and spent his childhood at Cadillac-sur-Garonne.

Telegrams in Brief

Signor Grandi, the Italian Foreign Minister, arrived in BUDAPEST yesterday on his return from Warsaw.

Mr. Guy Tracey Watts, Attorney-General, has been appointed a member of the Legislative Council of the BAHAMAS.

Fortunato Vallé, a man who had been under observation for some time, has been arrested at NICE on suspicion of espionage.

On the occasion of the canonization to be held at the end of this month, the Pope will revive the old tradition and will go into the basilica of St. Peter's through the bronze gate, preceded by a solemn procession.

The 1930 Statistical Year-Book of the Trade in Arms, Ammunition, and Implements of War, just published by the LEAGUE OF NATIONS (Constable and Co., 16s.), contains information about the trade in arms of 58 countries and 47 colonies.

A deputation of the Weavers' Company, which arrived on Thursday night in Brussels, left yesterday for GHENT. A reception was held in their honour at the Hôtel de Ville, after which they were entertained at luncheon by the Anglo-Belgian Union.

Two British flying-boats, in charge of Squadron-Leader Bentley and manned by Flight-Lieutenants Langlois and Revington and Pilot-Officers Barrett and Drew, arrived at ATHENS on Thursday from Plymouth, and will resume their flights to Basra to-day.—Reuter.

Damages of 5,000f. [£40] have been awarded to the heirs of the late Vernon Blake, the English author and artist, by the Court of AIX-EN-PROVENCE. The case was a sequel to the murder of Miss Branson at Les Baux. The plaintiffs claimed that in a pamphlet entitled "Did François Pinet kill Miss Branson?" the defendant, Eugène Blanc, had referred to Blake by the initial B.

After the election of three candidates by the Moslem council, the King of YUGOSLAVIA yesterday appointed M. Maglaylitch, priest of Banyaluka, to be the head of the Moslem Church in Yugoslavia. M. Maglaylitch, who is a supporter of the Serb Radical Party against the Bosnian Moslems, was a deputy in the Constituent Assembly which voted the Yugoslav Constitution with M. Pashitch.

THE CONSTITUTION OF SPAIN

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

MADRID, JUNE 13

The Academy of Jurisprudence has just finished a debate, which has lasted several weeks, on "The Constitution Spain needs."

In summing up the speeches, several of which were of an anti-monarchist nature, Señor Ossorio Gallardo, the chairman, pointed out that there were two main points of view—monarchy versus republic, and constitution versus dictatorship, while some of the speakers aired anti-clerical or atheistic theories. A clear distinction must be drawn, however, between those who attacked clericalism and those who attacked the Church. A Catholic State, but with liberty of conscience, was the best formula. Monarchy and republic were only words, and Governments were good or bad as they were made by man. He would respect a republic, but would not collaborate therein.

Señor Ossorio Gallardo is an eminent member of the Madrid Bar, and is looked upon as one of the political leaders of the near future. He was a steadfast adversary of the Dictatorship.

CANADIAN ELECTION CAMPAIGN

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

OTTAWA, JUNE 13

The Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King, will open his election campaign on Monday at Brantford, Ontario, an industrial city. After a speech at Peterborough, another manufacturing city in Eastern Ontario, on Tuesday, he will go to Quebec City on Thursday, and thence to the maritime provinces, where he will speak at meetings in the leading cities.

Meanwhile Mr. Bennett, Leader of the Conservative Party, is touring Western Canada.

THE SIMON REPORT

VIEWS OF INDIAN LIBERALS

CONGRESS MOVE

CAMPAIGN AMONG POLICE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

BOMBAY, JUNE 13

Sir Chimanlal Setalvad and Sir Cowasji Jehangir, jun., have issued a joint statement representing the Liberal Party's views on the present situation. They state that their continued support of the Round-Table Conference and consistent opposition to civil disobedience must not be interpreted as evidence that on the major issue of India's right to govern herself they are willing to ally themselves with forces which would retard the nation's progress and self-government.

What we do not approve [the statement continues] is the method used by some of our countrymen to achieve the common end. We have witnessed during the past few weeks a tremendous national upheaval, quickening, and awakening; and although we deplore, and continue to deplore, the means adopted to give expression to it (means which are bringing with it a legacy of economic disturbances and moral, political, and social unrest fraught with serious and dangerous consequences), none can deny that the evidence to-day of the country's determination to achieve self-government is stronger than it has ever been.

The statement proceeds to declare that the present problem before the Government is not merely a question of the preservation of law and order. The main and real problem is a political one. The commercial and industrial classes have begun to despair of getting fair treatment and encouragement under the present system of administration.

We feel sure [the statement adds] that, if once the people can be convinced of the good faith and sincerity of the British Government's intention to make India a self-governing Dominion at the earliest possible moment, the situation will be very much eased.

The two signatories say that they judge from Volume I. of the Simon Commission's Report that there is every indication that the Recommendations will not satisfy public opinion. They add:—

The position of those standing for a peaceful solution by means of the Round-Table Conference is daily becoming more difficult, and it is sure to become impossible if the present deadlock continues.

They again appeal to the leaders of the civil disobedience movement seriously to consider whether the time has not come to cry a halt. Trade and commerce have been paralysed, and the economic loss to the country will be simply incalculable if the present state of affairs continues. They urge Mr. Gandhi and his supporters to suspend civil disobedience and to utilize their organization and the patriotic feelings they have evoked to achieve agreement among the various political and communal interests in order to present India's united demand at the Conference. They fully realize the difficulty of calling off the movement at this stage and the further danger of the movement going into revolutionary hands. Simultaneously with the calling-off of civil disobedience there should be a general amnesty of political prisoners not guilty of violent crimes, and the definition of the purpose of the Round-Table Conference to be the evolution of a self-governing Dominion Constitution with safeguards for the transition period.

The Government must have recognized the forceful national urge for freedom of which civil disobedience is only a symptom, and must show itself eager to discover some formula which will induce all parties to participate in the London discussions.

They conclude by urging that time is the essence of the matter, and that every day which is allowed to pass makes worse the situation.

CONGRESS AND POLICE

The latest move of the Congress is to appeal to Indian members of the police force to join the "struggle for freedom." Congress volunteers are going about the city appealing to constables, and even to officers, to resign from the force, and leaflets are being disseminated asking the police to rise in mutiny. One volunteer has been arrested while distributing leaflets

Jayant Dalal, editor and publisher of the Congress Bulletin, was to-day sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment on a charge of sedition in respect of an article published on May 16. The publication of the Congress Bulletin was prohibited on May 15, and after that date it was published in defiance of the order. The article in question stated that the Congress Committee took up the Government's challenge in regard to the publication of the Bulletin. It also stated that there was no British India but "our India," and that the Satyagraha Committee's "loyalty to the people imposes upon it the duty to be disloyal to the Government." The prosecution contended that the article was calculated to excite feelings of hatred against the Government, and pressed for a deterrent sentence.

The "Sholapur Day" meeting on the Maidan, which started soon after midnight, did not end until about 4 a.m. to-day. During the early part of the evening the police had several times to charge to clear roads for traffic, and about 30 casualties were admitted to the Congress hospital.

BOMBAY, June 13.—In pursuance of its campaign of defiance on a large scale of the Picketing Ordinance, the Bombay Congress Committee, which, it is announced, has 2,000 volunteers in reserve for the purpose, began picketing this evening in the mill area of the city. Two hundred and fifty volunteers were posted at 120 foreign cloth and liquor shops with orders to prostrate themselves in front of all customers who did not heed their requests not to enter. Most of the mill workers, however, kept away.—Reuter.

BENGAL DISORDERS

PICKETS ARRESTED IN CALCUTTA

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

CALCUTTA, JUNE 13

Although conditions in Bengal generally are less turbulent, the position in certain areas gives rise to anxiety and involves a heavy demand on the police.

Rioting on a large scale has ceased at Dacca, but the town continues to be disturbed. There are daily assaults by members of one community or another, and business is at a standstill. At Khaira, a village near Midnapore, the police were compelled on Thursday to fire on rioters before order could be restored. No trace has yet been found of the police inspector who was kidnapped at Chechuahat. Over 40 arrests have been made in connexion with the disturbances in that village, and ample evidence has been obtained that the attack on the police was organized carefully.

So far as Calcutta is concerned a beginning has been made with the arresting of pickets who attempt to interfere with business in the markets. Women pickets have been busy in the main retail market, and shopkeepers complain bitterly of the loss of business.

An attempt was made on Wednesday to wreck a train by placing heavy stones on the Serajgang line, but these were displaced by the cowcatcher of the train. Incidents in which Congress volunteers have come into conflict with the police are reported from several quarters, but none of them has been serious.

POLICE ATTACKED IN MADRAS

FIRE OPENED ON MOB

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

MADRAS, JUNE 13

A mob attacked the police at Tindivanam on hearing of the conviction and sentence of two salt Satyagrahis for incitement to breach of the Salt Laws, and a sub-inspector and head constable were seriously injured as a result of assaults with stones and sticks. The police fired on the crowd, but this failed to quieten the mob, which numbered about 2,000. Reserve police, under the command of the District Superintendent, from Cuddalore restored order, but not till the crowd had raided the District Agricultural Office and destroyed many records.

The civil disobedience in Tamil districts has collapsed in consequence of the break-up of the Vedaranyam camp, the determination of the authorities to deal firmly with those breaking the laws or aiding and abetting law-breakers, and the effective application of the law penalizing those who house lawbreakers. An analysis of the convictions of Satyagrahis of Vedaranyam, the centre of the Congress salt activities, shows that only eight out of 225 belong to Tamil districts, and that Moslems, Indian Christians, and a majority of Hindus have held aloof. With the beginning of the cultivation season, agriculturists are grateful to the Government for protecting them against interference from agitators.

In a speech before the Representative Assembly of Mysore, Amin-ul-Mulk Mirza Mahomed Ismail, the Diwan, declared that it was not in the interest of India to eliminate either the British connexion or the English language before adequate substitutes could be found for them. Swaraj, he said, could not be secured without a fearless facing of the difficulties. The speech is warmly approved in Madras.

MADRAS, June 13.—Seven Congress volunteers who were arrested yesterday evening for advocating the boycott of foreign cloth have been sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment and three others to six months'.—Reuter.

SENTENCES IN PESHAWAR MUTINY CASE

SIMLA, June 13.—The Court-martial has pronounced sentence at Abbottabad in the case of the 17 men of the 2nd Battalion, the 18th Royal Garhwal Rifles who were accused of disobeying orders during the Peshawar disturbance. One was sentenced to transportation for life, another to 15 years' imprisonment, and the 15 others were sentenced to terms of from three to ten years' rigorous imprisonment.—Reuter.

THE HAJI'S FOLLOWERS DESERTING

PESHAWAR, June 13.—A split has occurred in the ranks of the lashkar [force] of the Haji of Turangzai, which has been bombed at frequent intervals during the past few days by the R.A.F., and Faquir Sahib, of Alingar, one of the Haji's principal lieutenants, has left for home with 120 of his men.—Reuter.

OBITUARY

SIR WILLIAM SOLOMON

SIR WILLIAM SOLOMON, who resigned last October the office of Chief Justice of the Union of South Africa, died in a clinic at Ruthin, North Wales, yesterday, at the age of 77. He had been ill for some time past, and had come to England for treatment. The arrangements for the funeral will be announced on Monday.

SIR COLIN DAVIDSON

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

TOKYO, JUNE 13

SIR COLIN DAVIDSON, Counsellor of the British Embassy, died to-day of septic anaemia at the age of 51. The funeral service will probably be held on Monday afternoon at the English Church in Tokyo, and the body will be taken to the family vault in Norfolk. Sir Colin is universally mourned here.

Memoirs appear on page 14.

LEEDS AND SAFEGUARDING

RESULT OF A QUESTIONNAIRE

As a result of a questionnaire sent out by the Executive Committee of the Leeds Chamber of Commerce to its members a large majority in favour of safeguarding was announced yesterday.

The members were invited to record their opinions regarding the fiscal policy of the country in answer to the following questions:—(1) Are you in favour of the policy generally known in this country as free trade? (2) Are you in favour of the principle of safeguarding? The questionnaire was sent out to 778 members and 555 replies were received. Of the replies, 491 were in favour of the principle of safeguarding and 37 were in favour of free trade.

There were five spoilt papers. Twenty-two letters were received from members giving their reasons for not being able to express a definite opinion. These were mainly to the effect that board meetings had not been held or that divers opinions were held by partners or directors.

THE WIGHTMAN CUP

At the end of the first day's play in the lawn tennis contest for the Wightman Cup at Wimbledon yesterday Great Britain were leading by two matches to one. Mrs. Moody (Miss Helen Wills) easily won her match, but Mrs. Watson beat Miss H. Jacobs, and the Doubles match was won by Great Britain, Miss J. Fry and Miss E. H. Harvey beating Miss E. Cross and Miss S. Palfrey. The report will be found on page 5.

THE RUMANIAN CABINET

SECOND APPEAL TO DR. MANIU

MINISTRY FORMED

(FROM OUR BALKANS CORRESPONDENT)

BUCHAREST, JUNE 13

Marshal Presan was compelled last night to give up his attempt to form a coalition Government because he could not obtain the consent of the official representatives of the Liberal Party to take part in it. All the other parties were prepared to enter the Cabinet, and accordingly King Carol this morning again appealed to Dr. Maniu, who this time accepted his invitation. It is understood that the new Government, which is as follows, will carry on the same programme and policy:—

DR. MANIU ..	Prime Minister
M. VAIDA-VOEVOD	Interior
M. MIRONESCU ..	Foreign Affairs
M. POPOVIC ..	Finance
M. JUNIAN ..	Justice
M. MADGEARU ..	Trade
M. MIHALACHE ..	Agriculture
GENERAL CONDESCU	War
M. KOSTAKESCU ..	Education
M. MANOILESCU ..	Railways and communications
M. HALIPA ..	Labour

Dr. Maniu's acceptance to-day, after his refusal the day before yesterday, suggests that on the first occasion the King imposed certain conditions as to the composition of the Cabinet. It is stated on the best authority that this was not the case. If it should then be asked why Dr. Maniu let it be understood two days ago that he was fighting the beginnings of an attack of pleurisy and that for several days his temperature had been above normal, whereas to-day he is clearly well and smiling broadly, the answer is that a man who is master of the situation can afford to bide his own time. Certainly Dr. Maniu's position is stronger by accepting the mandate after the attempt to form a coalition Government had failed than it would have been if he had accepted before. Acting as he has done, he has laid emphasis on the predominance of the National Peasant Party and his own paramount position as leader. He has also vindicated his party's right to proceed with the programme already begun. Last Saturday his unsuccessful attempt to get Carol made Regent instead of King caused him some loss of reputation, but his reputation is now again as high as ever. He has proved his indispensability to a Sovereign who wishes to govern strictly according to constitutional procedure.

This morning's Official Monitor contains the Royal decree authorizing the attribution of the title of "Majesty" to Princess Helen. Thus the curious situation is created of a Royal personage who has never borne a crown and is not Queen nevertheless being treated as such. It is understood that the Holy Synod of the Rumanian Church has ruled that the King's divorce is invalid. The King himself never recognized it, and thus the way is being prepared, so far as possible, for a reconciliation. His son Michael, who at one moment was believed to have been permanently transferred to the Cotroceni Palace, is still under his mother's care.

FASCISTS' ARREST OF PRIESTS

PROTEST BY CARDINAL

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

MILAN, JUNE 13

Gifts for the new seminary of Venegono were sent a few days ago by the Pope to Cardinal Schuster, Archbishop of Milan. They were accompanied by a letter, the text of which appears to-day in the local Catholic newspaper L'Italia.

Our small presents (the Pope says) must tell you the part we have taken and are taking in the pains and sorrows you have lately suffered. Those pains and sorrows have become ours; nor could it have been otherwise, as the unjust and undeserved treatment meted out to members of our clergy was bound to wound our heart, particularly in view of the letter and spirit of the agreements solemnly stipulated.

These words refer to a recent incident which might seem strange in a régime of Concordat if one did not recall the old saying historia concordiarum historia lacrymarum. Some weeks ago two priests of Bellano, on Lake Como, in the diocese of Milan, were brought before the provincial commission for supposed offences against Fascism, and as they were expected to be deported to the islands, Cardinal Schuster, who had investigated the matter and found the charges to be groundless, asked to be heard by the magistrate. The latter called at his Eminence's palace and there the Archbishop received him in state surrounded by his court.

After having expressed his firm belief in the innocence of the two priests, his Eminence asked leave, if they were going to be deported, to accompany them himself to the islands. The demand of the Cardinal raised, of course, an unforeseen and embarrassing complication, and, in order to avoid it, the two priests were condemned to a minor punishment. The Archbishop then sent through the Pope a letter of protest to Signor Mussolini, and the Prime Minister, after having dismissed the Podestà and Fascist secretary of Bellano, who had evidently blundered in the matter, pardoned the two priests. Not even this, however, placated the Pope and the Cardinal, as they declared that they wanted justice and not pardon. That is why during Signor Mussolini's recent visit to Milan there was no meeting between the head of the Government and the chief Church authority of the province, and why the Pope in his letter lays stress on his determination to stand by his Cardinal.

ROME SCHOLARSHIP IN ARCHITECTURE

The Faculty of Architecture of the British School at Rome have awarded the Rome Scholarship in Architecture for 1930 to Mr. William Graham Holford, of South Africa, at present a fifth-year student of the Liverpool School of Architecture, University of Liverpool.

The Rome Scholarship in Architecture is now provided for by an annual grant made to the British School at Rome by the Council of the Royal Institute of British Architects. It is of the value of £250 per annum and is ordinarily tenable for two years at the British School at Rome.

An exhibition of the competition designs will be held in the Galleries of the Royal Institute of British Architects, 9, Conduit-street, W.1, from June 30 to July 5 inclusive, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. (Saturday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.).

SPEED-BOAT ACCIDENT

SIR H. SEGRAVE KILLED

MECHANIC LOST

(From Our Special Correspondent)

BOWNESS, JUNE 13

Sir Henry Segrave and Mr. A. V. Halliwell, one of the two mechanics with him, were killed this afternoon by the capsizing on Windermere Lake of the high-powered speed boat Miss England II., while travelling at a rate of more than 100 miles an hour.

The boat had already set up a new record by covering two laps of the measured mile—one in each direction—at a mean speed of 98.76 miles an hour, and was half way through a third lap when half of the step under the forepart of the hull was torn off, and the boat turned over. Sir Henry Segrave died at Belle Grange at about 5 o'clock, nearly three hours after the accident took place. When taken from the water he had broken his right thigh and two ribs on the right side, and was unconscious. He soon recovered consciousness, but one of the fractured ribs had penetrated the lung and caused internal injuries with which the doctors could not deal. The other mechanic, Mr. Michael Wilcocks, was badly bruised and his face was cut, but his injuries are not serious.

Lady Segrave watched the attempt from the Lancashire side, and saw the boat capsize. She remained on the bank until her husband was brought in, followed him up to Belle Grange, and remained with him until he died. Three doctors were in attendance, and Sir Henry remained conscious almost up to the time of his death. He asked several times about the record, and before he died he had been told the speeds he had attained.

When the accident happened the boat was covering the third lap at a still higher speed than she had reached on the other two. As she reached the middle of the course she suddenly swerved to the left in clouds of spray, and a moment later her engines were silenced as she turned over. The spray settled, and from my boat about 300 yards away a little wreckage and two heads could be seen in the water. Miss England, overturned, floated just beyond them, her stern weighted down by her tremendous engines. A number of motor-boats which had been chartered by onlookers rushed forward. Mr. P. F. F. King, of Troutbeck, dived from one of them and held up Sir Henry Segrave, whose lifebelt had apparently been damaged in the accident. His head was being occasionally submerged by the waves, and even if he had not been unconscious his injuries would have prevented him from swimming.

SEARCH BY 100 BOATS

Mr. Wilcocks was able to struggle into another boat, but from the moment of the accident there was never a sign of the second mechanic, Mr. Halliwell, an employee of the Rolls-Royce Company from Derby. He was not thrown clear of the boat when she turned over, as far as I could see, and was probably killed by the impact with the water as he sat in his seat. A hundred boats now searched the water near. Other boats drew up alongside Miss England, and their occupants attempted to right her, but her engines alone weigh some 15cwt., and nothing on the lake was large enough to handle her. Attempts were made with boathooks to probe into the cockpit for the missing man, all without success. A few minutes later her bow mooring rope was taken by one of the boats and an attempt made to tow her. The movement at once caused the stern, with its heavy engines, to settle down still lower. Presently the bows only stood upright in the water, and air from the watertight compartments came hissing into the water as the boat slowly sank. Twenty minutes after the accident she slid quietly down into more than 100ft. of water, taking with her presumably the unfortunate mechanic who did not get clear.

CAUSE OF THE ACCIDENT

Before she disappeared there was ample opportunity to discover the cause of the disaster. Her hull is shaped much like the floats of a seaplane. It is almost flat, with a step near the bows designed to retain a certain amount of air to enable the bows to lift easily out of the water as she gathers speed. It was the step that gave way. Half the step on the port side and the false bottom running forward from it to the port bow had been torn off. The starboard side was undamaged, and apparently the timber had given way under the heavy pressure of the water and the slight bumping. When it ripped away the effect had been first to slew the boat round in a half-circle, and then to turn her right over. Sir Henry Segrave, in the centre seat, and Wilcocks, on his right, were naturally thrown out as the boat heeled over. Halliwell, sitting on the left of the pilot, was no doubt submerged immediately as the port side dipped into the water, and was probably made unconscious by the force with which he struck the water. As soon as he was picked up Sir Henry Segrave was taken to the nearest shore, the Lancashire side, and was given shelter at Belle Grange, where a doctor tended his injuries. Wilcocks was brought back here, and the search for the body of Halliwell was continued until night.

There had been no hint in the two earlier runs of any mishap, nor was it thought likely that the boat could not stand the strain, since she had already travelled equally fast in unofficial trials. Sir Henry had also assured me this morning that he had no intention of trying the engines full out on these particular attempts. He had had trouble all this week with the propeller. Two steel propellers and one of manganese bronze alloy have been broken at speed, though the steel had a tensile strength of 60 tons

NEW U.S. TARIFF BILL

SENATE APPROVAL

EARLY SUBMISSION TO PRESIDENT

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 13

By a vote of 44 to 42 the Senate this afternoon approved the report of the Conference Committee of both Houses of Congress dealing with the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Bill. When similar action has been taken by the House of Representatives—as may be expected to-morrow—all the formalities necessary to the legislative passage of the measure will have been carried out, and it will go to President Hoover for signature.

The limited time allowed to-day for debate was entirely taken up by Senator Watson (Indiana), the Republican Leader of the Senate, who delved into the records of Congress to show that every protectionist Bill in the history of the country had been condemned with the same violence as this one, and who predicted that the "irresistible logic of events" would refute the critics of to-day. He was asked by a colleague from Iowa how many farmers must go bankrupt before the logic of events became irresistible, but he evaded the question.

The vote generally followed party lines, though five Democrats voted with the Republicans for passage. It is worth remembering that the result leaves a number of Democratic Senators comfortably on record against a Bill which nevertheless includes the higher rates of duty demanded by industrial interests in their various localities. In the electoral campaign to come they can eat the cake which some of their constituents will have.

U.S. AND NAVAL TREATY

MR. STIMSON'S REPLY TO SENATORS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 13

The Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate did not meet this morning, but publicity was given to the reply from the Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson, to the resolution asserting the Committee's right of access to letters and documents concerning the negotiation of the London Naval Treaty.

Mr. Stimson said, briefly, of his earlier contention that "the question whether this Treaty is, or is not, in the interests of the United States, and should, or should not, be ratified by the Senate, must in the last event be determined from the language of the document itself and not from extraneous matter," that it was intended to call attention to the fact that the obligations and rights arising from the Treaty, "as in the case of any other contract, must be measured by the language of the document itself."

Senator Borah, chairman of the Committee, declared this morning that "this ends the matter," and it is generally understood that a sufficient majority of his colleagues agree. Senator Johnson, of California, interprets the Stimson letter as an admission that the Committee has been right, and he will in due course argue that unless the documents demanded are produced the Committee is by every dictate of consistency stopped from further consideration of the Treaty.

WAR ON CHICAGO GUNMEN

NEWSPAPERS JOIN FORCES

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

NEW YORK, JUNE 13

Leading daily newspapers of Chicago yesterday effected a formal alliance of their forces with those of the Chicago Tribune for the purpose of prosecuting the "war on gangsters" which the Tribune declared two days ago. The alliance is not only independent of the police department and other regular law-enforcement agencies, but is fully prepared—as its terms suggest—to direct itself as much against them as against the "gangsters." Immediately after the funeral of Mr. Alfred Lingle, the "Crime Correspondent" of the Tribune, who was murdered in a crowded subway, the publishers of these newspapers met and adopted the following resolution:—

Intolerable outrages of the past year against civic decency and public security in Chicago have culminated dramatically in the cowardly murder of Mr. Alfred Lingle, newspaper reporter. . . . Considering the causes and connotations of the unbelievable total of 100 gang-murders in little more than a year, and acting in unison, we pledge our organizations and resources to the clean-up of gang, police, official, and any other public viciousness wherever it may appear, in order that the corruption resulting from gang activities may be brought to an end, and thereby restore to the citizens of Chicago civic decency and security of life and property.

Cities within several hundred miles radius of Chicago are taking special precautions against large numbers of gunmen, gamblers, bootleggers, white slave traffickers, and other criminals who are reported to be leaving Chicago by train, motor-car, and aeroplane. Arrests have been made in Kentucky, Kansas, and Texas. In New York squads of detectives have been sent to keep watch on all railway terminals and air-ports, and a large detachment studied the crowd entering the Yankee Stadium for the Sharkey-Schmeling world championship fight, looking for suspicious characters from Chicago.

REPARATION LOAN LISTS CLOSED

The subscription lists for the issue of £12,000,000 German Government International Five-and-a-Half per Cent. Sterling Bonds, 1930, were closed at 1 o'clock yesterday.

STRIKE OF BOILER-MAKERS

A strike of boiler-makers has occurred at the Humber Graving Dock at Immingham. Owing to the slackness in ship-repairing, the company had taken up a new class of work, and had obtained a contract for the manufacture of railway signals. The foreman in charge utilized a portion of the boiler-makers' shop to lay out the structural work, whereupon the boilermakers objected, and ceased work.

ATLANTIC FLIGHT DELAY

Our Dublin Correspondent telegraphs:—

It is improbable that the Southern Cross, the Fokker monoplane in which Captain Kingsford Smith hopes to fly the Atlantic, will leave Dublin before next Tuesday. Bad weather reports continue to come from the British Air Ministry.

THE TEST MATCH

ENGLAND 241 FOR 8 WICKETS

At the end of the first day's play in the opening Test Match of the Australians' tour at Nottingham yesterday England had scored 241 for the loss of eight wickets.

Of the 13 English players J. C. White and K. S. Duleepsinhji were left out of the team, the latter acting as twelfth man. Although Hobbs and Sutcliffe gave their side a fairly good start by scoring 53 for the first wicket, Hammond, Woolley, and Hendren failed, the fourth wicket falling at 71. A. P. F. Chapman, the English captain, stayed in with Hobbs until the score had been increased to 153.

Bad light and rain had caused the game to be delayed soon after luncheon, but on coming back Chapman hit well. Play was again delayed by rain, but on resuming after 5 o'clock Larwood and Hobbs added some runs, and then both got out suddenly, Hobbs having made 78 runs. R. W. V. Robins batted well, but in the last over of the day Tate played a ball on to his wicket. Grimmett bowled cleverly for the greater part of the day.

The number of people paying for admission to the ground was 15,763.

The report of the match appears on page 5.

Heavy rain fell at Nottingham last night, saturating the outfield and making pools of water in many parts of the ground. The wicket was covered.

BROADCAST AT SYDNEY

SYDNEY, June 13.—A description of the match was broadcast here to-night. The description was so detailed that the public found it hard to believe that the announcer was not speaking from the Press box at Nottingham, but was relying on an elaborate arrangement of code messages sent by cable and beam wireless direct from Trent Bridge.—Reuter.

UNSETTLED WEATHER OUTLOOK

(FROM OUR WEATHER CORRESPONDENT)

Almost continuous sunshine was enjoyed at many places on the south coast yesterday, and afternoon temperatures approached 80deg. in parts of Sussex and Hampshire.

Although considerable fair periods are probable during the week-end, further local rain and thunder are almost certain to occur in England, and it is not unlikely that Scotland and Ireland may experience some also, in spite of the more favourable prospects in those parts.

SMALLER FOREIGN TRADE

REDUCED MANUFACTURED EXPORTS

Lower prices (there has been a fall of 11.8 per cent. in wholesale commodity prices in the past 12 months) and bad trade continue to be reflected in the returns of oversea trade, and the figures for May again show heavy reductions in values as compared with those for the corresponding month last year. Imports record a contraction of £12,385,912 (11.9 per cent.) to £91,037,363, exports were £16,424,414 (24.3 per cent.) lower at £51,012,184, and re-exports declined by £1,395,901 (12.9 per cent.) to £9,075,409. Compared with April, imports increased by £7,115,000 (8.4 per cent.), exports by £4,151,000 (8.8 per cent.), and re-exports by £1,231,000 (15.7 per cent.), but these increases are due largely to the fact that there were three working days fewer in April than in May.

Imports of raw materials were £6,102,000 lower last month than in May, 1929. Those of raw cotton, which were reduced by 127,000 centals in quantity, decreased by £1,907,000 in value, and those of sheep's wool were 84,000 centals smaller in quantity and fully £2,692,000 less in value. Imports of non-ferrous metals fell by £804,000. Exports of manufactured articles decreased by no less than £13,582,000, imports of manufactured articles showing the comparatively unimportant reduction of £1,528,000. Exports of iron and steel declined by £1,773,000 and imports by £345,000. Exports of cotton goods were £4,482,000 lower and of woollens and worsteds £1,766,000 lower. Machinery exports showed a decrease of over £1,000,000.

The visible adverse balance for the month was £30,950,000, against £25,515,000 in May, 1929, and for the first five months of the year £154,921,000, against £153,604,000. The returns are given in detail in our City columns.

WOOL TEXTILE DISPUTE

FURTHER WITHDRAWAL OF UNIONS EXPECTED

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

BRADFORD, JUNE 13

The likelihood is that one or two craft unions only will still remain in the dispute in the wool textile industry of West Riding in a few days' time. The Executive Committee of the National Association of Unions in the Textile Trade, which met at Bradford to-day, decided to recommend that unions who desire to call off the dispute so far as their members are concerned should act jointly in the matter. This, in fact, was the method adopted by three unions last week-end, and the announcement to-day appears to presage the withdrawal from the dispute of the three unions covering the ordinary workers—the National Union of Textile Workers, the Amalgamated Society of Dyers, and the National Union of General Workers.

There was a good response when Colne Valley mills restarted to-day at the new rates, and it is stated on behalf of the employers' council that in only one case possibly was there not either a full or partial return to work. The operatives' leaders claim that all the Huddersfield fine cloth section, with few exceptions, have settled on a compromise basis, which has been accepted by all the trade unions, with the exception of those covering the overlookers. An effort made by Yeadon trade union officials to secure a compromise has been unsuccessful, the local manufacturers' association declining to modify the terms of the notices posted.

TRAMCAR ACCIDENT AT MANCHESTER

ONE KILLED AND MANY INJURED

A Manchester Corporation double-decker tramcar proceeding from Bury Old-road fouled points at a junction and turned over late last night. One person was killed, 29 are detained in hospital, and 18 are suffering from shock and minor injuries.

PRINCE GEORGE

Prince George will visit Hastings on June 27, when he will open the new wing of the Buchanan Hospital and receive an address of welcome. The visit is in connexion with the town's "Gala Week."

On July 23 Prince George will visit the Papworth Village Settlement for sufferers from tuberculosis, near Cambridge, in order to open the new cabinet-making workshop. He will afterwards attend the West Cambridgeshire Flower Show, which is held annually in the grounds of Papworth Hall and is organized by the Papworth Everard Horticultural Society.

POLITICAL NOTES

ANOTHER DEBATE ON UNEMPLOYMENT

QUESTIONS ON SOVIET PROPAGANDA

The Prime Minister intends to return by air from Scotland on Monday, arriving in London some time in the afternoon. It has now been decided that the conference with the local authorities on Tuesday, at which Mr. MacDonald will preside, will be held in public.

Members of the House of Commons will have another opportunity of discussing unemployment next week. Wednesday is a Supply day, and the Vote for the Ministry of Labour has been put down at the request of the Conservatives. It is desired that the debate shall cover as wide a field as possible, and there is some question as to whether this Vote will give the necessary latitude. Before the House adjourned for the Whitsun Recess an assurance was given that there was no desire on the part of the Government to limit the scope of the discussion. It is felt by some members, however, that as the Prime Minister has now stated that questions involving Government policy in regard to unemployment should be addressed to him, the most appropriate Vote for next week's debate would be that for the salary of the First Lord of the Treasury. There still seems to be some doubt as to the precise nature of the duties to be undertaken by Mr. Hartshorn, the new Lord Privy Seal, and the Government will be asked to give more information on this point.

During the debate on the motion for the Whitsun adjournment, Mr. Henderson, dealing with the question of Soviet propaganda, stated that if the Government were able, after examination, to get "such a clarification of the position as to bring it home to us that the Soviet Government is responsible," they would do one of two things—they would either tell the House that they were going to break with the position or they would ask the House to release them from the statements they made in the early stages of debate on this subject. As it is felt that this statement lends itself to more than one interpretation, Mr. Henderson will be asked, soon after the House of Commons reassembles, to throw further light on the intentions of the Government. Anxiety is also felt by members of the Opposition at the alleged increase of Soviet propaganda by the use of the cinematograph film, and it is probable that Mr. Clynes will be asked to state what action is being taken by the Home Office.

COUNT BETHLEN'S VISIT TO LONDON

Count Bethlen, the Prime Minister of Hungary, is due to arrive in London to-morrow on a formal visit to this country.

There will be a dinner at the Hungarian Legation on Monday night, to which Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Henderson have been invited, and on Tuesday Count Bethlen will have luncheon with Mr. MacDonald and dinner in the House of Commons as the guest of Mr. Henderson. On Wednesday the Hungarian Prime Minister will attend Ascot races, and he is to be received by the King on the same day.

Count Bethlen, who will be accompanied by Countess Bethlen, expects to leave again on Thursday morning.

SHACKLETON MEMORIAL STATUE

A model for a statue of the late Sir Ernest Shackleton by Mr. C. S. Jagger, A.R.A., has been approved by the committee of the Shackleton Memorial Fund. The statue has been offered to and accepted by the Royal Geographical Society, and when completed will be placed on the outer wall of the new Geographical Hall, of which Mr. G. L. Kennedy is architect.

Our Political Correspondent states that when the House of Commons reassembles next week another debate on unemployment will take place. The Foreign Secretary will also be asked to throw further light on the Government's intentions with regard to Soviet Propaganda. (p. 12)

IMPERIAL AND FOREIGN

A statement of the Indian Liberal Party's views says that there is every indication that the Recommendations of the Simon Commission will not satisfy public opinion. The calling-off of the civil disobedience campaign is urged, but at the same time the purpose of the Round-Table Conference should be defined as the evolution of a self-governing Dominion Constitution, with safeguards for the transition period. (p. 12)

A new Cabinet was formed in Rumania last night by Dr. Maniu, to whom King Carol made a second offer after the failure of Marshal Presan. (p. 12)

The United States Senate yesterday approved the report of the Committee of both Houses of Congress dealing with the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Bill. The House of Representatives is expected to take similar action to-day, and the measure will then go to the President for signature. (p 12)

After a protest by Cardinal Schuster, Archbishop of Milan, against the arrest of two priests alleged to have been guilty of offences against Fascism, the priests were pardoned and the Fascist officials responsible were dismissed. (p. 12)

The first Test Match was begun at Nottingham yesterday, when England scored 241 for eight wickets, K. S. Duleepsinhji and J. C. White were left out of the England side. (p. 5)

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

In "City Notes" comment is made on :—Over-subscription of the Reparations Loan ; Higher Treasury Bill Rate ; the Banks' Bill Holdings ; Riga's Prolonged Default ; Modder Deep and Geduld Dividends ; Goldsbrough Mort's Lower Profits ; Management of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company ; Provision Merchants' Setback ; Favourable Tea Reports ; and Fire Insurance on the Continent. (p. 18)

In Lombard Street money was more plentiful, but discount rates advanced further. Foreign Exchanges were more favourable to sterling on the whole, the New York, Italian, Belgian, and German rates advancing. The Argentine and Brazilian rates were again lower. Gold declined ½d. to 84s. 11½d. per oz. (p. 19)

In the Stock Markets yesterday a sharp rise occurred in India loans, and several British Government stocks rallied slightly. Brazilian bonds and Argentine rails were affected by lower exchanges. Industrials, as a whole, remained dull and a further fall occurred in Tin and Copper shares. (p. 18)

LABOUR EAST AND WEST

The International Labour Conference now meeting at Geneva is obliged, by its widening activities, to give attention to the extremely important question of limited conventions as contrasted with conventions of universal application. Any convention on hours of work in mines must necessarily be of limited application. Similarly a convention on forced labour is of practical importance only to the countries with colonial possessions. Whose voices then shall decide its provisions ? Even the earliest convention—that of the Eight Hour Day—though designed for universal application made exceptions for the industrially backward nations of the East. A later phase of the same question is giving international labour problems a new scale. The change of proportion comes from the industrial development of the lands that border the Pacific, and it is scarcely too soon even now to ask whether Geneva will remain for all time the one and only political centre of the world of labour. There is a gravitation of industry, eastward from Europe, westward from America, of which the ultimate effects are beyond calculation. Industrial discussions cannot be concluded in terms of Europe and the North American continent. A completely different and increasingly important set of conditions exists on the shores of the Pacific. If the Northern Hemisphere is viewed from the standpoint of the British Isles, the limits of trade and industry are China and Japan on the one hand and on the other Canada and the United States. But the Far East and the Far West confront each other across the Pacific, which is a common highway for their commerce. The territories of Oceania in the Southern Hemisphere are also Pacific lands, and the trade of Australia, both import and export, with Pacific countries is increasing proportionately at a greater rate than her trade with the rest of the world. At first it might appear that the contrasts in civilization, the extreme divergences in industrialization, and the correspondingly varied economic standards of the Pacific lands set them far apart without impulse to or opportunity for economic cooperation. Nevertheless, while countries of the Far East are represented in the International Labour Conference at Geneva and discuss labour questions on equal terms with the nations of Europe, there is a growing recognition of the existence of questions that particularly and collectively concern the peoples of the Pacific countries.

So definite is the emergence of what may be termed Pacific questions that the International Labour Office is already considering what the effects on its organization are likely to be. It is inquiring, first of all, whether it will need to organize an official demonstration of its activities in the Pacific area, and also whether an early development will be a series of "regional understandings" of the kind that the Scandinavian countries are at present arranging. The International Labour Office frankly admits that it did not always look kindly on the international cooperation of the Scandinavian countries, being jealous for the unquestioned supremacy of Geneva and naturally anxious lest regional understandings should interfere with the more comprehensive agreements embodied in the Geneva conventions. Those fears have been dissipated in part by the assurances of the Scandinavian countries and in part by the facts of experience ; and the opinion of the Office has swung completely round, so that it now entertains with satisfaction the idea of regional understandings of far greater scope—nothing less indeed than the subdivision of the world into suitable areas in order to permit the consideration of the problems of those areas by the countries within them. In the long and detailed survey of industrial and economic conditions which M. THOMAS, the Director of the International Labour Office, has prepared for the International Labour Conference he welcomes "any cooperation between particular countries "in the same part of the world which "aims at widening and strengthening "international cooperation," and offers the technical assistance of the Office. The blessing is conferred on the Scandinavian cooperation in particular, but M. THOMAS has larger expectations. "It may even be (he thinks) that the "project of a federation of European States ". . . might also have some application on "labour matters," and he tells of how "an "idea of this kind took shape last year in the "countries bordering on the Pacific." The allusion is to a conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations at Kyoto, but other significant movements do not escape notice. There is, for instance, the Pan-Pacific Union, established at Honolulu, which has the aim of bringing together "at the ocean's cross-roads" the "leaders in all lines of thought and action in "Pacific lands, organizing them into friendly "cooperative effort." The Union has already arranged six or eight international conferences. No less important, but ominous, is the eagerness with which the Communists have seized upon the Pacific as a centre of activities. They have established a Pan-Pacific Trade Union Secretariat, which maintains a continuous attack upon the International Labour Office and the trade union organizations in Pacific countries which support I.L.O. work. From the existence of these movements M. THOMAS draws an inference for the guidance of those who direct the policy of Geneva.

> All these organizations (he says), profoundly different as are their objects, constitutions and backgrounds, are alike in their conviction that there is a sufficient degree of homogeneity in the problems of the Pacific to justify joint discussion of them by all Pacific countries, including those in all three continents washed by the Pacific—America, Asia, and Oceania. This conception leads them to think that the mass of common interests in the Pacific countries necessitates framing machinery for the regular examination of Pacific problems. Are there profound reasons for such a movement, and does it respond to common needs created by existing circumstances ?

It is putting the same idea in another form when M. THOMAS asks whether the Pacific region may be regarded as a new Mediterranean forming a homogeneous whole with common problems. Again he inquires if there can be any community of interest between the Japanese, the Chinese, and the Slav of Asia, the predominantly Anglo-Saxon stock of the United States, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, the Latin American peoples of Mexico, Central and South America, and the Polynesians and other races of the islands of the Pacific. The first part of the answer which he makes is that in fact in this same Pacific region a number of political treaties and conventions have already been concluded. In the second place it is maintained that in the economic field "there are the same "characteristic features of the growing unity "of the Pacific." Migration (oversea and continental) is one of the economic problems that require study ; the growth of industrialism gives rise to a series of others. Many of the problems of the Pacific M. THOMAS attributes to economic fear, and he observes that "there "is probably no more effective way of eliminating that economic fear than by the creation "of approximately similar standards of life and "work in countries which are competing for the "same markets." But as to what period of time will elapse before there can be any such assimilation of economic conditions the Director's report makes no rash estimate. The opening for discussion of a subject of such far-reaching implications does something, however, to prepare the mind of the International Labour Conference—by way of question rather than of answer—for developments in the Far East that until lately were not contemplated. "Will the "idea of a Consultative Conference take birth "in that area also ? If so, how will the more "purely Asiatic movement be reconciled with "this Pacific movement ? How will the "regional understandings be defined ?" That such questions should engage the thoughts of the Geneva Conference is a sign that the very terms East and West in industry are losing their ancient meaning.

Sir Henry Segrave

Yesterday afternoon on Lake Windermere SIR HENRY SEGRAVE drove a motor-boat faster than anyone had driven a motor-boat before, and died in the achievement. Rather more than a year ago at Daytona, Florida, he had driven a motor-car faster than anyone had driven a motor-car before, or has driven one since. For eight years he had survived the perils of motor-racing on land. For eighteen months or more he had courted those of motor-racing on the water; and to these, which are probably as great, or greater, he has succumbed. He was a very brave man ; but he was not a rash or a reckless man : he never took unnecessary risks. But his being was concentrated on attaining speed. Such a man guards against danger only in so far as it would hamper him in his purpose. If he thinks about death at all, swift death in a moment of triumph is probably the end that he would desire.

It has yet to be shown that humanity is any the better for the speed in movement which the experiments and the achievements of SEGRAVE put within its reach. But, if speed is nothing, the spirit that urged SEGRAVE to speed is a great and noble thing. It is the spirit of adventure, of courage, of honourable emulation, which, however useless its objects may be, is in itself a higher thing than that which would suffer human life to drag listlessly on in grooves of habit and of indifference. By his courage, his determination, his vitality, his devotion to an end, SIR HENRY SEGRAVE set an example to all. A man of genius in his own field, he must be counted among those who have deserved well of their kind, and his name will be remembered in honour.

The New Swedish Cabinet

With the Summer Session of the Swedish Riksdag ending to-day the Government of M. EKMAN seems destined to survive at any rate until the new Session opens early next year. When the Ministry was formed a week ago even that limited prospect appeared uncertain. The new PRIME MINISTER'S group, the People's Party, is neither the first nor the second in the Chamber in point of numbers, and his power of performance is therefore considered to be small. The Parliamentary situation in Sweden, as in so many other countries to-day, is confused, and majorities are fluid. The Social Democrats have considerably the largest party in the Riksdag—ninety members compared with the twenty-eight of M. EKMAN'S People's Party. But on the question which caused the recent crisis M. EKMAN, who may be described as holding the balance in the Chamber, led his followers along the middle way which eventually commended itself to the majority. He is therefore judged to be the most representative Parliamentary leader at the moment. At the beginning of the present Session there seemed a possibility that the People's Party and the Social Democrats would combine, but it soon became clear that they were unable to stand upon a common platform. The KING is known to have pressed upon M. EKMAN the importance of securing beforehand as stable a majority as possible; but the Ministry as it stands is frankly a minority Government, and the Swedish Press does not foresee for it a very long or glorious career.

As agriculture is an industry of vital importance to Sweden it is not altogether surprising that a matter of flour milling should have brought down the late Government of ADMIRAL LINDMAN. His fall last week followed a two-days' debate on the proposed increase in the duty on foreign corn, which in his opinion had been rendered absolutely necessary by the decision already taken by the Riksdag that all wheat milled in the country should contain a certain proportion of Swedish wheat. A majority of the Chamber approved the compulsory inclusion of home with foreign grain as an encouragement to Swedish farming; but the essential corollary (in the Government's view) of a higher tariff against foreign corn was rejected. The intention of the Conservative Government was, in fact, to adopt the system which has been worked with fair success in Germany since last August. There, behind the protection of a tariff wall, thirty per cent. of any wheat milled must be home grown. In spite of the efforts which he had previously made to improve the prospects of agricultural producers the position of ADMIRAL LINDMAN had indeed been insecure for many months. He had proposed to subsidize farmers generously for the erection of barns and other purposes ; and in support of the sugar industry he had advocated the raising of the Customs duty on foreign refined sugar. A Committee of the Riksdag substituted for the proposed duty a subsidy to the sugar-refiners, which it was calculated would enable them to pay a price for beets which in its turn would make beet growing remunerative. The full Riksdag preferred the Committee's proposal to that of the Government; the subsidy was authorized and the proposed increase of duty rejected. The further rejection of a similar Government proposal in respect of grain had been made a matter of confidence ; and therefore on this occasion ADMIRAL LINDMAN resigned. It should be mentioned that a few days before his resignation the Swedish Parliament had ratified the Geneva convention favouring a Customs truce ; and therefore the Riksdag, in spite of the amputated form in which that convention left the Geneva Conference, may have felt some natural compunction about sanctioning increases of tariff.

The Sponsors Scheme

EARL GREY'S renewed appeal for the Sponsors Scheme, published this morning, can scarcely fail to draw renewed support from readers of this journal. Already they have shown in a practical and generous form their approval of this method for increasing the supply of clergy. By this means men with a real vocation are enabled to enter the Church's ministry when otherwise it would be closed to them, their services lost, and their hopes frustrated, by the one obstacle of insufficient money for their training. Anyone conversant with the acute difficulties caused by the present dearth of clergy and aware of the opportunities which in consequence are left unused, must welcome a scheme which already has brought into the ministry 550 recruits who otherwise must have remained outside it. At the moment, LORD GREY states, there are 163 approved candidates whose further training is impossible until new "sponsors" have been found to befriend them; and it is not the least merit of the scheme that it creates a personal and human relationship between the individual sponsor and the candidate whom he assists. In short, this plan which LORD GREY has furthered with persistent and admirable energy is a real step towards curing the Church's chief weakness to-day. It is not, of course, the only lack that requires to be made good ; new buildings are urgently wanted in new districts, and various other details of machinery need to be supplied. But without the men the machinery must stand idle.

Some of the measures devised to meet the dearth of men, however plausible in the circumstances, have failed to commend themselves to all Churchmen. The policy of uniting benefices, which is nearly always resented by the parishes concerned, is often unsatisfactory in working and, by decreasing the number of benefices, diminishes the prospects of the unbeneficed. The Pluralities Measure of 1930, recently approved and sent forward by the Ecclesiastical Committee of Parliament, provides a way that is to be preferred, because its provisions are not irrevocable. During the present abnormal conditions two parishes can be placed under the charge of a single incumbent, but with the chance of reverting to their original status when matters improve. But neither the Pluralities Measure nor the Union of Benefices Measure will be needed for other than exceptional operation when once the supply of clergy to work the parishes has again become adequate. It will be perceptibly less inadequate if the Sponsors Scheme receives the support it so richly deserves.

On the Bath Road

Inquiries made on the spot by our Special Correspondent put the threatened widening of the Bath Road in Wiltshire in a clearer light. The idea was not born of the congested state of the road or of the number of accidents caused by sharp corners or blind ascents. The proposal came from the Ministry of Transport, which informed the Wiltshire County Council that the Bath Road, being a trunk road (it is A 4), was scheduled for improvement, and that if they would take it in hand at once and begin making it thirty feet wide everywhere, with a five-foot path beside it, the Ministry would pay from seventy-five to eighty per cent. of the cost. It was a tempting offer. Acceptance would save the Council nearly all the cost of the repairs and maintenance that would in time become necessary to the existing road; and better to begin widening the road at once on very favourable terms than be forced to do it later on a much smaller grant. And through it the unemployed would get work. The proposal was considered last August, at a time of the year when attendance at meetings is not at its fullest nor attention to business at its most alert. The offer was accepted—accepted by some of the members "with much "regret," according to one of them who wrote to us on the subject the other day. Our Special Correspondent's report bears out what other letters have disclosed—that that regret is pretty general.

The existing road is a good road, a beautiful road, an easy road, and a road quite wide enough for its use. Between Froxfield, where it enters Wiltshire, and Marlborough it passes through Savernake forest. Westward from Marlborough it swings over the downs, past Manton, between Silbury Hill and Long Barrow, under Cherhill monument and so to Calne and beyond. It is seldom less than twenty feet wide; and though a carbarian in a hurry might chafe at the bend by the farm house in Overton or at the strip between high banks near Cherhill, there is on the whole road no single point where well-conducted traffic need be either endangered or unduly delayed. Marlborough is only to be congratulated on having its town hall at the east end of its noble High-street to force traffic to enter the town slowly, and at the western end a church and a turning which prevent motorists from breaking records past the buildings and gates of Marlborough College. It would be a good thing to make some sort of bay at Silbury Hill, where the cars of sightseers stop on a sloping bend ; and the footpath which runs eastward and westward for some distance out of Marlborough might with great advantage be continued all along the road. But those who use the road regularly confirm with authority the impression gained by the ordinary observer, which is that it is never crowded and carries little heavy traffic. To ordain that, because it is a trunk road, therefore it must be of a certain width and have a certain width of footpath over all its length is to secure a pedantic uniformity at the expense of reason, and of more than reason. With all the care and all the proper pride which the Wiltshire County Council and its officials would certainly bring to the work, the widening could not be carried out without diminishing the beauty and coarsening the still gentle and gracious character of this famous road. That which was lost could never be replaced. And as for the relief of unemployment, enough has been said lately in these columns and elsewhere (among others, by the MINISTER of TRANSPORT himself) to shake the public faith in road making as a remedy.

MEN FOR THE MINISTRY

IN GRATITUDE TO LORD DAVIDSON

A CALL FOR MORE SPONSORS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—When The Times has done so much to help the Church in the last three years by providing through its readers for the training of over 550 ordinands, it is distressing to have to write and say that this year's Sponsors appeal has not hitherto met with the same measure of success. Although it was launched earlier in the year, there are still 163 candidates for whom no provision has been made.

The potential worth of these men cannot be measured in money. They represent so many fresh centres from which the work of the Church will be enabled to radiate, so many more active agents to fight the materialism of the present day.

Is it not possible that, in spite of increased taxation, 163 generous persons still remain who will, in gratitude for the splendid life that was so recently laid to rest in Canterbury Cathedral, each one be the means of enabling a fresh young life to be given to the Church ? If there are such, will they write to Sponsors, Church House, Westminster, S.W.1 ?

I am, &c.,
GREY, Chairman, Central Board of Finance, Church Assembly.

EGYPT AND THE SUDAN

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—The sincerity and consistency of Prince Omar Toussoun are not questioned even by those who differ from him radically. But either a lapse of memory or a misreading of history has led him, in a letter published in The Times to-day on the rights of Egypt in the Sudan, to make a statement which cannot pass unchallenged. He represents Egypt as having been obliged "under pressure of England's policy" to employ Hicks Pasha and other British officers who, though competent officers, were ignorant of the conditions of the country in which they were to operate. Such a statement is in complete opposition to facts.

It was in the autumn of 1882 that the military rebellion against the authority of the Khedive was finally suppressed and normal conditions were restored in Egypt by the British occupation. The Dufferin mission was still to come, and a long time was yet to pass before the formulation of the Granville doctrine that so long as a British army of occupation remained in Egypt her Majesty's Government would expect the advice tendered by their representative to be followed. Meanwhile the Mahdist rebellion in the Sudan broke out.

In February, 1883, Colonel Stewart, who was in Khartoum, reported that it would be highly injudicious to advance on Kordofan, and that after the fall of El Obeid a disaster or even a check would probably involve the loss of the whole of the Sudan. In the spring of 1883 General Hicks was appointed by the Egyptian Government to the staff of the Sudan Army. On May 7, 1883, Lord Granville telegraphed to Mr. Cartwright, the Chargé d'Affaires in Egypt :—

> H.M. Government are in no way responsible for the operations in the Sudan, which have been undertaken under the authority of the Egyptian Government, or for the appointment or actions of General Hicks.

A subsequent telegram of August 8 to Sir E. Malet, who had then returned to his post, repeated with emphasis the British Government's disclaimer of any responsibility for the conduct of affairs in the Sudan. And yet Prince Omar Toussoun describes him as having been employed "under pressure of England's policy."

Hicks, who had dealt exclusively with the Egyptian Government, was placed in command of a force undisciplined and without fighting capacity, whose pay was in arrears in some cases for as much as two years. He may have underrated the difficulties before him, inasmuch as with certain qualifications he expressed his readiness to undertake the campaign. The Egyptian Government, unable to provide him with adequate resources or efficient troops but unwilling to entertain withdrawal, drifted on into catastrophe. Hicks started on his disastrous expedition on September 8, 1883. Three days later Sir Evelyn Baring arrived to assume his official duties in Egypt.

If any blame can be attached to the British Government of the day it would be for not insisting on the only reasonable policy, which was adopted later, of withdrawing altogether from the Sudan. They had, however, not desired to occupy Egypt. They certainly did not intend to embark in adventures in the Sudan, and they made it a point to abstain from all interference.

Yours faithfully,
June 12. RENNELL RODD.

THE BATH ROAD IN WILTSHIRE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—There is another serious aspect of the Wiltshire Boulevard. Judging by work already done by our county council, instead of following the lead of other counties when road-widening and putting up a temporary fence with quickset so as to provide a hedge, we erect concrete posts with either galvanized wire or mesh, which costs a lot of money. Imagine 40 miles of such a fence with a concrete kerb running with it, and, further, what a boon an order for 40 miles of quickset would have been to local nursery gardeners. I do not think that either the posts or wire are made in Wiltshire.

During the last three years I have been obliged to motor very frequently to London, and I suppose I have been over the road in question at least 250 times. To suggest that there is any sort of congestion on this road is ridiculous.

I am, &c.,
E. RICHARDSON-COX.

South Wraxall Manor, June 11.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—The letters you have published seem to have established their case as to the needlessness of the proposed widening of the Bath road in Wiltshire, as well as the fact that to carry out the proposal will spoil a very beautiful road. The only defender of the scheme (and a half-hearted one at that) supports it with the very creditable intention of reducing unemployment. But why this obsession with road making as the one and only work for the workless ? It appears that if the County Council embark on this useless and unwanted enterprise they will receive a substantial grant from the Treasury : could not the money be given for something more essential?

During last summer's drought, many of the down farms and villages endured untold distress from lack of water. In the autumn we had an unprecedented rainfall, and all the superfluous water was allowed to flow as quickly as possible into the sea, with considerable discomfort to the places it passed on the way. The time is surely past when this absurd waste should be tolerated. We are always nearer to a water famine than our predecessors were. Land drainage has lowered many of the springs, and we wash more than our parents did. In country districts there is urgent need for a system of large rain-water tanks to store our superfluous water for the dry seasons. No village can undertake such a scheme for itself. It could only be paid for by a central fund, and then its advantages could be available for those small places which must now go thirsty. I confess I am no engineer; but my faith in the engineering profession is such that I believe it contains men capable of carrying out something on the lines I have indicated, and thus really benefiting the country people, instead of giving all their energies to facilitating the progress of those who roar through the villages on their passage from one town to another.

Yours faithfully,
EDITH OLIVIER.

THE MINCHENDEN OAK

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES

Sir,—The many people outside this district who have been interested in the preservation of that fine old tree, the Minchenden Oak, one of the great oaks of Enfield Chase, though not "mentioned in Domesday Book," will be pleased to hear that it has been saved from the axe of the builder, which has smitten down so many splendid trees in Arno's Grove. The Southgate Urban District Council has been able to purchase a plot of land with the tree, and the authorities of Christ Church have added a piece of Church land, which will be formed into a "quiet garden," where the people of the district and other wayfarers may rest and enjoy the amenities of the ancient village green and "Chapel Fields," which still preserve a little rural retreat, in spite of the flowing tide of bricks and mortar, which have engulfed so many of our suburbs.

CHINA OF THE CENTURIES

TRADITION AND CHANGE

SUN YAT-SEN'S STORY

In the following article a correspondent recently returned from China gives an impression of what is changed and of what is unchanging in the social setting of revolution and civil war.

(From a Correspondent)

The sentences in which Marco Polo wrote o Hangchow some 600 years ago would have described it as, scornful of the centuries, it lay on a spring morning not long since. The Western Lake, traditional beauty spot of China, was covered with hundreds of pleasure boats ; the girls and women were clad in gay silks or satins ; the men were singing lazily to the slow twang of their one-stringed hu-ch'in. There were temples, old with legend, set back from the shores. At little tables under willow-trees, amid scent of lilacs and lazy hum of bees, was served wine—colourless and fiery or the yellow wine from nearby Shao-hsing—warmed, pledged in dainty, handleless cups, and inducing a voluptuous laziness. Beauty and verse and the soft companionship of trees seemed the only realities.

Yet to the North great armies were carrying war through whole provinces, the banks of far-off Manchurian rivers were infested with robber bands, and in wide areas of Western China were famine and utter destitution.

Such contrasts of happiness and misery, splendour and squalor—contrasts, too, of callousness and deep affection—give to Chinese life a light and shade startling in crudity, supreme in effect. The Chinese are aware of these contrasts. "The more dirty and more ragged are the bearers, the more splendid appears the chair and the master seated within its curtains," was the opinion of one who loved ceremony. But it is in the strange blending of East and West, in modernity and medievalism, that foreigners find the greatest incongruity. Every one knows that at the Revolution pig-tails were cut off ; they have heard that officials exchanged the peacock's feather for the top hat ; but they feel no certainty that the Revolution has gone deeper and effected any change in the lives, in the religion, in the thoughts of the Chinese people.

THE ONE MAN

The Chinese had a system of government which in capable hands worked well, which rested on a central authority of immense prestige, but wisely left much to local discretion. The people paid their taxes and tilled their fields, while the power of the Emperor stood between them and the barbarians, between them and God. The patriarchal power of the family was the foundation of the State. The broad tolerance of the cultured subscribed to no creed, the wide ignorance of the mass believed all creeds, so that any form of religion was tolerated that was not subversive. The rather conventional code of Confucius and the caustic humour of Mencius supplied the ideal of "Chün Tzu," the Superior Man, superior not by birth but by personal culture.

The avowed aim of Sun Yat-sen was not to destroy this aged culture or to undermine family life, but to preserve them as the foundation of the modern State. He sought only to destroy the Imperial idea and to set in its place the idea of the Nation. But a people which for so long had bowed down before the presence of One Man could not easily put in his place an abstraction. Their imaginations craved for one man. And they were given for their idol—the image of the dead iconoclast Sun Yat-sen. A shrine, which in conception and scope is akin to the tombs of the Pharaohs, has been dedicated ; his portrait and his last will are the most revered emblems of China ; his authority is more supreme than that of the Emperors, whose actions and words were checked by the Imperial censors.

The people still pay their taxes, and till their fields, while the power of the family maintains its sway. Temples hold their services, and in the spring sacrifices are yet made at the ancestral graves. But there are unattended graveyards whose walls are broken down and perhaps their tombs robbed. In whole districts temples have been forcibly converted into schools, hospitals, or barracks. The priests of other temples, formerly fed by Royal bounty, have been forced by dire distress into abandoning the cassock and earning a livelihood as soldiers or labourers, as rickshaw-pullers and beggars. A father can no longer hale an unfilial son before the magistrate for domestic disobedience, and sons now not infrequently choose their own brides. A score of years ago early marriages were almost universal in China, as in all agricultural lands where the labour of the family was needed for the fields. Now a son may leave his home to earn his living or to study abroad, and economic necessity may make him revert to an earlier tradition of Chinese society when the marriage age of a man was 30 and 20 for a maid. In the enforcing of the law, however, the head of a family may still be held responsible. The Revolution decreed, with greater success than had the Manchus, that women's feet should no longer be bound. The custom was barbarous and inflicted great suffering. But many old-fashioned people clung to their prejudices. To such a one came two lesser officials who warned him that the feet of his wife and secondary wife must be unbound. Bowing the officials ceremoniously on their way, the owner of the house returned to his women-folk, and did nothing. A month later the officials returned. The old householder explained that the women's feet remained bound because the unbinding process must be accomplished slowly. The officials went on their way again, but the old man was forced to go with them. On arrival at the Yamen, the administrative buildings, he was told :—"You admire bound feet, we will bind your feet" ; and presently :—"You like to watch people walking on bound feet, you will try it for yourself." Between pain and mortification at the jeers of his tormentors the old man became quite ill, and returned broken to the law.

PIGTAILS AND PIPES

While the Revolution has for the most part eradicated bound feet and pigtails in the rising generation, it has a hard struggle in its attempts to stamp out opium, gambling, and the keeping of concubines. In many districts laws against the cultivation of the poppy are rigorously enforced, police supervision is at times strict, unlicensed smokers are prosecuted, and public burnings of opium and opium-pipes take place. Most people take to opium because they have some physical pain or are overworked. The opium temporarily soothes the body and makes the mind clear and active. If it is persisted in, however, the physical and mental reactions become increasingly severe.

The evils of opium and of drink are sometimes compared. The Chinese, past-masters in the art of living, are not teetotallers. At bachelor dinner-parties games of forfeits are played, and the loser drinks a cup of wine. Faces get flushed, speech may be confused, but the loser of many forfeits is sent quietly home to bed. The Chinese have not taken greatly to foreign wines or spirits, with the exception of brandy, of which they are sometimes rather fond. Their own wines are made from rice or kao-liang (giant millet) ; they are usually warmed and taken during meals, but before the serving of rice.

To the desperate struggle for existence must be attributed the passionate desire for material wealth which prompts the worship of Ts'ai Shen, god of wealth, and leads to the widespread gambling spirit illustrated in an anecdote told by Sun Yat-sen:—

There was a coolie who worked daily at the steamer jetties carrying passengers' baggage with his bamboo pole and two ropes. He finally managed to save more than $10 . . . and used his savings to buy a Luzon lottery ticket. He had no home and no place to keep the lottery ticket . . . so he hid it inside his bamboo pole, and since he could not always be pulling out the ticket to look at it, he fixed the number indelibly in his mind. When the day for the drawing came he went to the lottery shop to match this number, and as soon as he saw the list he knew that he had won first prize, acquiring a wealth of $100,000. He was almost insane with joy. Thinking that he would no longer have to be a coolie and use his bamboo pole and ropes, that he would be a rich man for ever, he gleefully took the pole and ropes and threw them into the sea!

Mah-jong, though officially outside the law, is popular with all classes, and great sums may change hands over a night's play. Poker has a certain vogue, and, as may be imagined, the Chinese, with their practised control of outward emotion, have often wonderful "poker-faces." Women in particular find much amusement in the monthly or bi-monthly fairs, held often in the courtyards of the temples. Booths are set up, every kind of merchandise is displayed for sale, horoscopes can be cast or incense burnt in front of the shrines.

The priests in China are often reviled, and a comic scene at the theatre will depict a gross and voluptuous abbot with his concubine and opium-pipe. But though smaller temples may tend to laxity, many of the larger ones maintain a strict discipline. Celibacy is enforced, three or four services are held daily, classes of instruction are arranged for the younger priests, meals are strictly vegetarian and must be eaten in silence, there are penances for all transgressions, while marriage, burial, or intercessory offices are performed for the people. Many temples are endowed with land property, and the ranks of the priesthood are filled generally by youths whose parents had vowed that, should they be spared from some desperate illness, they would devote them to the service of God. A severe ordeal must be endured. Years of study, followed by months of fasting, culminate in two days of continuous ceremonies, when burning sticks of incense are placed on the initiates' heads. As the flame burns searingly into the scalp some swoon and others cannot control their involuntary shrinking. The agony of the burning is the last convulsive struggle that sets them free from the world and marks them off for ever from their fellow-men.

THE ACTOR'S PROGRESS

But, be he priest or layman, soldier or farmer, every Chinese has a keen sense of the dramatic; he is a born actor, and it is this that gives the theatre its pre-eminent place in the national life. The Chinese goes to the theatre to see life in all its facets, to see life as it has been unrolled in China for 4,000 years; for the Chinese theatre is opera, historical drama, burlesque; it can tell a religious legend, it can stage the ballet. To Mei Lan-fang, greatest actor in the country, the modern Chinese theatre and the status of the Chinese actor owe the greatest debt. A generation ago an actor was considered as of a class so low that every political and social disability was heaped upon him. To-day such a man as Mei Lan-fang is received widely in Chinese and foreign society; his wealth and his genius have become household words in China, and he is now carrying his fame throughout the United States of America. The convention that all the performers in a theatre shall be of one sex still holds good, but, so exquisite are the figure and movements of the actor in the heroine's part, so masculine the address and carriage of the actress in a villain's part, no feeling of incongruity exists.

This convention of the isolation of the sexes does not extend to the cinema world. Pictures are produced in China with purely Chinese casts and management, though there is as yet no individual Chinese "star" who can vie with the great popularity in China of "Lu K'o" and "Chia Po-lin," as Harold Lloyd and Charlie Chaplin are known to local "fans."

ROMAN YORK

DISCOVERIES ON SITE OF ANCIENT FORTRESS

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

YORK, JUNE 13

Important discoveries which may assist in the elucidation of some problems of the arrangements of the legionary fortresses in Britain were made to-day at York. Portions of a Roman wall and tiled flooring were found last week during excavations for a new hotel on part of the site of the fortress of Roman York. Yesterday a further length of external walling and half an apsidal end of a building were uncovered, which indicate portions of an important building.

These were exterior walls, but, owing to the plan of the hotel, investigations of the interior seemed out of the question, but the proprietors of the new hotel, John Smith's Tadcaster Brewery, have decided to alter the plan in order that the existing work should be preserved and the cellaring extended so that further discoveries might be made. As a result part of the buildings of the great legionary fortress of Eboracum will be preserved instead of being filled in.

It is impossible to say at present what the structures were or their exact date, but on superficial evidence they appear to have been the hot rooms of a bath, as tiling and a gullet already found indicate the site of a cold bath adjoining the apsidal building.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES IN THE ARMY

Lieutenant A. T. Wilson Brand, The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, qualified as a First Class Interpreter in Chinese (Pekingese) at an examination held at Peking in December, 1929, and Captain A. K. Ferguson, The Leicestershire Regiment, qualified as a First Class Interpreter in Japanese at an examination held at Tokyo in February last.

* Re-qualified.

THE TRAINING SHIP FOUDROYANT

Having received notice to remove his training ship Foudroyant, formerly the 38-gun frigate Trincomalee, from Falmouth, where she has been stationed since 1903, Mr. Wheatley Cobb, who stated that he spent £5,000 a year on her maintenance, was yesterday granted permission by Cowes Harbour Commissioners to bring her to Cowes, where the ship was formerly stationed for five years. She has been given a berth near Old Castle Point, 1,000ft. eastward of No. 1 Royal buoy.

Obituary

SIR HENRY SEGRAVE

GREAT MOTORIST AND SPORTSMAN

Major Sir Henry O'Neal de Hane Segrave, whose death is announced on another page, was born on December 22, 1896, in Baltimore, U.S.A., the son of Mr. de Hane Segrave, who is of Irish ancestry.

At the outbreak of the War in 1914 he was at Eton, whence he passed into Sandhurst. He was gazetted to the 1st Battalion, The Royal Warwickshire Regiment, on December 16, 1914. With that battalion he served in France until he succeeded in being transferred to the Royal Flying Corps, a transfer which he had desired since the beginning of the War. In later days he was apt to refer lightly to his air work during the War, and he described himself as "the world's worst pilot." Those who served with him had a different tale to tell. His record was good, but his warlike days had ended by 1916 owing to the effect of three successive wounds. In that year he became Technical Secretary to the Air Minister, and in the following year was appointed Private Secretary to the Director-General of Military Aeronautics. In 1918 he was attached to the British Aviation Mission in Washington in order that he might assist in the development of military aviation in the United States, a task which was simplified by his personal charm and his American birthright.

At the end of 1918 he left the Royal Air Force and set his mind to motor-racing. There was no easy entry, and in his book "The Lure of Speed," he described his persistent importunities of Mr. Coatalen, of the Sunbeam Company, in his endeavour to become a racing driver. During the waiting period he learned all that could be learned of racing driving without actual experience, and his persistence was finally rewarded by his appointment as a member of the Sunbeam team, which in those days included Sir Algernon Lee Guinness and Mr. Kenelm Guinness. Of that team he speedily became a worthy member, and it is no exaggeration to say that in 1921 and the years which immediately followed Great Britain had the most skilled racing team in the world. As long as victory fell to the team, it did not much matter which of three drivers led at the end. The final victory was a matter of organization as well as of driving.

Segrave won the Grand Prix de l'A.C.F. in 1923, and the Grand Prix des Voiturettes in the same year, the Grand Prix d'Espagne in 1924, and the Grand Prix de Provence in 1925 and 1926. The list of his victories and of victories in which he shared is long. He was a master in road racing, physically fit at all times, cool in moments of crisis, and swift in accurate judgment. For each race he prepared as carefully as has any athlete in the history of sport. He was in this matter a pattern of his kind and a model for others. His personal skill in organization and his keen intellect were of great value at this time, when Great Britain was teaching the world that she could lead in motor racing as in certain other sports.

On the track he was also a leader both in his methods and the results he achieved. As a member of Talbot-Darracq team he won the 200-mile race at Brooklands in 1921, 1925, and 1926, and was a member of the winning team in 1922 and 1924. He preferred the road to the track, but he proved his mastership of both. In 1926 he began his record-breaking career by breaking the flying kilometre record at Southport on a 12-cylinder Sunbeam (4½-litre) with a mean average speed of 152.30 m.p.h. At about this time he began the preparation of a two-engined Sunbeam car (1,000 h.p.). He shared to some degree in the design. The car was taken to Daytona Beach, Florida, and after one or two preliminary runs took the mile record to 203.988 m.p.h., the kilometre record to 202.988 m.p.h., and the five-kilometre record to 202.675 m.p.h. This feat was to have marked the end of his motor-racing career, as he had told many friends that continuance would lead inevitably to disaster. Machines might collapse and personal skill might dwindle. Thus he began a commercial career in which he had swift success. But the lure of speed was still there, and after Mr. Ray Keech, an American driving an American car, had taken the record to 207.55 m.p.h., Segrave was easily induced to undertake to drive a new car specially designed by Captain Irving. This car—the Golden Arrow—was fitted with a supercharged Napier Lion engine similar to those used in Schneider Cup racing aircraft. At the same time a racing motor-boat—Miss England—was built that he might also make an attempt on the motor-boat speed record.

The car was taken to Daytona Beach, and on March 11, 1929, Major Segrave raised the record—at the first attempt—to an average speed of 231.362 miles an hour for the flying mile. This record is still unbeaten. On his return to England he was received with great popular enthusiasm, and his feat was rewarded with a knighthood. He received the accolade from the King at Craigweil House, Bognor, the first award to be made personally by the King since the beginning of his illness.

Sir Henry Segrave then returned to his commercial work and began to show a revival of interest in aviation. A machine of the most modern type was designed by him and the first model was produced in recent weeks. He still desired to break the motor-boat record, as his first attempt in American waters had failed. Miss England II. was designed and built, and in that boat he broke the world's record by over six miles an hour before the accident which has ended his life.

His success in all he undertook was due not only to personal courage and skill, but to the pains he took in preparation, both physical and material, and to the judgment which steadied impulsiveness and gave him foresight. He was modest in action and guarded in forecast. He was generally popular and none ever grudged him the rewards he earned. His personal ability was such that competent observers prophesied for him a brilliant career after he had left the arena in which peril and preformance held so much attraction.

He married in 1916 Doris, daughter of Mr. W. J. Stocker. There is no issue.

MR. EDMUND SLADE

Mr. Edmund Slade, who died on Monday at Tunbridge Wells, at the age of 78, was formerly a well-known oarsman. In business he was in the Stock Exchange from his earliest youth until 1926.

One of his first victories for the London Rowing Club on the Thames was the final heat in the Virtue Sculls in 1874. This was followed by the Shillito Sculls and the Molesey Senior Fours, coxswainless, in 1875. Two years later he rowed No. 3 in the winning Grand Challenge eight at Henley and was in the winning crews in the Metropolitan Pairs, the Metropolitan Champion Cup, and the Thames International Amateur Champion eight. These successes were followed by the Senior Fours at Kingston Regatta, the Layton Pairs, the Barnes and Mortlake Grand Challenge Cup, and the Treasury Sculls in 1878, while he also rowed in the Wyfold Fours (which race the London Rowing Club lost to the Kingston Rowing Club). In 1879 he was one of the crew that won the Molesey Senior Fours. He was the founder of the Molesey Regatta, and was secretary of the Molesey Rowing Club for some years.

In local affairs at Chislehurst, where he had lived for many years, he took a keen interest, and there may still be some residents who remember how energetically he worked to collect subscriptions for lighting the commons and streets of Chislehurst by oil lamps. It is not many years ago that one of his wooden lamp-posts was still standing near where he last lived in Chislehurst. To mark the festival of the Ascension, he persuaded the village folk and others to make it a holiday, and after the religious services in the morning he organized athletic sports on the common, which were appreciated by all classes, and in which he was assisted by all denominations.

The Church of the Annunciation, to the building of which his father had contributed a large sum, was another of his great interests, and there he was buried. For 20 years he sang in the choir, and for six years or more he was the vicar's warden. Until declining health compelled him to resign he was for several years a member of the council of the Clewer Sisterhood.

MR. HENRY CLAY FOLGER

SHAKESPEARIAN COLLECTIONS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

NEW YORK, JUNE 13

Mr. Henry Clay Folger, a former president of the Standard Oil Company of New York, better known as the owner of a magnificent collection of Shakespeariana, died after an operation at a Brooklyn hospital on Wednesday. He would have been 73 years old next Wednesday.

Mr. Folger was born in New York on June 18, 1857, and was educated at Amhurst College. He was a former president of the Standard Oil Company, and was interested in several other commercial enterprises. For the last 40 or more years Mr. Folger had been chiefly engaged in building up a Shakespeare library on which he had spent some millions of dollars. He had collected about 50 copies of the First Folio edition of Shakespeare, of which only about 200, perfect and imperfect, have survived. Many of Mr. Folger's copies are not perfect, but, on the other hand, many are in very fine condition with interesting provenances. His collection of Shakespeare quartos is one of the finest in existence, while in books on Shakespeare and of Shakespeare interest his library is probably more comprehensive than any other library, public or private, in the United States. Mr. Folger, with the late Mr. W. A. White, was one of the earliest of the American collectors to concentrate on Shakespeare, and it was largely due to his competition that Shakespeare rarities have risen so much in value during the last quarter of a century.

Not content with forming a great Shakespeare collection, Mr. Folger had during the last two or three years been engaged in the erection of a splendid building at Washington, D.C., for the reception of this Shakespeare library, which he intended to be a permanent one for the use of students. In recent years Mr. Folger had not confined himself to Shakespeare books, but had purchased pictures and drawings of Shakespeare interest. Only a year or two ago he bought an extensive collection of pencil drawings by Romney of studies for scenes in Shakespeare's plays.

VISCOUNT GUILLAMORE

Hugh Hamon Massy O'Grady was the 7th Viscount Guillamore, having succeeded his cousin to the title in October, 1927. He was born on July 5, 1860, son of Hugh O'Grady, D.L., of Castle Garde, and was educated at Trinity College, Dublin. On leaving there he joined The Royal Sussex Regiment. During 1884 he served in the Nile campaign and was awarded the medal with clasp and the Khedive's Star. After serving with his regiment with further distinction in the South African War, in which he was awarded the medal with five clasps, he retired from the Army in 1901. On the outbreak of the Great War, however, he rejoined his regiment, and was appointed successively to the 7th and 8th Battalions. Later, he was transferred to the 26th Battalion, Northumberland (Tyneside Irish) Regiment, and again to the 2nd Garrison Battalion, Royal Welch Fusiliers. He was appointed, finally, second in command of the Irish Command Depôt, with the rank of major. In 1890 he married Mary Margaret Frances, daughter of Vere Hunt, of High Park, Co. Tipperary. There is no issue. The heir is his cousin, Mr. Richard O'Grady, of Rathfredagh, Newcastle West, Co. Limerick, who was born in 1867.

The family of O'Grady claims a common descent with that of O'Brien from the ancient monarchs of Ireland. The first peer was Chief Baron of the Exchequer in Ireland from 1805 till his retirement in 1831, when he was created Viscount Guillamore of Cahir Guillamore, and Baron O'Grady of Rockbarton, in the peerage of Ireland.

SIR COLIN DAVIDSON

Sir Colin Davidson, who has died at Tokyo from septic anaemia at the age of 51, had been Japanese Counsellor to the British Embassy there since 1927.

The son of Mr. John Davidson, of Holkham, Norfolk, Colin John Davidson was born on October 28, 1878, and was educated at Dulwich College and at Dresden. In July, 1901, he was appointed a student interpreter in Siam, and was transferred to Japan in August, 1903. From November, 1908, to April, 1911, he was Assistant Japanese Secretary at the Embassy in Tokyo, being for most of the time private secretary to the Ambassador, the late Sir Claude MacDonald, and, after serving as Vice-Consul at Seoul, Korea, was promoted to be Vice-Consul at Yokohama in February, 1913. He was attached as interpreter to the staff of the late Major-General Barnardiston in the operation against Tsingtao in 1914. In 1919 he was appointed Consul at Tokyo, and in 1923 was given the local rank of First Secretary of Embassy. In 1927 he was appointed Japanese Counsellor at Tokyo with the local rank of Counsellor in the Diplomatic Service. He was specially attached to the staff of the Prince of Wales during his visit to Japan in 1922, and to the staff of the Duke of Gloucester on the occasion of the Garter Mission to Japan in 1929. He was made C.I.E. in 1919 and C.V.O. in 1922, being promoted to K.C.V.O. in the New Year Honours last January, and he had also received the Japanese Orders of the Sacred Treasure and the Rising Sun.

Mr. Dyce W. Saunders, K.C., of Toronto, died in London yesterday. There will be a service at Grosvenor Chapel, South Audley-street, on Monday at noon.

WREKIN COLLEGE

FOUNDER PRESENT AT JUBILEE CELEBRATIONS

The jubilee of the foundation of Wrekin College was celebrated at Wellington yesterday. At a commemoration service in the school chapel in the morning, the lesson was read by the founder, Sir John Bayley, and the sermon was preached by the vicar of Wellington, Dr. Kempson, formerly Bishop of Warrington. The Rev. P. E. Warrington and the Chaplain, the Rev. E. J. H. Nash, were the officiating clergy.

Prizes were distributed in the afternoon by Sir John Bayley. The CHAIRMAN of the GOVERNING BODY, Lord Gisborough, presided, and he was supported by the following members of the council:—Bishop Kempson, Sir Archibald Boyd-Carpenter, General Adair, the Rev. P. E. Warrington, and Alderman Pearman-Smith.

The HEADMASTER, Mr. Walter M. Gordon, in his report, stated that plans for a new chapel costing £20,000 had that day been approved, the architect being Mr. T. M. Ashford, A.R.I.B.A., an old boy of Wrekin. There was a record entry of new boys for next term.

The annual inspection of the O.T.C. is fixed for to-day, when the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Western Command, Lieutenant-General Sir Cecil F. Romer, will be the inspecting officer.

CROYDON AERODROME LANDINGS

A notice to airmen issued by the Air Ministry yesterday, states:—"There is a growing tendency for pilots landing at Croydon aerodrome in a W. or S.W. direction, to approach at a low altitude over the public enclosure. Such approach must in future be effected at a height precluding any possibility of danger arising to members of the public within the enclosure."

SIR WILLIAM SOLOMON

LATE CHIEF JUSTICE OF SOUTH AFRICA

The Right Hon. Sir William Solomon, who died yesterday in a clinic at Ruthin, North Wales, at the age of 77, became Chief Justice of the Union of South Africa in March, 1927, on the retirement of Sir James Rose-Innes. He resigned on account of ill-health last October. He had had a long and distinguished judicial career, and he was held to be the best lawyer on the South African Appeal Bench in recent years. Doubtless he lacked the judicial breadth of such a powerful mind as that of Lord De Villiers, the first of the Union Chief Justices; nor was he equipped with the personality and experience in public life which distinguished Rose-Innes, his immediate predecessor. But as a pure lawyer, with a great capacity for penetrating to the heart of the matter before him and for expressing himself with perfect lucidity, Sir William would have made his mark on any Bench; his judgments were received with great respect.

He came of a family distinguished in public service. His father, the late Rev. E. Solomon, of Bedford, Cape Colony, was one of a group of notable workers in the South African mission field in the middle years of the nineteenth century. Sir Edward Solomon, the late Chief Justice's brother, who died in 1914, was a prominent lawyer and politician in Johannesburg. Sir Richard Solomon, another brother, after an outstanding political career at the Cape, was Attorney-General during the Crown Colony period in the Transvaal after the South African War, and was later the Union's first High Commissioner in London. He died in 1913.

William Henry Solomon was born in 1852, was educated at the South African College at Cape Town, and went up to Peterhouse, Cambridge, of which he was a scholar and was in 1915 elected an honorary Fellow. He read for the Mathematical Tripos of 1876, but had to be content with an "aegrotat." In 1877 he was called to the Bar by the Inner Temple. Returning to South Africa, Solomon was appointed one of the Crown Advisers under the Cape Government. In that capacity he practised at the Bar until, in 1887, at the early age of 34, he was raised to the Kimberley Bench. As an advocate he is not recalled as figuring in any case of note, and he made no conspicuous mark at the Bar; the Bench was his real vocation. From Kimberley he was in due course transferred to the Eastern Province Division of the Supreme Court, sitting at Grahamstown. Subsequently, on the conclusion of the South African War and the establishment of English courts of law at Pretoria, he was appointed to the Transvaal Bench, of which he was Senior Puisne Judge. After the constitution, at the Union of the four Colonies, of an Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, with jurisdiction coextensive with the Union, Sir William was raised to that Bench. He became Chief Justice in 1927, and was sworn of the Privy Council on his appointment as a member of the Judicial Committee in 1928. He was knighted in 1907, and was made K.C.M.G. in 1913.

Unlike his brothers, William Solomon passed his life in a serene atmosphere of aloofness from general public activity. Very short of stature—a family characteristic—and physically unimpressive, he was a man of the simplest and most modest demeanour. Though invariably kind-hearted, he could not be described as a man of broad human sympathies. Intellectual gifts of a high order he certainly possessed, and nowhere save on the Bench could they have been exercised with greater benefit to the community. As a Judge he enjoyed the fullest confidence of the public throughout his career. This conspicuous immunity from any sort of bias, coupled with a profound understanding of all phases and problems in the South African scene, made Solomon peculiarly acceptable as an arbiter for determining troublous matters in which party or race feeling was involved. Thus he was president of the Special Treason Court which sat at the Cape during the South African War, and he was selected as a member of the Delimitation Commission which laid down the boundaries of constituencies for the Union Parliament. Again, he was chairman of a Commission, in 1913, to inquire into the grievances of railwaymen in the Union, which had been made the subject of embittered controversy. Sir William also presided over the Commission which examined the grievances of Indians in South Africa, and particularly with relation to the position in Natal, where a considerable residuum of Indians, formerly indentured on the sugar plantations, had settled as traders and farmers. For his distinguished service in regard to this thorny problem Sir William was made K.C.S.I. in 1914.

Lady Solomon, who was Maude Elizabeth Christian, of the well-known Port Elizabeth family, died in 1920. They had no children.

THE FELTMAKERS' COMPANY

LORD MAYOR AND SHERIFFS ENTERTAINED

The Lord Mayor and Sheriffs were the guests of the Feltmakers' Company at a dinner held at the Fishmongers' Hall last night. The MASTER, Mr. Frank A. Dixon, was in the chair. SIR WALTER GREAVES-LORD, K.C., M.P., proposed the civic toast. The LORD MAYOR, in reply, referred to the death of Sir Henry Segrave, whom he described as a great pioneer, a most unassuming man, and a most charming personality. PAST MASTER J. Y. EDWARDS proposed "The Fishmongers' Company," and DEPUTY PRIME WARDEN J. Y. JOHNSON replied. The toast of "The Guests" was submitted by Mr. FRANK HODGES. The HIGH COMMISSIONER FOR AUSTRALIA, SENATOR R. D. ELLIOTT, and SIR CYRIL COBB responded. The toast of "The Feltmakers' Company" was proposed by PAST MASTER MAJOR RICHARD RIGG, who said that it received its charter on the accession of James I. in 1614, and was an offspring of the Haberdashers' Company. The MASTER replied. Those present included:—

The Lady Mayoress, Lady Ryrie, Past Master and Mrs. G. T. Devonshire, Lady Greaves-Lord, Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Richard Rigg, Mrs. Frank Hodges, Sheriff and Mrs. Phené Neal, Sheriff and Mrs. F. H. Bowater, Past Master Sir George and Lady Mills McKay, Past Master Sir Richard and Lady Sennett, Mr. Harry Linsdell, Mr. Ridley Warham, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gillett, Mr. G. Rooke Collingridge, Alderman and Mrs. M. Jenks, Mr. W. L. Threlford, Mr. H. Cart de Lafontaine, Past Master and Mrs. F. J. Astbury, Mr. G. Topham Forrest, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mounsey, the Rev. W. Sinnatt (hon. chaplain), Senior Warden and Mrs. F. J. Jackson, Renter Warden and Mrs. S. A. Williamson, Mr. J. Taylor, Warden and Mrs. S. E. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. David Little, Past Master and Mrs. Alfred Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bentley, Mr. R. Y. Ames, and Lieutenant-Colonel Alfred Greenwood.

WOMAN CYCLIST KILLED

A young woman cyclist was killed early last evening on the main road between Ash and Sandwich, when she was knocked down by a motor-car. The four occupants of the car had a narrow escape from death, as, seeing that a collision was inevitable, the driver swerved to the right and the car overturned at the side of the road. All four occupants escaped with minor injuries. The dead woman was identified as Mrs. Geoffrey Quested, of Darston, near Ash, the wife of a well-known farmer in the district.

MINISTERS' PRIVATE SECRETARIES

Dr. Addison, Minister of Agriculture, has appointed Mr. R. H. Franklin and Mr. D. E. Vandepeer to be his Private Secretaries, and Major J. Milner, M.P., to be his Parliamentary Private Secretary. Lord De La Warr, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Agriculture, has appointed Mr. H. Meadows to be his Private Secretary.

to the square inch. This afternoon he had gone back to the bronze propeller, and was trying to take the record with the engines running on only three-quarter throttle. Then, having made a new record, he proposed to take the boat back to the shed, change the bronze for a steel propeller, and with that put her over the course at full speed. The boat, therefore, was travelling considerably below the speed she was designed to stand. The experts thought it likely that, with a propeller that would stand the strain, she might have added another 15 miles an hour to her speed.

The first two laps were done in excellent style, though when running up at the first attempt from Belle Isle towards Ambleside the boat bumped rather on the choppy water. Coming back at a faster speed against the wind she rode the water much more steadily, almost dead flat, and with practically no pitch. After crossing the southerly mark she turned again, took a half-mile run up to it, and shot across it, her 3,600 horse-power engines roaring still louder than before. Again she was bumping slightly over the waves, and half-way along her career ended suddenly in a cloud of spray, which cleared at once to show the two figures and the wreckage of the step floating behind her overturned hull.

The attempts on the record were officially timed on behalf of the Marine Motoring Association by Colonel Lindsay Lloyd and Mr. George Reynolds. Their report was made afterwards to Major Harold Pattinson, Clerk of the Course, who issued a statement that the mean speed of the two laps was 98.76 miles an hour. The speed in knots was given as 85.7. On the first lap Miss England did 96.41 miles an hour and on the second she reached 101.11 miles an hour. [Mr. Gar Wood held the record up to yesterday with a speed of 96.25 miles an hour.]

SURVIVOR'S STATEMENT

Mr. Wilcocks, the only survivor of the accident, said last night that he had no idea what happened to cause the accident. They might have struck an object. The boat was right on top of her form, and they knew that they were travelling faster than man had ever travelled on water before. Then it happened. It was all like a nightmare. All he knew was that there was a sudden shudder. He seemed to be falling, falling, falling. That was all he remembered. He must have lost consciousness.

Sir Henry Segrave's father left London by air for Manchester as soon as he heard of the accident, and arranged to drive from there to Windermere.

At the time of the accident on Windermere, Sir Henry Segrave's monoplane, the Segrave Meteor, was making a trial test at Brough, East Yorkshire. The machine had been entered for the King's Cup Air Race on July 5, and final tests were being made.

LORD WAKEFIELD'S TRIBUTE

COURAGE AND ENDURANCE

LORD WAKEFIELD said last night that Sir Henry Segrave was the most courageous man he had ever met. He also had the clearest grasp of difficulties and the most complete calmness and self-control in facing the dangers inevitable in his quest for the speed record on land and sea. He pursued his great ambitions with a quiet determination entirely devoid of mere restless daring. He studied the factors essential to success, and mastered them one by one. He thought of everything, and thought for all those who were associated with him. He was a natural leader of men, and without effort enlisted the enthusiasm of his companions. Although always bearing the greatest burden, he supported and encouraged his colleagues by his rocklike strength and endurance.

Mr. KAYE DON, the racing motorist, said that Great Britain had lost one of her greatest sportsmen and pioneers who ever lived. All who knew him personally would remember him as one of the most lovable of men. When he (Mr. Don) went to America for his speed attempt, Sir Henry Segrave was of tremendous assistance to him, giving him invaluable information and advice which only he could give, because of his experience.

The MASTER OF SEMPILL, President of the Royal Aeronautical Society, sent the following telegram to Lady Segrave last night:—"In very real sorrow I am sending you, on behalf of all the members of the Royal Aeronautical Society, these few words attempting to convey our deepest sympathy on the irreparable loss you have suffered by the death of your gallant and widely talented husband. He had only recently, much to the satisfaction of his many friends and associates, returned to aviation, in which he had filled such a distinguished part during the War, and he had only just been elected a member of the Society. His loss will be very keenly felt."

MISS ENGLAND'S ENGINES

THE NEW BRITISH ALLOY

(FROM OUR MOTORING CORRESPONDENT)

The Rolls-Royce engines in Sir Henry Segrave's boat, Miss England II., were constructed largely of the recently discovered aluminium alloy known as Hiduminium R.R. 50. Evolved in the Rolls-Royce laboratories, R.R. 50 was one of the secrets of the engines which won the Schneider Trophy for this country last September.

Though originally designed to give 875 h.p., each unit was lightened and modified until it delivered nearly 2,000 b.h.p. with a power-weight ratio of 12oz. per brake-horse power—an astonishing figure for a water-cooled engine, and this with an even greater factor of reliability than before, thanks to the adoption of the new metal. The reason is that R.R. 50 is not only lighter and tougher than former aluminium alloys; it has many times their resistance to fatigue under the stress of heat and prolonged vibration. The engines in Miss England II. are very similar to those of the historic S 6 seaplanes, which successfully withstood the severe strains of flying for long periods at over 350 m.p.h.; but in the boat an even greater power output, and consequently lower weight per horse power, was obtained from them.

Another advantage of R.R. 50 is that it is cheaper to produce than former alloys, and already, it is stated officially, inquiries from Continental countries have been so numerous and valuable that the licensees have found it necessary to open an office in Paris to deal with the growing foreign business in the new metal.

STRIKE IN UPHOLSTERY TRADE

LONDON WHOLESALE SECTION AFFECTED

The strike notices of the workpeople in the London wholesale upholstery trade expired last night. It is expected that about 1,500 men will stop work.

Mr. H. E. Taylor, the secretary of the London Cabinet and Upholstery Trades Federation, yesterday described the dispute as most extraordinary in its character. In the first place, he said, it was limited to the wholesale section of the industry. Presumably the retailers were to be left alone in order that the people they employed might support the strikers. In the second place, the whole of the wholesale firms were not involved. Strike notices had been served on 27 members of the employers' federation, leaving the remainder unaffected. Reports received from the 27 firms showed conclusively that there was no enthusiasm for the strike.

Mr. F. Conway, the organizing secretary of the union, said that the actual number on strike would not be known until Monday. He added that the policy of blaming the Minority Movement for the strike might be an astute move to befog the minds of the workpeople, but it was suspiciously like a blow below the belt to the union officials, with whom the employers' federation had dealt for years past. As to the rates of wages in the upholstery trade being high, Mr. Conway said that the rates for women were 1d. an hour higher in Manchester than in London. The men were rated at 1s. 9d. an hour, but the threat of reduced rates of wages hung over the heads of many members of the union.

In this connexion it may be recalled that the employers have offered to stabilize wage rates for 12 months.

BYRON'S PORTRAIT AT MISSOLONGHI

COPY HANDED TO GREEK MINISTER

The Byron Society and the Anglo-Hellenic League met at the Greek Legation, Upper Brook-street, W., yesterday afternoon, when the Greek Minister received on behalf of the Mayor and Council of Missolonghi copies of the portraits of Byron (1788-1824), Trelawney (1792-1881), and Frank Abney Hastings (1794-1828), to take the place of those destroyed by fire in the Mairie last year.

SIR RENNELL RODD, M.P., made the presentation. He said that it had fallen to the lot of few places so small, so far from contact with the modern world as Missolonghi, to touch the emotion of mankind and retain its strong hold on sympathetic memory for upwards of 100 years. At the mouth of the Gulf of Corinth stood tragic Missolonghi, which had stirred the hearts of our fathers and grandfathers and aroused in Europe a tide of feeling which led to the sudden and decisive action at Navarino.

Of our own countrymen whose enthusiasm called them to embrace the cause of Greece, three especially had been held in remembrance at Missolonghi. First and foremost was Byron, whose premature death there probably did more to stimulate opinion in Europe in favour of the Greek struggle for liberation than he could ever have achieved had he lived. There was Trelawney, the younger son, who accompanied him in the Hercules, and Frank Abney Hastings, that most disinterested and gallant sailor, who gave his life and his modest fortune to Greece.

It was with sincere regret, added Sir Rennell Rodd, that he learned of the disastrous fire which had deprived Missolonghi of all its long-cherished treasures. The most precious could never be replaced. It had been possible, however, by the kindness of some of the many friends of Greece, to replac by the best copies they could obtain the portraits of the three Englishmen which Missolonghi most desired to recover.

LORD BEAUCHAMP, president of the Anglo-Hellenic Society, said that the three portraits would be accepted by the town of Missolonghi in the sympathetic spirit in which they had been given. The gift would show to all who lived in Greece an assurance of our abiding good will for the continued prosperity of that great country.

The GREEK MINISTER received the three portraits and an illuminated album containing the names of the subscribers. He said that the Mayor and Council of Missolonghi would deeply appreciate the gift and would be glad to learn that their friends in England were numerous and constant. The feelings of friendship between the two countries would be strengthened by this act of remembrance.

Those present included:—

Sir John and Lady Stavridi, Sir Arthur Crosfield, Lady Helen Murray, the Rev. D. R. Fotheringham (hon. secretary of the Byron Society), Mr. N. Eumorfopoulos (hon. secretary of the Anglo-Hellenic League), Lady Meiklejohn, Miss Ada Byron, Miss Nora Byron, Miss Anne Lytton-Milbanke (great-great granddaughter of Byron), Rear-Admiral and Mme. Papalexopoulo, The Great Archimandrite, Canon Douglas, Mr. John Drinkwater, Mr. J. N. Mavrogordato, Professor and Mrs. F. H. Marshall, Dr. E. A. Wilson, Mr. K. Thring, Mr. E. M. Rodocanachi, Mr. H. O. Corfiato, Mrs. Tatton Bower, Mrs. Dracoulis, and Mr. H. M. Hake (Director of the National Portrait Gallery).

MOTORING OFFENCES IN 1929

188,803 CONVICTIONS AND 74,929 CAUTIONS

Motoring offences numbering 290,511, in which 256,414 persons were concerned, were dealt with during 1929 in England and Wales, according to a return published yesterday by the Home Office.

Of these cases 74,929, involving 69,393 persons, were dealt with by cautions, and in 215,582 cases, in which 187,021 persons were concerned, prosecutions were undertaken. Convictions were recorded in 188,803 cases, involving 165,855 persons, and fines totalling £201,315 were imposed.

In 10,927 cases, involving 8,478 persons, the charges were dismissed. In 13,530 cases, involving 10,726 persons, charges were proved, but orders for dismissal were made, and in 134 cases 118 persons were ordered to enter into recognisances. In 181 cases 166 persons were committed for trial and 2,007 cases, in which 1,678 persons were concerned, were not proceeded with for various reasons.

Lighting offences numbered 76,623, and were dealt with by caution in more than 25,000 instances. In 51,035 cases dealt with by summons, there were 44,721 convictions. Cases of reckless, negligent, or dangerous driving numbered 27,552. Prosecutions in 24,269 cases resulted in 18,678 convictions, and the fines imposed totalled £44,781.

The QUEEN of SPAS

VICHY is celebrated all round the world for its waters. There are many springs, both cold and warm. Visitors most generally come to VICHY for the sake of the latter, which bubble up right in the middle of the Central Park.

Now this natural water is unique. The main constituent is sodium bicarbonate, but the very remarkable facts are that, coming up from the underground melting pot, the water is sterile; secondly, its tenure salt is exactly the same as in human blood; and, lastly, the temperature is precisely that of the body. In one word, nature manufactures here what we generally call a serum.

Let us note here that it is far from being a simple alkaline solution. The most recent analyses have demonstrated over 40 constituents, most of them only detectable through the spectroscope. It is because of this great complexity that VICHY water cannot be reproduced artificially.

And here is the secret of VICHY water: it acts on the liver. Now the liver is the main filter of the system. The highly civilized life we are proud of is far from being a normal natural life, and the proper draining and exhaust of our organism needs now and then (and always towards middle age) a thorough cleaning. Such is the service you may expect from the VICHY cure—it opens the safety valves.

Therefore should benefit from the cure in VICHY all deficiencies due to clogging of the eliminating system, such as congestion of the liver, kidney troubles, gall stones, indigestion, diabetes, rheumatic pains, [You know the patient who complains of "being full of uric acid"]—lastly gout.

The water is prescribed before meals in very carefully considered quantities. But besides the internal treatment you will find in VICHY all possibilities to induce external elimination at the Bath-Establishment, the largest and best equipped of its kind in the world. Every type of physical treatment is applied there, the foremost being the VICHY-douche or massage under water.

As a rule the VICHY treatment is taken in the morning. In the afternoon our Visitors gather at the Country Club. Our Golf Links boast of the best-kept greens to be found on the Continent. The tennis courts are 100 per cent. Rowing, riding, fishing, shooting are available. Flat Racing, Horse and Dog Shows are a special feature of VICHY. As a matter of fact all sports and games are available.

At night you may have at your disposal all the resources of a modern Casino, with an Opera House, light Comedies, daily Concerts with the very best Paris Artists. A day in VICHY, as you see, is a rather full day.

Every sort of accommodation may be found in VICHY, from the very first-class Hotel to the quite French type of "pension." All information may be got from the Federation of French Health Resorts at the House of the British Medical Association in London, from the National Office of Tourism, Haymarket, and, of course, from the Mayor of VICHY.

You see that in VICHY everything has been combined both for the benefit of your health and for your enjoyment. Certainly you should come and visit the QUEEN OF SPAS, if it were only from mere curiosity. But it would be astonishing if you do not agree with me that no doubt it is better to treat your liver with VICHY water than with pills.

The modern trend of Medicine is to consider the prevention rather than the cure of disease. As Sir James Barr points out, the great bulk of the visitors come to VICHY seeking health or restoration of health, and if they were disappointed they would not repeat their visits so regularly.

Take your physician's advice: you'd better go to VICHY before you have to go to VICHY.—ADVT.

His Majesty then conferred Decorations as follows:—

THE EDWARD MEDAL

Mr. Joseph TURNER.

On 7th November, 1929, an explosion accompanied by fire took place in a press house of the Royal Naval Cordite Factory at Holton Heath. Turner, on hearing the explosion, immediately went towards the press house, and as only one worker came out of the building he knew that there would be others left inside. With complete disregard for his own safety he made his way into the press house, which he knew to contain quantities of explosives and was then on fire, and found one of the workers unconscious on the floor beneath an accumulation of burning debris. Despite the grave risk of further explosions, he pulled the injured man free, extinguished so far as possible his burning clothing, and managed to drag him clear of the building. Unfortunately the injuries sustained by the rescued man subsequently proved fatal.

Mr. Granville WASTIE.

On the 25th November, 1929, at North Leigh, Oxfordshire, Hector Wastie, a bricklayer, when descending a new well, thirty feet deep and three feet wide, was overcome by gas about half-way down and fell unconscious into thirty inches of water at the bottom. His brother Stanley went to his assistance, but he too was rendered unconscious by the gas and collapsed. Another workman, George Broughton, attempted to descend the well, but when about half-way down he became faint and had to be pulled up by the rope which he had fastened around him. By this time Granville Wastie, a farmer, who had heard of the accident to his brothers, arrived in a motor-car. After tying a handkerchief over his face and tying himself he descended the well and, tying a rope round Stanley, succeeded in bringing him alive to the surface. Granville then went down a second time and brought up his other brother Hector. A doctor who was summoned found that Hector had been drowned after he had been rendered unconscious by inhaling carbon dioxide. Granville Wastie displayed great courage in descending the well twice after three men had been overcome by gas, and he almost certainly saved the life of his brother Stanley. He well understood the risk he was taking and exercised both skill and foresight in effecting the rescue.

The Gentlemen of the Household in Waiting were in attendance.

The Right Hon. J. R. Clynes, M.P., had an audience of The King.

Mr. John Hayes, M.P. (Vice-Chamberlain), was received in audience by The King, and presented an Address from the House of Commons, to which His Majesty was graciously pleased to make reply.

The King held a Council this morning a 11.45 o'clock. There were present:—The Lord Parmoor (Lord President), the Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, M.P., the Right Hon. Christopher Addison, M.P., the Right Hon. Edward Noel-Buxton, M.P., and the Right Hon. Vernon Hartshorn, M.P.

The Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, M.P. (Lord Privy Seal) delivered up the Privy Seal upon relinquishing his appointment, and having received from His Majesty the Seal of Office, took the Oath and kissed hands upon appointment as Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs.

The Right Hon. Vernon Hartshorn, M.P., received from The King the Privy Seal, and took the Oath of Office as Lord Privy Seal, and kissed hands upon appointment.

An Order in Council was approved by His Majesty appointing the Right Hon. Christopher Addison, M.P., as Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries.

The Hon. Sir William Erskine was sworn in a Member of His Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council.

Mr. Colin Smith was in attendance as Deputy Clerk of the Council.

The Lord Parmoor had an audience of The King previous to the Council, and the Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, M.P., had an audience of His Majesty after the Council.

Brigadier-General the Viscount Hampden (Lord in Waiting), the Master of the Household, Admiral Sir Henry Campbell (Groom in Waiting), Lieut.-Colonel Reginald Seymour (Equerry in Waiting) and the Deputy Master of the Household were in attendance.

The Right Hon. Sir William Erskine had an audience of The King and kissed hands upon his appointment as His Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary at Warsaw, when The King invested him with the Insignia of a Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George.

Mr. Henry Chilton had the honour of being received and kissed hands upon his appointment as His Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary at Santiago, when The King conferred upon him the honour of Knighthood and invested him with the Insignia of a Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George.

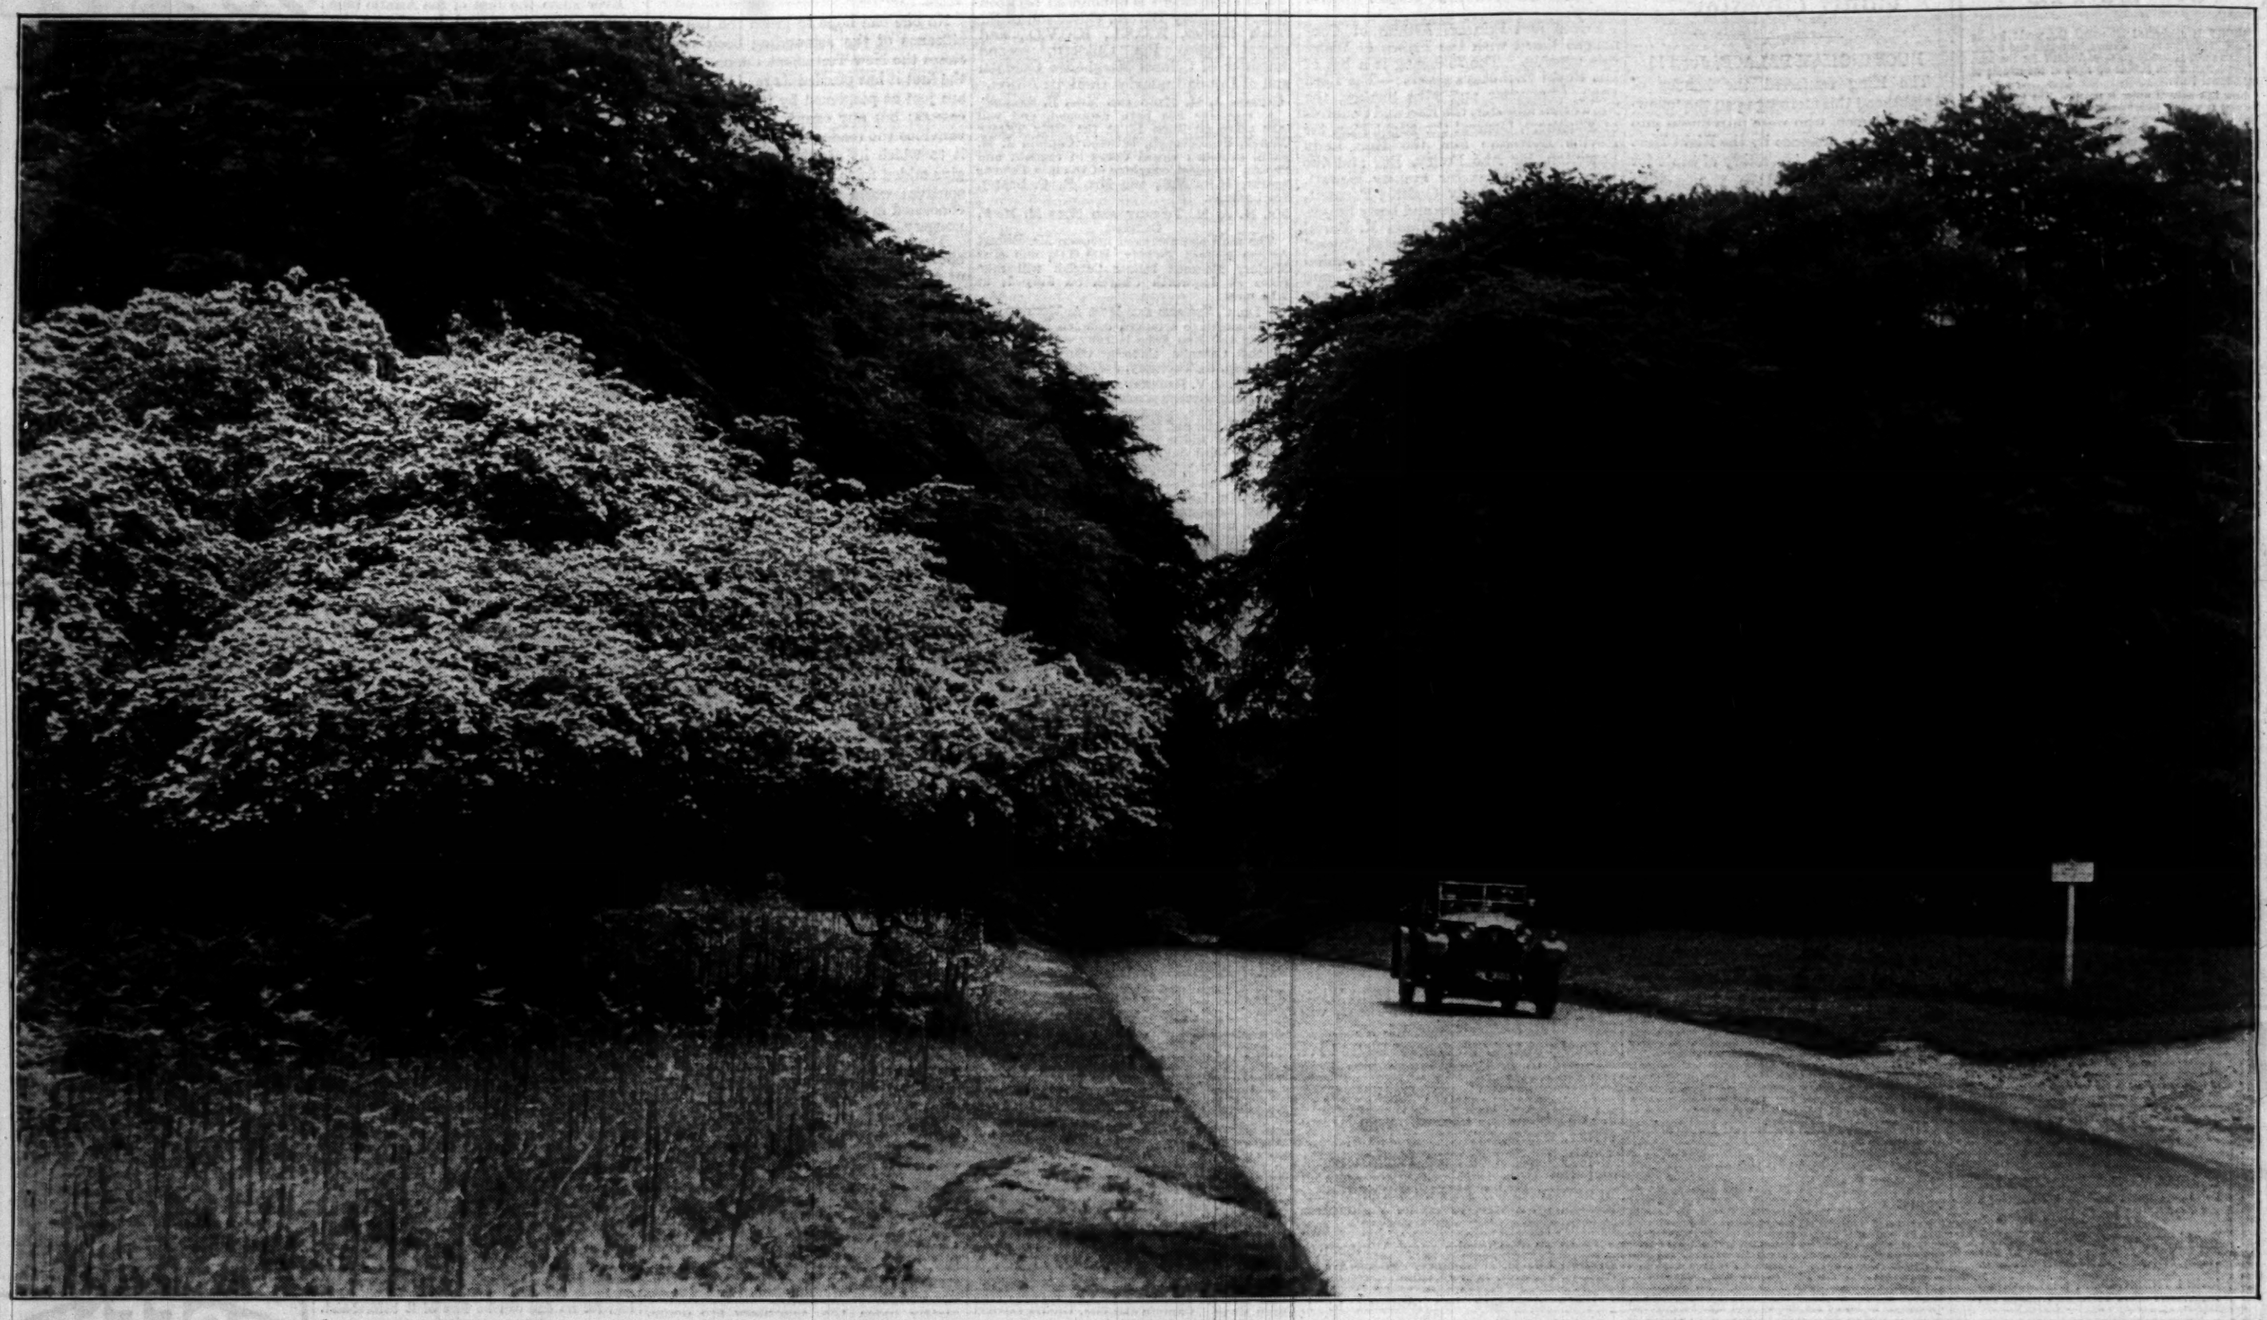
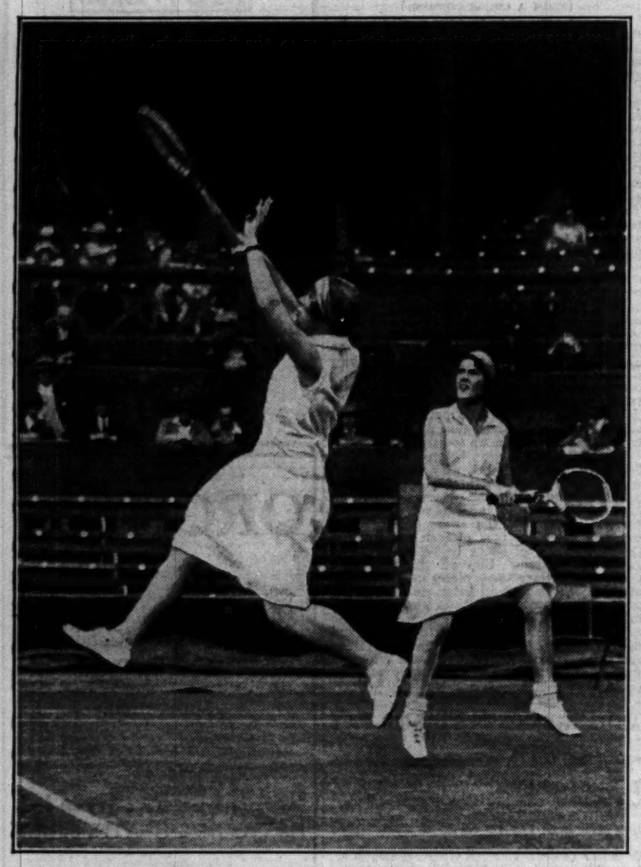
ON THE BATH ROAD



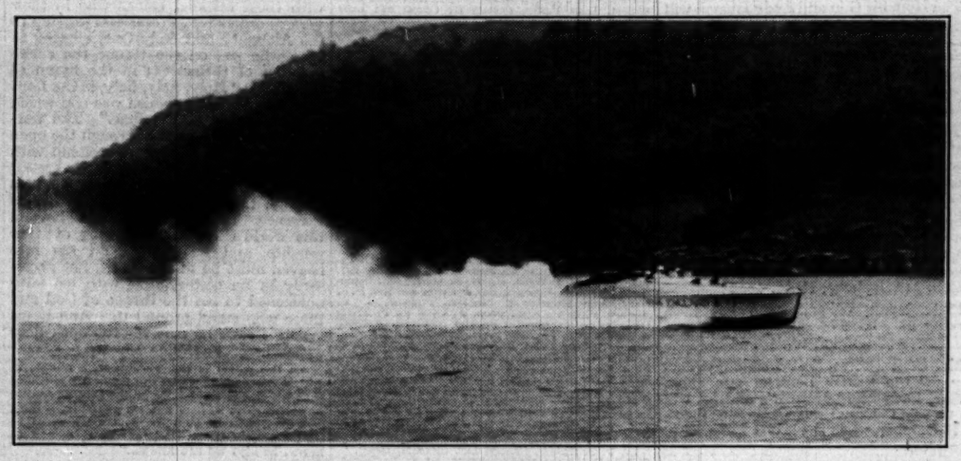
IN SAVERNAKE FOREST.—Protests have appeared recently in our correspondence columns against the proposal of the Wiltshire County Council to widen the London-Bath Road in their area. It is suggested that if the scheme is proceeded with the beautiful stretch of highway passing through Savernake Forest will be turned into a motor track. Our photograph was taken on the Bath Road near the Grand Avenue at the Marlborough end of Savernake Forest, looking in the direction of Hungerford.

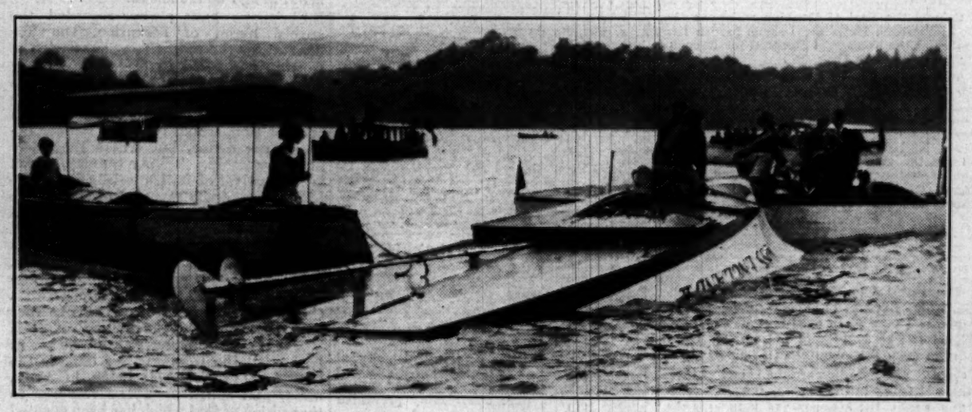
THE TEST MATCH



THE WIGHTMAN CUP.—The eighth match for the Wightman Cup opened at Wimbledon yesterday. Miss Cross (taking the ball) and Miss Palfrey, the young United States player, are seen in their match against Miss Fry and Miss Harvey, who were the winners.

SPEED BOAT DISASTER





SIR HENRY SEGRAVE'S DEATH.—Miss England II., the speed boat in which Sir Henry Segrave yesterday beat the world's speed record on water, capsized and sank while travelling at about 100 miles an hour on Windermere. Sir Henry Segrave was rescued, but died afterwards from his injuries, and Mr. A. V. Halliwell, a mechanic, was killed. Mr. M. Wilcocks, another mechanic, was injured. Our top picture was taken just before the accident occurred, when the boat was about 50 yards from where it capsized. The lower picture shows rescue work in progress. The damaged bottom of the overturned boat will be noticed, while the propeller appears intact.

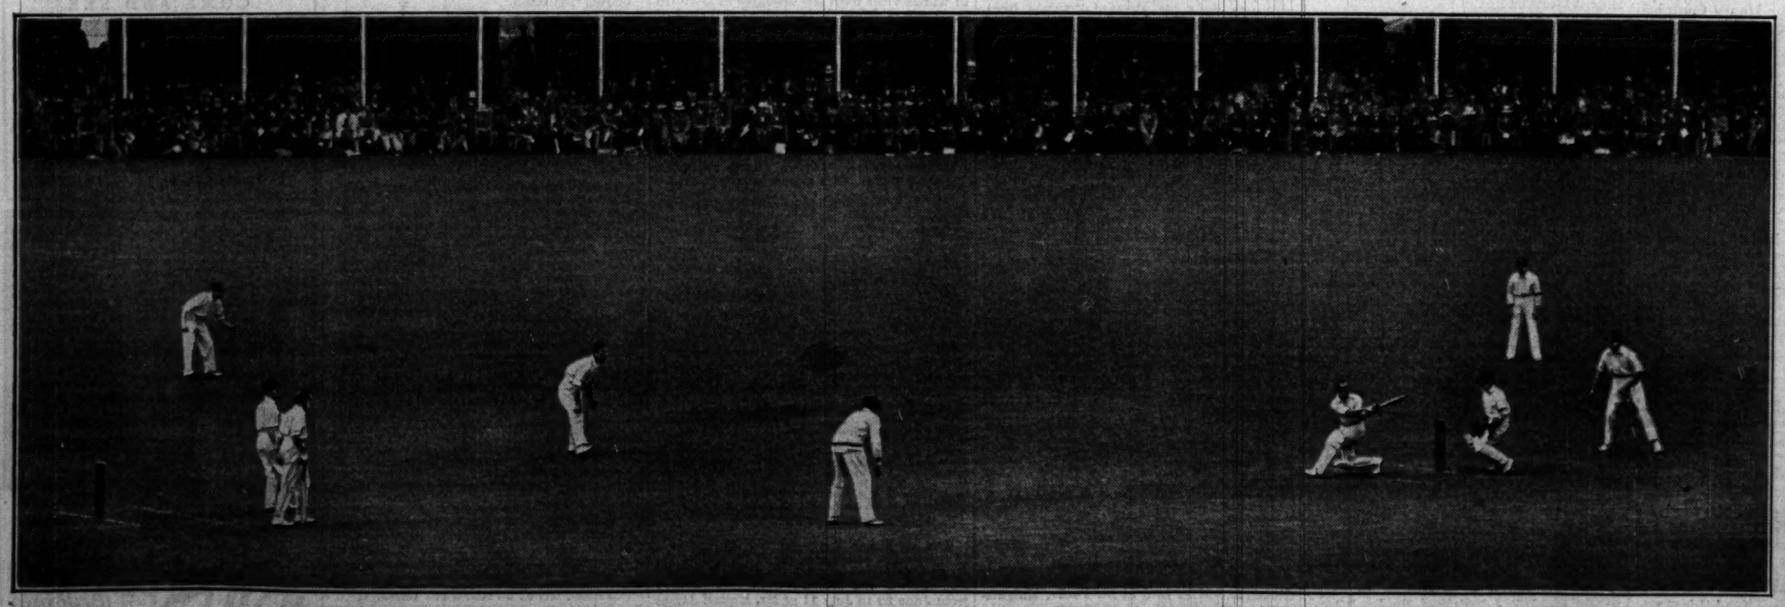
THE CREW OF MISS ENGLAND II.—Sir Henry Segrave photographed at Windermere with Mr. Halliwell (left), who was killed, and Mr. Wilcocks. Before the accident occurred yesterday Miss England II. had set up a new record by covering the measured mile twice at a mean speed of 98.76 miles an hour.



HOBBS HITS A BOUNDARY.—England made a poor start in the first Test Match at Nottingham yesterday, four wickets falling for 71 runs, but Hobbs and Chapman saved the side from collapse, the former scoring 78 and the latter 52. At the close of play, which was interrupted by rain, England were 241 for eight. In the large photograph Hobbs is seen hitting a boundary off Grimmett. Sutcliffe, who scored 29, is the other batsman. On the right Hobbs and Chapman are going out to bat after luncheon.

ECCLESIASTICAL NEWS

CHURCH APPOINTMENTS

The REV. C. K. WALLER, rector of St. Andrew's, Romford, has been appointed perpetual curate of the adjoining parish of Hornchurch.

The REV. F. H. TATHAM has been instituted to the united benefice of Great Ryburgh and Little Ryburgh with Gateley and Testerton, Norfolk.

The REV. E. G. LANGDALE has been instituted to the rectory of Haynford, Norfolk, on the presentation of Mrs. R. K. Birkbeck.

The REV. L. W. HART has been instituted to the rectory of East Harling with West Harling, Norfolk.

THE CHURCH IN CEYLON

The BISHOP of COLOMBO (Dr. Carpenter-Garnier), speaking yesterday at a meeting of the Colombo Association at Church House, Westminster, said he looked forward to the day when the Church of Ceylon would be possessed and governed by the people of that country, when there would be more than one Bishop, and they would be sons of Ceylon. They in Ceylon were a Church at peace among themselves. He was sure that if the Church out there could speak to its mother Church of England, it would say "Hurry up and get disestablished. You will be much happier if you are. Take a leaf out of our book." It was a happy position to belong to a disestablished Church—a Church that was free to govern itself.

NOTES

On Wednesday the Bishop of Willochra (Australia) will preach in the Church of St. Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe, Queen Victoria-street, E.C., at 6 p.m.

A commemoration of the signing of Magna Carta will take place at 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Mary-le-Bow. Dr. Whitney, Dixie Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the University of Cambridge, will preach.

The Mayor, Aldermen, and councillors of the borough of Lambeth will attend officially the morning service at St. Luke's Church, West Norwood, to-morrow, at 11. Councillor the Rev. W. H. Heaton-Renshaw will preach.

Unless otherwise stated, the gardens are open from 11 to 7 on weekdays and from 2 to 7 on Sundays. The price of admission is usually 1s.; for gardens marked with an asterisk it is 6d. Where the house is shown a small extra fee is charged. Full lists of gardens for the season may be obtained from the Queen's Institute of District Nursing, 58, Victoria-street, London, S.W.1 (Telephone, Victoria 0685).

The gardens at the Manor House, Stanmore, Middlesex, which are to be open to the public between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, are only half an hour by omnibus or railway from London. They belong to Mr. Samuel Wallrock, and have been transformed from meadowland to a horticultural masterpiece within ten years. They include an alpine garden unequalled in England, an exquisite water-garden, a rose garden, my lady's garden, which contains 20,000 plants, and a grotto which recalls the Cheddar Caves.

REPARATION LOAN SUCCESS

TREASURY BILL RESULTS

The application lists for the £12,000,000 German Government International Five-and-a-Half per Cent. Loan—the Reparations loan—which were opened yesterday morning, were closed yesterday at 1 o'clock, by which time the amount had been over-subscribed. Allotment letters will be posted during the week-end, and dealings on the Stock Exchange will begin on Monday. The scrip will be dealt in for settlement on July 10, by which time it will be paid up to the extent of 30 per cent. The reason for dealing for this date instead of for earlier settlement is that not until then will the scrip be on a uniform basis. If dealings were made for earlier settlement the amount paid up on the bonds might, and probably would, vary, because, as stated in the prospectus, in cases of partial allotment the balance of the amount paid as deposit will be applied towards payment of the first instalment of 25 per cent., which falls due on July 3. The loan met with a better and quicker response than some people had anticipated.

Higher Treasury Bill Rate

This week a fairly big step has been taken to bring the open market discount rate into a more normal relationship to the official rate, the average rate at which Treasury Bills were allotted at yesterday's weekly sale being over 5s. per cent. higher than a week ago. Compared with a fortnight ago the advance is nearly 7s. The amount offered for sale yesterday was £35,000,000 and tenders amounted to £39,375,000. The whole amount was allotted, the average rate of discount being £2 8s. 10.06d. per cent., against £2 3s. 6.59d. per cent. a week ago. Tenders at £99 7s. 7d. for bills to be paid for on any of the first five days of next week will receive about 92 per cent., and those at £99 7s. 9d. for bills to be paid for to-day week will receive allotment in full. Next Friday the amount of Treasury Bills to be offered for sale will again be £35,000,000. The main reason for the rise in the discount rate is that the supply of bills, which had been very scarce, is gradually increasing. Thus next week the amount of Treasury Bills to be paid for is about £7,500,000 in excess of the amount to be paid off, while in the following week only £30,000,000 will mature, whereas £35,000,000, if the full amount is allotted, will have to be paid for.

The Banks' Bill Holdings

As anticipated in these columns, the London Clearing Banks' statements for May show a further substantial increase in the holding of bills. For some time down to March bill holdings had been appreciably less than in the corresponding month of the previous year, but in April this position underwent a change, the amount then being greater than for the same month of 1929. In May the bill holdings rose sharply from £209,571,000 to £248,028,000, while as compared with the total a year ago the increase amounts to £50,878,000. The increase in bills is responsible for an expansion of over £30,000,000 in the deposits as compared with the previous month, and of over £10,000,000 as compared with a year before. In May last year the deposits were £11,000,000 less than in April. Advances continued to decline last month, the total falling by £11,883,000 to £972,370,000, while their proportion to deposits dropped from 56.2 to 54.6 per cent. Compared with May last year the decline in advances is nearly £20,000,000, public issues of capital having resulted in the repayment of bank loans. Investments, which for some months had shown a tendency to decrease, increased last month by over £6,000,000, although the total is substantially less than it was a year ago. An increase in investments is a normal movement during periods of cheap money. Money employed in the short-loan market shows an increase of about £3,500,000 on the month, but a decline of over £6,000,000 on May last year.

Riga's Prolonged Default

The long-suffering holders of Riga Four-and-a-Half per Cent. bonds will read with interest a telegram from our correspondent at Riga to the effect that the Latvian Government appears to be desirous that the long outstanding default of the capital should be settled. There is no dispute that Riga borrowed the money in 1912 at a moderate rate of interest, that that city is one of the wealthiest on the Baltic, and there is no question of her ability to pay, but only of the will to do so. The amount of the outstanding debt is £1,281,800, and there are 12½ years of arrears of interest. In February, 1926, a well-known chartered accountant went to Riga to investigate the city's finances. A certain amount of information as to his report leaked out in the Riga press, and from this it appeared that Riga was in a position, if she chose, to meet her obligations. The more farsighted Latvians realize that a settlement has been delayed much too long. It is unquestionably in the interests of Riga and Latvia that the default should be ended soon on terms acceptable to the bondholders, for the default is regarded as one of the worst outside Soviet Russia.

Modder Deep and Geduld Dividends

Interim dividends declared yesterday by the two principal gold producers under the control of the Union Corporation were of a satisfactory nature. Modderfontein Deep Levels is paying 65 per cent. (actual) for the six months. This highly successful mine has for each of the past five years rewarded its shareholders with dividends of 135 per cent., of which 65 per cent. has been announced in June and 70 per cent. in December. Upon the shares of Geduld Proprietary Mines the interim dividend is 16½ per cent., which represents a restoration of the rate paid two years ago. Last year's slight reduction to 15 per cent. was due to the increase recently made in the company's capital, but in view of the steady growth shown in profits quarter by quarter, the higher payment now proposed is not surprising. For the whole of 1929 the company paid 31½ per cent. compared with 33⅓ per cent. for 1928.

Goldsbrough Mort's Lower Profits

The cabled announcement from Melbourne of the results of Goldsbrough Mort and Co., Australian wool, grain, and produce brokers and stock and station agents, for the 12 months ended March 31, show a reduction in net profits of 38 per cent. The total is £209,641, compared with £338,609 for 1928-29. This decrease in profits is the outcome of the less favourable conditions in the wool market during 1929 and the general depression in Australian trade. For the previous eight years shareholders received, in addition to a dividend of 10 per cent., a bonus of 5 per cent., but the bonus is now omitted, the distribution being confined to the 10 per cent. dividend. The amount carried forward is approximately the same as that brought in to the accounts. Last November the company issued additional Ordinary capital to the amount of £400,000, but the new shares do not rank for dividend until the half-year ending September 30 next. Thanks to the appropriation of large amounts to reserves in past years the company possesses reserve funds exceeding £1,700,000. The principal item among its assets is the advances on stock and station properties, which in the last balance-sheet stood at £5,031,221.

Management of the Royal Mail

In connexion with the public announcement that a committee has been set up to confer with the court of directors of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company we are given to understand that there is no intention of interfering in any way with the technical management of the working of the company, which will continue under Mr. P. G. Milne Mitchell, general manager and director. As was pointed out in these columns on Thursday, the quality of the shipping services is second to none. The company has earned a high reputation throughout the world for excellent passenger and cargo services which has stood it in good stead during the recent years of severe depression in commerce and acute competition in the South American route of lines of various nationalities. The management of liner business is, naturally, highly specialized work, and the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company is fortunate in possessing an expert staff which has given devoted service. The company has great traditions, and generation after generation of shipping men have been proud to serve under its flag ashore and afloat. If, in short, the finance of the group had enjoyed the same confidence that the operating side merited there would have been no need for the measures which have been announced this week.

Provision Merchants' Set-back

It was stated yesterday by Lovell and Christmas that owing to a decrease in profits resulting from the fall in the value of commodities dealt in and the necessity for conserving the finances of the company no further dividend will be paid on the Ordinary shares in respect of the financial year just ending. Although it is easy to believe that the instability of commodity prices must have been a severe handicap to the company, this news is likely to be a great disappointment to the shareholders, for Lovell and Christmas has for many years been a consistent dividend payer. With the exception of 1926-27, when the rate dropped to 7 per cent., the Ordinary shares have received not less than 10 per cent. for a number of years past. The dividend for the past year will be limited to the 2 per cent. already paid as an interim distribution. The issued capital of the company is £1,500,000, divided into £750,000 of Six per Cent. Cumulative Preference shares and £750,000 of Ordinary shares.

Favourable Tea Reports

Two well-known Indian tea-planting companies, Makum and Nedeem, the former owning estates in Assam and the latter in Dooars, have published favourable reports for 1929. The results of the companies for the past two years are shown in the following table:—

—	Makum		Nedeem
	1929	1928	1929	1928
Crop (lb.)	1,975,395	1,752,111	6,702,549	* 5,917,256

† Respective prices for the teas.
* For crop sold in Calcutta from the company's two gardens.
‡ For crop sold in London.

In each instance the effect of lower prices was more than offset by increased crops. In the case of Nedeem the actual revenue for the year was £54,305, against £50,046. Favourable weather conditions contributed to the larger crops. Latest London stock statistics show a further decline in stocks to 215,037,482lb. on May 31. On the corresponding date last year they were 197,457,238lb. Stocks should continue to decline for some little time to come, while additions from the new crop when it begins to come forward should be on a smaller scale than a year ago in view of the restriction scheme.

Fire Insurance on the Continent

The annual report of the Swiss Reinsurance Company is noteworthy since the enterprise does a considerable business, and the report describes conditions in various forms of insurance. It points out that last year the results of fire insurance were disappointing in most of the European fields, and that in some territories the losses were considerable. The company felt, besides the influence of an unsatisfactory economic situation, the effects of a continued reduction in premium rates, as well as of an increased cost of transacting the business. General foreign business was somewhat less profitable than in previous years, while work in the United States produced satisfactory results, although insurance companies there were faced with the problem of a falling off in premium rates and a rise in the expense ratio. Hail insurance suffered from the effects of exceptional atmospheric conditions and considerable losses resulted—chiefly in the South of Germany, France, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, and also in Switzerland.

Marine and Accident Accounts

The marine account, it is stated, continued to be unprofitable, and the "company congratulates itself once more" on the relatively moderate volume of the business it has transacted. The unsatisfactory experience which this department has shown for a number of years has had the effect of "bringing about a shortage of cover to direct and reinsurance companies which is becoming more embarrassing. It is to be hoped that this will assist towards the establishment of healthier conditions." The rates charged for personal accident business on the Continent have not, it is stated, yet undergone the increase which is considered necessary, and the report adds that "it has been apparent for some time past that the rates which are now charged no longer correspond to the increased risk arising out of modern traffic conditions." As regards third-party liability the Swiss company writes that although increases in rates in recent years have had some effect in certain parts of Europe, "considerable efforts still remain to be made before this branch will show normal conditions."

GERMAN BONDS

NEW YORK SUBSCRIPTION

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

NEW YORK, JUNE 13

Between 900 and 1,000 orders from banks and investment houses throughout the country were received yesterday for German annuities bonds by a syndicate which brought out American allotment amounting to $98,250,000. Subscription lists were closed in less than two hours after they had been opened. Several foreign banks made application for blocks of bonds, but syndicate managers refused their order in favour of domestic buyers.

In trading on a "when issued" basis on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday bonds sold as high as 91¼ and closed at 90⅞, or five-eighths of a point above public offering prices. The premium decreased slightly more in to-day's dealings.

STOCK EXCHANGE

INDIA LOANS FIRM

CABLES AND WIRELESS WEAK

The early closing of the lists for the Reparations Loan owing to over-subscription had a steadying influence upon high-class securities yesterday. Several British Government stocks were quoted higher, and a decided improvement occurred in Indian Government loans, support for which was forthcoming from Indian sources. There was, however, little indication of a change for the better in the stock markets as a whole. While movements were small the majority of changes that took place in standard industrial shares were adverse to holders, the facts disclosed at recent company meetings as to the high costs with which British industry is burdened as compared with its rivals attracting considerable attention. A further fall occurred in the stocks of Cables and Wireless, and the market awaits the forthcoming report. In some quarters this is expected very shortly. A rather sharp fall in the Rio exchange led to weakness in Brazilian securities, while the adverse character of the movement in the Argentine peso added to the weight exerted by poor traffic returns in depressing Argentine railway stocks. Lower prices for tin and copper kept the Mining markets in shadow.

The GILT-EDGED market was slightly firmer, but dealers were unable to report much increase in the investment demand. The Five per Cent. War Loan rose 1-16 to 102 7-16, and small gains took place in the Conversion Loans, the Three-and-a-Half per Cents. being quoted at 77½, the Four-and-a-Half per Cents. at 98⅛, and the Five per Cents. at 103⅜. A further recovery occurred in India stocks, buying orders being received on Indian account. Prices of the Three-and-a-Half per Cents. (62½), Three per Cents. (53⅛), and the two series of Four-and-a-Half per Cents. were each quoted a point higher. The scrip of the new Six per Cent., 1933-35, loan hardened to 1¼ premium.

The HOME RAILWAY market remained out of favour. After showing rallying symptoms in the morning, prices again began to recede, and on balance generally showed falls of ¼ to ½. Underground Electric shares exceptionally were inquired for on the company's favourable traffic position, and the price improved to 23s.

In the FOREIGN market one or two Brazilian loans were quoted lower on the fall in the Rio exchange; the chief movement took place in the Six-and-a-Half per Cents. of 1927, which fell 1½ to 85⅞. Chinese bonds of 1898 and 1912 were firmer, the last-named gaining two points at 43. Portuguese Three per Cents., First Series, moved up to 48. The influence of the lower exchange was reflected in prices of Brazilian railway stocks, Leopoldina declining to 46½ and San Paulo to 181. Argentine rails continued weak, a further fall of a point being marked in Central Argentine (66½). Antofagasta fell to 82½. United of Havana was quoted 1½ higher at 10-13.

The tone for OIL shares as a whole was steady. Royal Dutch closed the "turn" harder at 32½, and no change was shown on balance in Shell, Burmah, or Anglo-Persian. Anglo-Egyptian "B" were again easier at 2½. Eagle shares closed a trifle easier, Canadian being 12s. 4½d. and Mexican 12s. 6d. British Controlled Preferred were firmer at 7s. 4½d.

The price of rubber made a further slight recovery to 6 3-16d., but the share market made little or no response, it being feared that the return of English stocks to be published on Monday would show an increase of 1,500 to 1,800 tons on the week.

RISE IN GENERAL ELECTRIC

With one or two exceptions the INDUSTRIAL market continued heavy in tone, but movements in prices were individually of small importance. The stocks of the Royal Mail Company rallied to a further extent, gains of 2 to 3 points being marked in the Six-and-a-Half per Cent. Preference (27-37), the Five per Cent. Preference (25-35), and the Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Debenture (70-80). The Five per Cents. Debenture stock, after the very sharp rise of the previous day, reacted 2 to 58-68. A rise of a point to 18½ took place in the Ordinary. TEXTILE shares weakened on the speech of the chairman of J. and P. Coats. English Sewing Cotton fell to 1 23-32, and Coats gave way 1s. to 59s. Courtaulds remained steady at 2 3-16. Imperial Chemical at one time fell to 22s. 6d., but recovered later to the previous day's price of 23s. 6d. A further fairly general fall of small extent took place in the COAL, IRON, and STEEL group, and among MOTOR shares Leyland went back to 70s. 9d., and Austin to 24s. 3d. General Electric were strong on the declaration of a bonus, the shares rising 2s. 9d. to 51s. 9d. Callenders', British Insulated, and Henley's were quoted slightly lower. Little change occurred in the International group; prices of Nickel (27½), United Molasses (3 1-16), Unilever (2½), and Kreuger and Toll (28½) showed fractional improvements, while Columbia Graphophone (4 5-16) and Gramophone (4 5-32) showed small losses. Continued weakness characterized the market for Cables and Wireless stocks; the Preference were quoted a point lower at 88, and the "A" (37½) and "B" (17) fell ½ and 1 respectively. STORE shares continued out of favour, prices again declining; John Barker exceptionally rallied to 62s. 6d. In the BREWERY group Watney Deferred hardened to 61s., but lower prices were quoted for several other leading shares, including Guinness (102s. 9d.), Distillers (66s. 6d.), and Mitchells and Butler's (56s.). There were dealings in the new shares of Alexanders Discount Company at ¼ premium.

The RHODESIAN COPPER group was again subjected to selling. The new capital proposals of Rhodesian Anglo-American caused a fall in that company's shares of 3-32 to 1 9-32, while Bwana fell to 14s. 6d., N'Changa to 2⅛, Congo Border to 14½, and Chartered to 34s. 1½d. Transvaal mining shares moved irregularly. There was support from Johannesburg for the Modder group, and a continuance of local inquiry for East Rand, Geduld, Brakpan, and Consolidated Main Reef also received a little support. On the other hand, one or two finance companies' shares were offered, including Anglo-American and Rand Selection. Diamond shares were steadier, De Beers improving to 7 13-16. TIN and COPPER shares were affected by the further fall which took place in those metals. Rio Tinto gave way more than a point to 35½.

AUSTRALIAN £10,000,000 LOAN

INTERNAL OFFER NEXT WEEK

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT)

CANBERRA, JUNE 13

The £10,000,000 loan will be opened on Monday. It will not be underwritten, but this has no significance, as the March conversion issue was made in similar conditions. The terms offered are apparently considered attractive.

 Our Correspondent cabled on June 10 that the Commonwealth Loan Council had decided to approach the Australian market for a loan of £10,000,000. The loan, which is to be issued at par, will bear interest at 6 per cent., and will have a currency of eight years.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT)

MONTREAL, June 13.—After a quiet opening with mostly fractional price changes, the market eased under scattered selling, chiefly due to the absence of outside speculative interest and the lack of any news of a stimulating nature. Dominion Bridge was chiefly affected by the early selling.

The money market was easy, call loans ruling at 2½ per cent. throughout the session. Time money was quoted 2½ to 3½ per cent., according to maturity. Commercial paper remained at 3½ per cent. for prime names. Open market discount rates were unchanged at 2½ to 2½ per cent. for 90-day Bank bills, and 2½ to 2½ per cent. for six months bills.

Sterling exchange was firmer, cable transfers closing at 4.85 15-16.

Silver fell ¼c. to 34½c. for foreign bullion.

BONDS continued to show a firm tone though rather less active. Sales reached $9,783,000.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

STEADIER TONE

NEW YORK, June 13.—There was a material shrinkage in the volume of transactions to-day, the sales being returned at 2,218,000 shares. Professional shorts were much less aggressive, and although declines occurred early in the session, prices readily responded to the appearance of moderate support, indicating a stronger technical situation.

Although the opening was irregular, the market had a firmer tone, reflecting yesterday's better resistance and the reduction in brokers' loans, which attracted a moderate accumulation of overnight buying orders. Soon afterwards a wave of professional selling engulfed sectional support, and most of the speculative leaders fell to around the low point of the current reaction. Public utility stocks were a particular target, the belief being expressed that the public utility group was vulnerable owing to the comparatively high market position as compared with current earnings. Selling, however, lacked the usual persistency, and the subsidence of offerings encouraged buying in anticipation of a rally, many believing that the bulk of liquidation has been completed. The absorption of offerings made the market susceptible to any improvement in the demand, and some quick rebounds were registered, notably Steel Common, which rallied to 165.

The list continued to creep upward during the afternoon on a small turnover. The failure of the news of a further bad break in wheat to stimulate a resumption of selling pressure helped to strengthen sentiment and rumours that the Senate would probably pass the Tariff Bill stimulated covering in the expectation that the removal of the unsettling tariff matter will substantially improve general sentiment. Bull support for oil stocks was encouraged by reports that plans are being formulated for concerted curtailment of output in Oklahoma until October and in California until November. Scattered realizing was noticeable towards the end of the session causing slight declines, but the close was steady. After the close of the market the news was received that the Senate had approved the Tariff Bill.

FOREIGN TRADE IN MAY

LOWER VALUES

FALL IN MANUFACTURED EXPORTS

The trade returns for the past month compared with the figures for May, 1929, which included one working day fewer than last month, show a fall in imports of £12,386,000 (or 11·9 per cent.), in British exports of £16,424,000 (or 24·3 per cent.), and in re-exports of £1,396,000 (or 12·9 per cent.). Lower prices account for much of the decline. Compared with the figures for the preceding month, which had three working days fewer than May, imports advanced in value by £7,115,000, or 8·4 per cent., British exports rose by £4,151,000, or 8·8 per cent., and re-exports were higher by £1,231,000, or 15·7 per cent.

The apparent adverse balance of trade, excluding movements of bullion and coin, was for the month £30,950,000, as compared with £25,515,000 in May, 1929, and £29,217,000 in April last; and for the five months ended May £154,921,000, against £153,604,000 in 1929 and £154,218,000 in 1928.

MONEY MARKET

DISCOUNTS AGAIN HIGHER

ARGENTINE EXCHANGE WEAKNESS

The sharp advance in yesterday's Treasury Bill rate reacted on market rates, and three months fine bank bills were finally as high as 2 7-16 to 2¼ per cent. The upward turn in rates, coupled with dearer money, has checked purchases of bills, and the approach of the end of the half-year serves to restrict the bill requirements of the banks. Banks yesterday limited their purchases to a few August maturities, which they bought at 2¼ per cent., and some July bills, which were taken at 2⅛ per cent. "Hot" Treasury Bills were offered in the morning up to 2⅜ per cent.; a small demand for 90-day bank bills at 2¼ per cent. was reported on account of French banks early in the day. Money was in larger supply. During the morning 2 per cent. was the general charge for both new and old day-to-day loans, but in the afternoon balances were offered at 1½ per cent. and finally at 1½ per cent. The New York exchange continued to move in favour of sterling. Argentine currency depreciated further, the Buenos Aires rate falling to 41 13-16d., or nearly 6d. below parity.

The Bank rate is 3 per cent., to which it was reduced from 3½ per cent. on May 1. The banks' deposit rate is 1 per cent. and the deposit rates of the discount houses are 1 per cent. at call and 1½ per cent. at notice.

FOREIGN EXCHANGES

The New York exchange is clearly responding to the rising tendency of discount rates in London, and yesterday it rose to $4.85 15/16, closing at $4.85 29/32, compared with $4.85 27/32 on Thursday. The discount on forward dollars was 1/16c. one month, and 7/32c. three months. French francs showed little movement, the rate closing unaltered at 123.81¼f. On the other hand, the Belgian rate moved in favour of sterling, closing at 34.82¼b. The Italian exchange was also higher at 92.76¼l. After a rally Spanish pesetas lost their recovery, the Madrid rate closing without change at 41.02½p. At 20.36¼m. the German exchange was slightly higher. Among the South American exchanges weakness was again apparent in Argentine currency, the Buenos Aires rate further declining 3/16d. to 41 13/16d., or nearly 6d. below parity. The Rio exchange again moved against Brazil, closing at 5 17/32d.

IRON AND STEEL OUTPUT

FEWER FURNACES IN BLAST

The production of pig iron in the United Kingdom in May amounted to 614,500 tons, compared with 619,600 tons in April and 654,800 tons in May, 1929. The daily rate of production in May was thus 19,823 tons, compared with 20,653 tons in April. The production included 187,700 tons of hematite, 248,300 tons of basic, 130,700 tons of foundry, and 23,800 tons of forge pig iron. The number of furnaces in blast at the end of May was 141, a decrease of 10 since the beginning of the month.

The May output of steel ingots and castings amounted to 692,800 tons, compared with 696,100 tons in April and 843,800 tons in May, 1929.

The following table compiled by the National Federation of Iron and Steel Manufacturers shows the average monthly production of pig iron and steel ingots and castings in 1913 to 1920, 1927 to 1929, and the production in each month since May, 1929.
